Vietnamese Try to Lift Siege of Fire Base 6

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Some 2,000 South Vietnamese troops launched a drive today to lift the two-week-old siege of Fire Base 6 in the central highlands after U.S. B52 bombers prepared the way with 600 tons of bombs.

The big bombers attacked North Vietnamese positions within a mile of the eastern side of the base close to the Laotian and Cambodian borders. It was the heaviest B52 attack in the central highlands in nearly a year.

Four battalions from South Vietnam's 22nd Infantry Division moved up for the drive to relieve the less than two battalions hanging on at Fire Base 6. But no ground contact with the enemy was reported.

Ready Reserve

With elements of two North Vietnamese infantry regiments and one artillery regiment reported in the area, some South Vietnamese paratroop units which participated in the Laotian invasion were flown from Quang Tri to the central highlands as a ready reserve force.

U.S. C130 cargo planes dropped two more 15,000-pound blockbuster bombs on North Vietnamese troop concentrations on the western side of the base. Two of the big bombs were dropped on enemy positions Monday, the first time in the war that 15,000-pounders had been used against troops. Heretofore, the bombs had been used to blast out landing zones for helicopters in the jungles; the biggest bomb used against enemy positions had been 3,000 pounds.

Reassess Progress

U.S. officials were reassessing the progress of the Vietnamization program in the light of the disappointing South Vietnamese performance in Laos and the current enemy offensive in the highlands. Informed sources said as a result, reduction of the 40,500 U.S. Air Force personnel still in Vietnam will likely be kept to a minimum during the 100,000-man cutback President Nixon has programmed for May 1-Dec. 1. They said that perhaps only one air wing would be pulled out.

To increase the effectiveness of its support for the South Vietnamese and its protection for the diminishing American forces, the U.S. 7th Air Force is planning a reorganization and consolidation of its squadrons in South Vietnam.

Certain types of aircraft will be grouped at central points instead of being spread over the country. The sources said this should result in speedier maintenance, keep more planes in the air and help offset the reduction in American strength.

Major Weakness

Both the Laotian operation and the defense against the current enemy offensive in the central highlands point up one major weakness in the Vietnamization program: the continuing South Vietnamese dependence on American air power. U.S. officials say the South Vietnamese air force does not yet have enough planes or firepower to do the job by itself.

U.S. B52 bombers and tactical fighter-bombers have helped contain the offensive in the highlands and apparently have kept Fire Base 6 from being overrun a second time. While South Vietnamese fighter-bombers fly some missions in support of the base, U.S. bombers do the bulk of the job.

U.S. helicopters also have played a prominent role in the defense of the base, providing gunship support and supplying the base under heavy fire.

The U.S. Command said American helicopters also flew 460 missions in eastern Cambodia Monday, nearly all of them gunship raids in support of seven South Vietnamese task forces operating across the border.

Predawn Attack

The helicopter gunships and American fighter-bombers helped repulse one predawn attack near the town of Suong, on Highway Seven, 105 miles northwest of Saigon. South Vietnamese military headquarters said 148 North Vietnamese soldiers were killed and 10 weapons were captured. Sixteen South Vietnamese were killed and 38 wounded.

Investments Paying Off

By ARTHUR L. SRB
Associated Press Writer

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Hand 12 university students $96,000 to invest as they see fit and what do you get?

About $18,000 in profits in slightly more than four months.

The project is part of a University of Wisconsin Business School course designed to give investment class students practical experience in dealing with the market.

So far, it's been a bullish success.

One of two six-student teams has realized an increase in its assets of 22.5 per cent since Nov. 30, compared with a 17.2 per cent gain for the New York Stock Exchange composite and a 15.7 per cent growth by Standard and Poor's 425 index, according to the business school.

The investment course was started last year after a former Wisconsin student, Baird Brittingham of Wilmington, Del., suggested investment students should practice what they learn by using the real thing—money.

From 32 applicants, the business school selected 12 students and split them into two six-man teams.

Using money contributed by Brittingham, the school gave each team $48,000 for investment and $2,000 for expenses, such as interviewing business management personnel. One team was designated the Wisco Fund and the other the Badger Fund.

Fund Assets

Ground rules were simple. The groups could invest in anything they wanted except commodities. They could not borrow money to buy stocks.

As of April 2, the Wisco Fund's assets were $59,074 and the Badger Fund's $55,064, the latter representing a gain of 10.1 per cent over the $48,000 received on Nov. 30.

Will the students be better investors because of their experience?

"Undoubtedly," said Stephen Hawk, one of three associate professors supervising the class. "These students have learned a lot of practical things."

Profits probably will be reflected in the grades earned by the students when the class investments end May 15. But the money will remain with the business school. Any loss will be absorbed by the university, Hawk said.

"Of course," he said, "if the students get the fund up to a half million dollars, we'll start making donations to scholarship funds for the School of Business."

President Still Reluctant to Step Into Wage-Price Arena

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's third "inflation alert" is expected to disclose whether the administration is ready to step onto once-taboo ground by spotlighting pending wage and price increases.

Evidence suggests the President is reluctant to go that far in using his office to comment in such a sensitive area, although wage demands in the steel industry provide him the opportunity.

Union leaders in the steel industry are seeking a 32-per-cent wage increase over a three-year period, with the contract deadline due to expire Aug. 1.

But a steel strike would drain a lot from the nation's economy, something the President wants to avoid if he is to deliver the good year he has pledged for the economy.

After-Fact Comment

The inflation alert is a vehicle Nixon adopted last year while the cost of living was still soaring. So far it has been nothing more than after-the-fact comments on wage and price movements in the economy.

The first such report was more philosophical than specific. The second, issued late last year, spotlighted wage and price decisions in the oil, airline, railroad, and copper industries, among others.

This time, Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers has been working on throwing the White House spotlight on lumber-price increases, steel-price boosts and a wage settlement in the can industry.

Release Report

As the White House prepared to release the report, opposition mounted to Nixon's granting business a tax break on depreciating equipment.

Walter W. Heller, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers under President John F. Kennedy, said in a statement the $3.6-billion-a-year tax break could be inflationary and actually could harm business investment in the short run.

"This looks to me like the wrong tax cut in the wrong way at the wrong time," Heller said.

Heller said doubts about Nixon's authority to put the plan into effect without congressional approval "will have a chilling effect on investment plans," thus reducing its economic impact.

Heller joined a coordinated fight against the depreciation proposal, led by consumer advocate Ralph Nader and a "public-interest tax lobby" called Taxation with Representation.

Nixon's plan would allow businesses to claim 20 per cent faster tax writeoffs on their machinery and equipment for depreciation purposes. Over 10 years, it would cause a $36-billion-plus revenue loss to the Treasury.

The Internal Revenue Service will hold a public hearing on the plan May 3, but the administration has assured businesses the depreciation system will go into effect with no substantial changes.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, said he will introduce a bil Wednesday to prohibit the administration from putting the plan into effect.

But business groups counterattacked, with one, the Tax Council, saying opposition to the plan is ill-conceived and shortsighted.

John C. Davidson, council president, said the new regulations are "soundly conceived and are needed both to quicken business interest in new capital outlays and to finance the outlays as they develop."

West Is Too Mighty

Pakistan Resistance Fading

By DENNIS NEELD
Associated Press Writer

CHUADANGA, East Pakistan (AP) — Armed resistance in much of rebellious East Pakistan is crumbling fast before the swiftly advancing columns of President Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan's army from West Pakistan.

A reported shipment of Indian arms to the secessionist forces is likely to do little to prolong the civil war, or war of liberation, as the Bengalis describe their struggle.

There are few visible preparations for a lengthy guerrilla campaign. If one ever gets under way, many prominent officials of Sheik Mujibur Rahman's Awami League fear it inevitably will fall under Communist leadership.

Overwhelming Support

The Awami, which enjoys overwhelming support in East Pakistan, is led by middle-class professional men better equipped for courtroom battles than for guerrilla conflict in the swamps and rice fields. They believe the tougher, more disciplined Communists, backed by Marxists in neighboring India, would take over the direction of any guerrilla movement.

The Pakistani army has been heavily reinforced from the country's western wing and is rapidly fanning out from Dacca in all directions.

For miles around the provincial capital, the army is in firm control. Pakistan's green and white national flag flies from every second village hut.

The people are afraid of informers and terrified of reprisals should they be identified as supporters of Bangla Desh, the Bengali nation proclaimed by Sheik Mujib.

Fled Dacca

Thousands have fled the capital, but Dacca nevertheless is slowly returning to something like normal.

"We are functioning at gunpoint, we have no alternative," said one Bengali civil servant.

Crossing the wide Ganges River unopposed, the Pakistani army has occupied the city of Pabna. Troops were reported swinging southwest toward the Bangla Desh stronghold of Kushtia.

Something close to panic seized its rag-tag band of defenders, and there was a wild rush to flee the town. A fleet of trucks, immobilized by lack of gasoline, was left to the advancing enemy. No effort was made to destroy them.

It was in Kushtia that some 200 Pakistani troops were massacred by Bangla Desh Partisans, and the town fears bloody reprisal is inevitable.

The Pakistani troops also are spreading out from their cantonment at Jessore, 25 miles from the Indian border. They have captured the northeastern city of Sylhet and are pushing steadily north and northwest.

Toughest Resistance

Resistance appears toughest north of Dacca, where strong elements of the East Bengal Regiment, the East Pakistan Rifles and the police are fighting.

The Pakistani army has suffered many casualties in this area, according to reports reaching foreign consuls in Dacca. The bodies are being flown back to West Pakistan on the planes that bring in troop reinforcements by the thousand.

But for the most part, Bangla Desh forces are chronically inadequate to meet the firepower and comparative efficiency of the Pakistani army. They are short of trained officers, lack logistic support and are running short of gasoline and transport. Their weapons date back to World War II, and they have nothing with which to combat Pakistan's air force.

Even rudimentary military discipline is lacking. At the Ganges ferry station of Goalundo Ghat, Bangla Desh defenders pulled down their flag and hoisted that of Pakistan on the strength of a rumor that gunboats were on their way and Pakistani troops were preparing to cross the river.

Few defense preparations have been made in towns under Bangla Desh control. A foxhole is a rarity, sandbags even more so. Few officials are able to give a clear order without a 10-minute discussion.

The Bengali generally seems more at ease with his umbrella than with a rifle.

50,000 Rifles

A trainload of Indian weapons apparently has reached the secessionist forces. A small truck loaded with rifles, grenades and ammunition was waiting for a boat at a river crossing near Mandaripur, 70 miles east of the Indian border. A Bengali said the weapons were part of a secret consignment that arrived from India by train 13 days ago.

Sudan President Gives His Views

Arab Certain There'll be Another War

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Jaafar el Numairi of Sudan told an Egyptian newspaper today he is "positive that another war is undoubtedly coming between the Arab countries and Israel."

Sudan is allied with Egypt and other Arab countries in the Middle East.

Egypts' official Middle East News Agency said Numairi told Cairo's Al Akhbar the United States "is taking an active part in the conflict against the Arabs" and there is no hope of keeping America neutral in the Middle East crisis.

Numairi was commenting on Egypt's efforts to persuade the U.S. government to pressure Israel into a commitment for withdrawal from Arab territory occupied during the 1967 war and thus pave the way for a peaceful settlement of the conflict.

Withdraw Troops

On Monday, Egyptian officials rejected a suggestion by Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan to withdraw Israel's troops from the Suez Canal under a permanent cease-fire and agreement that no Soviet or Egyptian troops will cross the canal.

The Egyptians insisted their forces must occupy positions on the Israeli-held side of the canal and that "Egypt will accept nothing else."

The Sudanese leader, in Cairo for talks with the leaders of Egypt, Syria and Libya on the latest developments in the Middle East crisis, said renewed fighting in Jordan between King Hussein's army and Palestinian commandos, is "part of a premeditated conspiracy aimed at completely destroying the Palestinian guerrilla movement."

Confederation

The Arab leaders, whose states plan to form a confederation under the year-old Tripoli charter, hope to consolidate their policies in the event current peace-making efforts in the Middle East collapse.

In Amman, floods caused by heavy rainfall over the last two days forced Hussein's troops to halt a house-to-house search for Palestinian guerrillas and go to work rescuing inhabitants of the Jordanian capital.

Several residential areas and the main business center of Amman were awash. Many shops collapsed and three children were swept away by the flood waters.

Security forces were put on alert and hospitals were placed in a state of emergency.

In Jerusalem, Foreign Minister Abba Eban called on governments around the world, international bodies and clergymen to act for the safety of Jews in Arab states, especially in Iraq, where he claimed 140 Jews face trial and possible execution.

He urged responsible officials to step up their demands that Arab states "put an end to the arrests, mock trials and persecution" of Jewish minorities under their rule.

Teamster Union leader James Hoffa is surrounded by passengers before he boards a plane taking him back to federal prison in Lewisburg, Pa.

Hoffa Back In Prison After Leave

LEWISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Teamster President James R. Hoffa is back in a federal penitentiary after a six-day leave of absence to visit his seriously ill wife.

The president of the two-million member union returned to the federal prison in this central Pennsylvania town Monday night in a rented car driven by his son, James P. Hoffa, 30, an attorney.

Hoffa, 58, told newsmen the trip to visit his wife Josephine in a San Francisco hospital with a heart ailment, was "just fine.

"She is very much improved from the time I first saw her. The doctor was satisfied that my being there helped her with her improvement."

Hoffa, who was turned down last week in a second bid for parole, was asked how he felt about going back behind bars.

"It was my agreement to come back, and I'm here," he said quietly without expression. He is serving a 13-year term for mail fraud and jury tampering.

Hoffa, who was jailed in 1967, left the prison last Wednesday after he was granted an unsupervised furlough to see his wife.

Teamsters Vice President Frank Fitzsimmons has headed the union since Hoffa was jailed and is in line for elevation to the presidency at the union's convention in July.

University Merger Talks End With Committee Deadlocked

STEVENS POINT, Wis. (AP) — A series of legislative hearings on Gov. Patrick J. Lucey's plan for consolidating state colleges has left a Senate committee in an uncertain frame of mind about the project.

Sen. Raymond Heinzen, chairman of the Senate's Education Committee, said after Mondays' hearing that he hopes his panel will decide in a week whether to offer a substitute merger bill "or just forget it."

The Stevens Point hearing was the last in a series by Heinzen's committee. Members remained divided 2-2 on the merger bill which has been filed with the Senate. A fifth member, Democrat Carl Thompson of Stoughton, said he is remaining neutral.

Lucey's plan calls for reducing administrative expense by merging the University of Wisconsin Board of Regents with the Board of Regents of the nine-college state universities system.

Gives Warning

William Kraus, member of the Coordinating Council for Higher Education, which currently oversees state collegiate operations and budgets, repeated his agency's warnings against letting state college leaders get too much independence.

The merger debate, he said, has become something of a political sideshow, threatening to detract from the state's more pressing educational needs.

A portion of Lucey's plan that has escaped serious challenge is his recommendation for eliminating the council. Kraus repeated pleas from council members that some sort of supervisory agency be maintained under a merger to keep tabs on individual campus operations.

President Lee Dreyfus of Stevens Point State University, and the La Crosse State president, Kenneth Lindner, asked Heinzen's committee to press for equal legislative consideration of the financial requirements for undergraduate curriculum at UW and the nine colleges.

They said UW too often gets financial favoritism from legislators. A merger, they said, could guarantee parity for the colleges.

Keith White, chairman of a faculty committee at UW's Green Bay branch, said there are fewer discrepancies between the UW system and the state universities system than are often supposed.

Dreyfus said his remarks weren't meant to imply disapproval of the UW giant.

He called UW "a great state asset," and said he agrees with the emphasis on post-graduate courses at UW's central campus in Madison.

But UW should have higher tuition, Dreyfus said.

"If you wish to go to a super university, you pay a super price," he said.

A Greenfield Republican, Sen. James Devitt, challenged the Democratic governor's merger plan as a threat to state colleges.

By placing the colleges under a single board of regents with UW, Devitt said, there would be less over-all interest in the state college student. Those students, he said, could become "step children."

Dreyfus, however, said Lucey's plan seems workable politically because of the large number of students in the state universities system as compared with UW enrollment.

Elk Constitution Contest Winner Listed at KHS

KAUKAUNA — Allen Cherkasky, son of Dr. and Mrs. Simon Cherkasky, 408 Brill St., has been named winner of the Elks Constitution contest at Kaukauna High School, according to Oscar Kunz, chairman of youth activities for the local Elks lodge.

Cherkasky and the second and third place finishers will be honored May 10 at the Elks annual May Day dinner party. Cherkasky will represent Kaukauna in competition with other state winners at Wisconsin Rapids Saturday. The winner and runnersup receive awards from the local lodge. Harry Wilson, instructor at Kaukauna High School, assisted in administering the test.

LU President to Get Honorary Degree at Ripon Commencement

RIPON — Dr. Thomas Smith, president of Lawrence University, will receive an honorary degree from Ripon College at the May 16 commencement.

He is one of five to be honored at the graduation, which will have as its theme "The Environment."

The others are Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., who was instrumental in setting up the national Earth Day project; former Secretary of the Interior Steward Udall; LaMont. C Cole, professor of ecology at Cornell University; and Robert Rienow, professor of political science at State University of New York.

Limit Out-of-State Students

Enrollment Quotas Sought

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The perennial debate over the enrollment of non-residents in Wisconsin's public universities has been rekindled with the introduction of a bill in the senate that would set an absolute quota on the number of students from each state that would be permitted to enroll here each year.

The bill, introduced by Sen. Ronald Parys, D-Milwaukee, and co-authored by Sens. Gerald Lorge, R-Bear Creek, and Milo Knutson, R-La Crosse, and Rep. Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, among others, would limit the number of out-of-state students from each state to the number of Wisconsin residents who attended college in that state the previous year.

The proposal follows a plan adopted by the last legislature that imposed a limit on non-resident students phased down over several years to 15 per cent of any school's total enrollment. Although there was to have been a limit of 20 per cent non-resident students in the state's public universities this year, an increase in non-resident tuition, independent of the quota served to reduce the non-resident enrollment at most state schools to well below the quota.

Under Expectations

As a result the total enrollment on most campuses dropped below projections and enrollments on some campuses declined for the first time in a decade.

Working independent of the tuition increases, the present quota would have the largest impact on schools located near the state's borders and on the Madison campus which attracts persons from all states and many nations.

The Parys plan would affect all schools since only a specific number of students from each state would be admitted to any Wisconsin public university. Most severely limited would be students from New York, New Jersey and Illinois which, despite the present quota and tuition increase, send the largest number of students to Wisconsin. Present reciprocal compacts between Wisconsin and border areas of Michigan and Minnesota that permit students from the neighboring states to attend nearby schools at in-state tuition rates would not be included in the quota system.

Don't Pay Way

In an interview, Parys said he proposed the quota

In an interview, Parys said he proposed the quota because he believes non-resident students, despite university claims to the contrary, do not pay the cost of their education. The proposal, he said, would encourage states that do not provide adequate space for educating their own students to make greater efforts.

In the past, the majority of non-residents identified in disruptions on Wisconsin campuses has been cited as one reason for desiring to limit out-of-state enrollment.

The proposed quota does not distinguish between public and private universities in determining the number of Wisconsin students attending schools in another state, but would apply only to public universities in Wisconsin.

Little Chute Home Not Damaged By 'Prank' Fire

LITTLE CHUTE — Henry Kuhn, 815 N. Madison St., reported to village police that a plastic bag full of leaves and several aerosol cans were placed against his home and set on fire sometime Sunday night.

Kuhn and his wife noticed the material burning when they arrived home just after midnight. Young people in the house said they had heard what sounded like a muffled explosion and had smelled smoke earlier in the evening, but merely closed the window as they thought someone was burning trash in the neighborhood.

The house was not damaged by the fire.

State's White Collar Workers Form Union

Discontent With Proposed Pay Plan Leads to Formation

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Discontent among state civil service managers over the proposed 1971-73 pay plan has resulted in formation of a white collar union.

The group, the State Association of Career Employes (SACE), seeks representation of managers, supervisors, and professionals across departmental lines. Howard Koop, former head of the state Department of Administration, spearheaded the organizing and initial financing. He will serve as executive director of the association.

Reportedly, several hundred persons have expressed interest in joining the white collar group. Koop said initial research revealed that there are about 12,000 state employes who would be eligible to join.

Members Sought

A letter soliciting membership has gone out to some 6,000 state employes and a similar letter is planned for University of Wisconsin and Wisconsin State University employes. The mailing is timed to precede Wednesday's hearing before the Joint Finance Committee on the proposed $38 million pay plan.

Koop plans to make a presentation and ask that the association be represented at the budget deliberations on the same basis as the Wisconsin State Employes Association.

The proposed pay plan calls for a flat $25 a month across the board raise for all employes in 1971-'73 and a six per cent raise in the second year of the biennium.

The plan has been viewed as a disaster by those in the middle and upper pay ranges since it represents a five to six per cent raise for the lower ranges of civil service but only a 1.2 per cent increase in the highest pay categories. The new association is asking for at least a six per cent pay raise in the first year.

Clean-Up Week Set in Village

COMBINED LOCKS — Clean-up week will be April 19 through 23, at which time village crews will pick up all junk and debris placed at the curb.

Street department foreman William DeGoey urged residents to take this opportunity to clean up garages, attics and basements as well as do yard work.

Police Chief Thomas Jansen said that the village has an ordinance against storage of junked or unlicensed automobiles and persons owning such vehicles should dispose of them during clean-up week.

Owners of such vehicles remaining after clean-up week will receive a certified letter ordering disposal of the vehicles. Police will have vehicles towed away at the owner's expense for failure to comply with instructions in the certified letter.

State Republicans Plan Dinner to Honor Olson

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Jack B. Olson is to receive the Outstanding Republican of the Year Award Thursday at the first annual dinner to be held by the Wisconsin College Republicans.

The former lieutenant governor and gubernatorial candidate will share the spotlight with F. Clifton White, the featured speaker.

White was campaign manager for Sen. Barry Goldwater and Sen. James Buckley.

Rough Session?

Legislators Return To Tackle Budget

By ARTHUR L. SRB
Associated Press Writer

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The Wisconsin Legislature, reconvening today after a three-week recess, faces scores of proposals, including Gov. Patrick J. Lucey's record $1.9 billion budget.

Floor debate is expected to occupy much time of the lawmakers, who spent the last three weeks screening bills in committee.

Legislators returned to the Capitol amid predictions that Democrats, who control the Assembly, will make every effort to speed legislative considerations.

Rep. Herbert Grover of Shawano, assistant Democratic majority leader in the Assembly, said the onus for any lack of accomplishment probably would be pinned on his party.

Our Ballgame

"It's our ballgame now," Grover said, contrasting it with the 1969 session when Republicans controlled both houses and the chief executive's office.

"We need to pass a budget with a minimum of political rhetoric," he said. "Two years ago our image was one of mass confusion."

Agreement on a budget could take some doing, however, Grover indicated. He said that at present, the Democratic governor's budget "probably doesn't have 40 votes" in the 100-member Assembly.

Democrats control the Assembly 66-34. The GOP has a lopsided 20-13 margin in the Senate where most of the political infighting over the budget is expected to be waged. The legislature's Joint Finance Committee is expected to make its recommendations to the legislature later this month or in May on Lucey's proposed budget.

Other Issues

In addition to revenue and taxes, other major issues facing the lawmakers include congressional and legislative reapportionment, 18-year-old voting, and Lucey's proposed merger of the two state university systems.

Prompt action is expected on ratification of a constitutional change to permit 18-year-old persons to vote in all local and state elections. They are now permitted to vote only in federal elections.

Reapportionment of Wisconsin's 10 congressional districts into nine new districts figures to be made easier by the announced intention of Rep. Alvin O'Konski, R-Wis., to retire after his present term.

Reapportionment of the Assembly and state Senate districts could provide many more headaches, simply because of the numbers of lawmakers involved—100 in the Assembly and 33 in the Senate.

Action on reapportionment may not be resolved until the fall session.

Grover said leaders hope to recess the session in July and return for a fall session in October.

Session on Tax Bill Set in Tiny Village

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Village of Mount Calvary in Fond du Lac County has a population of only 942.

But Mount Calvary will be the scene of a "strategy session" Wednesday called by Mayor Henry Maier of Milwaukee. Maier and other municipal officials will meet to drum up support for Gov. Patrick Lucey's tax redistribution bill.

Little Mount Calvary was chosen, Maier said, "to dramatize the fact that the redistribution plan helps small communities as well as large ones throughout Wisconsin."

He said leaders of two statewide "have-not conferences," which he conducted in Milwaukee last year, have accepted invitations to attend the Mount Calvary meeting.

They include Mayor Wallace Burkee of Kenosha, president of the Wisconsin Alliance of Cities; William Beyer, Madison, executive secretary of the alliance; Mayor Ralph Voigt of Merrill, chairman of the two have-not conferences.

Also Mrs. Henry Lardy, Madison, chairman of the Wisconsin Coalition for Action on Shared Taxes; John Giacomo, Milwaukee, executive vice president of the Wisconsin AFL-CIO; Gilbert Rohde, Chippewa Falls, president of the Wisconsin Farmers Union, and City Manager Myron Medin of Fond du Lac.

Maier said Mount Calvary would have received an additional $16,932 under the governor's proposal if it had been in effect in 1970.

The tax reform leaders, the mayor said, will meet "in the center of the village at about noon."

American Table Tennis Players to Meet Chou

PEKING (AP) — Members of the U.S. table tennis team are excitedly looking forward to what promises to be the high point of their week's visit to China, a meeting Wednesday with Premier Chou En-lai.

The prospect of talking with the Communist Chinese leader outweighed the team's anticipation of its first matches this afternoon with Chinese table tennis stars. The 15 Americans were told this morning of the meeting with Chou as they left their hotel to practice for today's matches.

The American-Chinese table tennis bouts were expected to attract a capacity stadium crowd of 20,000 spectators.

U.S. team member John Tannehill, a university student from Middleport, Ohio, returned to the hotel after becoming ill this morning, raising the prospect that the American team may be one man short in the exhibition matches.

The other members of the U.S. team were in high spirits and eager for their first meetings with Chinese players.

Besides their meeting with Chou, the Americans on Wednesday will visit the Summer Palace on Peking's outskirts and attend a performance of a Chinese opera.

See Great Wall

They fly to Shanghai Thursday morning, where they will spend the night before going on to Canton. They are scheduled to return to Hong Kong Saturday.

The weather was clear and sunny Monday as the American visitors journeyed to the 2,400-year-old Great Wall of China, and Tannehill pronounced it a "museum piece" which the Chinese need as a reminder of their ancient culture.

Said Mrs. Erroll Resek of New York City: "If this had been in the United States it would have been a great tourist attraction and it would be mutilated and cheapened by discarded paper and garbage."

The Americans also visited Chinghua University and met a shy jet propulsion expert who taught at the California Institute of Technology and returned to China in 1946.

The scientist, Chen Wei-chang, reported that his students criticized his teaching methods during the 1968 Cultural Revolution, and "my eyes were opened."

The university was the scene of a bitter struggle between rival factions at that time and reopened only six months ago. Its enrollment has been cut from 20,000 to 2,800, and the students now are selected by workers, peasants and soldiers after they have worked in factories or on farms.

Graham B. Steenhoven, president of the American Table Tennis Association and a Chrysler employe, drove a truck at the university's automotive college.

Computer Praised

The Americans also looked at machine tools, the electronics factory and the library.

Team captain Jack Howard, 38, of Seattle, Wash., a computer programmer, inspected a computer made by students and said: "It is a remarkable achievement. Very few students can build a computer."

The Chinese opened their borders to another foreign table tennis team today, welcoming a seven-man British team which crossed the Lo Wu border bridge at Hong Kong for a two-week visit. Delegation leader Charles Wyles said he invited a Chinese team to England for return matches and was told a Peking team would arrive in England in December or January.

Canadian and Colombian teams already are in China, along with the Americans. All were invited during the world table tennis tournament in Nagoya, Japan, which ended April 7.

Plot to Murder Daley Is Foiled

CHICAGO (AP) — Police say additional arrests are expected in connection with an alleged plot to assassinate Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago and the Rev. Jesse L. Jackson, a Negro leader and head of Operation Breadbasket.

The alleged plot was revealed Monday when two black militants—Earl P. Dillard, 37, and Howard Harris, 33—were charged with soliciting to kill Daley and Jackson.

They were arrested on Saturday, five days after two other black militants also were charged with soliciting to commit murder.

Police declined to link the arrests. A state's attorney's offical said the four men were involved in one plot aimed at touching off racial violence in the city.

April 21 hearings were set for Dillard, Harris and the other two men—Charles Whiteside, 35, and Terry Simmons, 38. The four are being held in lieu of $5,000 bond each.

Deputy Police Supt. John T. Kelly said additional arrests were expected.

Dillard and Harris were arrested, police said, after the departments gang intelligence unit received a tip that an alleged solicitation to commit murder had been made.

Police refused to elaborate further. Capt. Thomas Lyons, director of the police intelligence division, said the murder plot "is not a prank but . . . a serious offense."

A state's attorney's official, who asked that his name not be used, said the alleged plot was connected with an effort by militants to assume power in the city's black community after making the neighborhoods susceptible to looting during racial strife. Daley was unavailable for comment. His aides said he was in Florida on a vacation after winning election to an unprecedented fifth term April 6.

Jackson Daley

A spokesman for the mayor's office said he did not know if the mayor had been informed of the alleged assassination plot.

Jackson said in Nashville, Tenn., he was "deeply concerned" about the alleged plot.

"I hope that whatever the facts are established to be," he told an audience at Fisk University, "the law will be soundly enforced in the pursuit of justice as it affects me, the accused and the well being of our city."

Operation Breadbasket is a program of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Table Tennis in Red China Is Deadly Serious Matter

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Table tennis is a deadly serious affair in Red China.

A U.S. table tennis team is in Peking now, and the how and why of it is the sort of oriental mystery only a Chinese could unravel. Whatever the motives, the Americans never had a chance in competition against any first-rate Chinese team.

The Chinese are experts at table tennis, and being experts, they are in a position to say what is the most important factor in winning. This was made abundantly clear five years ago when the "Cultural Revolution" was just about to begin.

Peking was host then to an international tournament under the slogan "Table tennis for unity against imperialism." But there seemed to have been some bourgeois reactionary dirty work at the crossroads. The People's Daily reported that it had unmasked a plot.

It seems Chinese teams had done well the year before in the 28th world table tennis championships. But some nefarious official permitted publication of an article saying the main factors in the success were experience and training.

"Chinese table tennis teams refute bourgeois 'authorities,'" cried a headline in People's Daily. It reported the team members "filled with anger" because the writer of the article failed to credit Mao Tse-tung's thinking for the wins.

The culprit was a deputy propaganda minister who, said the paper, "arbitrarily changed the headline to one which had nothing to do with Mao Tse-tung's thinking." As an outraged team member put it, according to the paper, anyone could see the team won because it "place emphasis on the decisive role of Mao Tse-tung's thinking in winning victories at table tennis."

But some people never learn. Take Han Yu-chen, for example. She was one of the younger players and one of the best females in the game.

"However," said People's Daily, "she advocated individualism. Not only did she fail to improve her skill, but she botched collective victories in major tournaments."

Afterward, Han Yu-chen was overcome with remorse, and the indulgent party gave her another chance. She was allowed to play while "re-educating" herself, but even then "she more than once demonstrated her evil personality, proving that she was an incurable individualist who held fast to the bourgeois world outlook. The table tennis team finally decided to expel her." All this, said the paper, proved that "a table tennis team does not exist in a vacuum and that acute and complicated class struggle exists in table tennis."

Other players were "comparatively stubborn," but were persuaded to correct themselves with "the revolutionary spirit charted by Chairman Mao, and they finally captured the world championships."

At the 1966 meet in Peking, the Chinese team won six of the seven championships.

"Once again," reported People's Daily, "the Chinese team owed its fine records to the persistent study of Chairman Mao's works all through the training sessions and the tournament itself . . . .Before going to the court, the Chinese players read this quotation from Chairman Mao: 'This army has an indomitable spirit and is determined to vanquish all enemies and never to yield.'"

Before going on to victory, China's star player, Chuang Tse-tung "reviewed Chairman Mao's teaching of unyielding determination to win against all odds." He won.

Probably through no accident Chuang Tse-tung bears the same given name as Chairman Mao. Also probably through no accident it was Chuang Tse-tung who was largely responsible, during the table tennis matches in Japan, for striking up the acquaintanceship with the Americans which led to the invitation to China.

Child Drowns in Bathtub Device

WAUSAU, Wis .(AP) — An 8-month-old child, secured to a special seat for infants, drowned Monday evening when the device slipped off the edge of a bathtub into about five inches of water.

Authorities said the seat containing Alan Lee Becker had been hung inside the tub, and slipped when the child's mother stepped out of the bathroom for a few minutes.

Dead Miners Ignored Warning, Officials Say

GOLCONDA, Ill. (AP) — Seven Southern Illinois miners killed by poisonous gas deep underground Monday had wandered into a forbidden area despite warnings, mine officials say.

Wayne Faller, manager of the Barnett shaft of the Ozark Mahoning Fluorspar Co., said mine officials "knew there was a stronger concentration of gas than normal" in the area. He said they had warned the men to stay out of that part of the mine.

But he said that when one miner entered the area 800 feet underground, six others followed in an attempt to rescue him. All were overcome by deadly hydrogen-sulfide gas.

Five of the victims were dead when they were lifted from the mine shaft. The two others died later in a hospital in nearby Rosiclare.

C. W. Sohosky, office manager of the mining firm, said 16 workers were in the shaft when they reached the pocket of gas.

Nine of the men scrambled for clean air when the others failed to return from the forbidden area, he said.

All the victims were from this area.

Fluorspar, a bluish, hard mineral mined like coal, is used in the manufacture of aluminum.

Women, Children From State Die in Minnesota Crash

HASTINGS, Minn. (AP) — A Wisconsin woman and three children were killed and the woman's husband was injured Monday in a head-on collision near Hastings.

The dead woman was identified as Patricia Shore, wife of the Rev. Mark Shore, 26, Galesville, Wis.

The Rev. Mr. Shore was listed in serious condition early today at a St. Paul hospital.

Minnesota authorities had not completed identification of two of the three dead boys, but said they were presumed to be Shore children.

Dakota County authorities said Joel Shore, 3, died as he was being rushed to a hospital. The other two boys were said to be about 2½ and 1 in age.

The victims were riding in a car that collided with a truck on U.S. 61, three miles south of Hastings. The Minnesota Highway Patrol said the truck driver was not injured.

Nightspot Nudes Protest Arrests

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The operator of an Elkhorn night spot and two performers asked the U.S. District Court Monday for an injunction against Walworth County authorities, claiming their arrests had violated freedom of expression.

Floyd Loper, operator of the Playgirl Lounge, and Paula Terrell and Betty Rodriguez said they were arrested April 9 and charged with violation of state obscenity statutes as the result of nude dancing.

They asked that a three-judge panel be convened to issue an injunction against Walworth County Sheriff William Cummings and Dist. Atty. Robert Read.

Loper said Cummings and Read had threatened to close his business and deny him and the young women their livelihood. He also said that under state law they were denied freedom of thought and expression.

Police Search Paper's Files For Evidence

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Police searched offices of the Stanford University student newspaper but failed to find any photographs or reporters' notes to aid in the prosecution of demonstrators at a violent university-hospital sit-in last week.

Four policemen from Palo Alto and two from the campus force, with search warrants, looked through the office of The Stanford Daily for an hour Monday but left empty handed, a university spokesman said.

Stanford President Richard W. Lyman called the search "deplorable and threatening to the full freedom of the press."

Felicity Barringer, editor of the newspaper, said: "It is extremely difficult for a newspaper to exist and function properly if it is constantly in fear of having its notes and photographic files examined for the purpose of prosecution."

Mary Corff, managing editor, said the newspaper since last spring has followed a policy of removing from its office or destroying any material likely to be used in criminal prosecutions.

The material relating to the violence at Stanford University Hospital last Friday was removed Friday, she said. Published photos of the demonstration did not show faces clearly, she added.

About 175 police broke up the sit-in. Police said demonstrators turned a fire hose on the police, threw ash trays and other objects at officers. Six policemen were treated for injuries.

The 30-hour sit-in ended with 22 persons arrested, 10 admitted to hospitals, about 40 others reported injured less seriously. Damage to the hospital's administrative offices was estimated at $100,000.

The demonstrators were protesting the firing of a black janitor who had worked at the hospital about a month. They charged the firing was racially inspired. The hospital claimed he was not performing his work and was making the work of other employes more difficult.

Army Pfc. Gary J. Fiedler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Fiedler of Racine, Wis., and Army Pfc. Michael E. Giese, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett J. Giese of rural Norwalk, Wis.

Navy Drops Charge Against Marine Who Struck Nurse

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Marine Lance Cpl. Charles Stewart said he knew he wasn't guilty of charges he struck an officer nurse who was preparing him for an operation to save one of his two remaining limbs.

"That's why I requested the court-martial," Stewart said Monday after he learned the Navy was dropping the charges.

The 19-year-old Connellsville, Pa., Marine was originally scheduled for captain's mast—the Navy's lowest level of disciplinary action—for striking Lt. Cmdr. Rosemary Geraghty as she was about to take a blood sample last Feb. 3.

The incident occurred before an operation on his badly damaged right arm. Stewart lost both legs last Aug. 1 when he stepped on a mine in Vietnam.

But, according to military law, he requested a special court-martial and hired two lawyers to fight the charges of striking an officer and using offensive language.

He said he hit Lt. Cmdr. Geraghty because he was "real uptight and scared."

"I had a lot of operations—10 I think. They told me not many guys ever survived stepping on a shell like that. Everything was shot but my heart and left lung. My big worry was losing my right arm. Hell, a double amputee and then a triple amputee. That's not good."

The 4th Naval District said the commanding officer of the Philadelphia Naval Hospital, where the incident occurred, decided to drop the charges "rather than subject Stewart to the rigor of a special court-martial."

It said the hospital will "continue medical treatment and such psychiatric treatment as may be required."

Anti Secrecy Bill Features Big Fine

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A bill which would toughen Wisconsin's open meetings statute has received the unanimous endorsement of the Senate's Government and Veterans' Affairs Committee, and its author is optimistic about its chances of becoming law.

The measure's next hurdle comes when it is voted on by the entire senate.

"I think the time is ripe for passage of the bill," said Sen. Fred A. Risser, D-Madison. "The only possible attack on it might come on the extent of penalties."

The imposition of a penalty of up to $300 on any governmental official who violates the anti-secrecy law is one of the key provisions of Risser's bill.

It also differs from present law by forbidding any governmental meetings at which "collective decisions" are made from being secret.

Need Cited

Both provisions are needed in the statutes, Risser contends, to bring an end to abuses of the public's right to know what their elected and appointed servants are up to.

He describes the measure as "a good government bill" rather than special interest legislation.

"We've discovered that one way of getting around the present law is to meet in private, often socially before a meeting," Risser said.

The senate minority leader said the language on collective decisions," borrowed from a Supreme Court decision, is designed to put an end to such ingenious ruses.

The University of Wisconsin Board of Regents and numerous local public bodies have been accused from time to time of making their real decisions in private.

Has Teeth

The penalty clause, Risser said, is designed to "put teeth" into the law. Individuals would be responsible for payment of the penalties levied against them, and could not be reimbursed from public funds.

Another feature of the bill would allow both citizens and law enforcement officers to bring complaints against alleged violators.

Governmental bodies are permitted to meet in secret for personnel matters, land purchases or legal strategy decisions, but otherwise must not conduct business behind closed doors.

The present exemptions would still hold true under Risser's bill.

Partisan caucuses also would continue to be covered, "because they deal with party strategy rather than public policy," Risser said.

"If Democrats and Republicans get together behind closed doors and work things out," he added, "that would be against the law."

Supported by Newsmen

During public hearings on the proposed law, representatives of both daily and weekly newspaper publishers urged its passage.

Their testimony, and complaints received by Risser, indicate that school boards are the most frequent violators of the law.

Wisconsin and Florida, which calls its statute the "government in the sunshine" law, are considered leaders in conducting governmental business in the open.

Be Sure About Those Cheap Vacation Flights

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Some time in the next few months, I'll wager you'll see a picture in this newspaper of a group of forlorn Americans sitting or lying on the floor of a major airport in the U.S. or Europe. Under the picture will be a caption reading like this: "Group Stranded By Cancellation of Charter Flight" or "Illegal Flight Stalls Would-be Vacationers at Airport."

Porter

Some time also in the next few months, I'll wager you'll read a newsstory telling of thousands of Americans (students particularly) who signed up for cut-rate charter flights, pair in full, arrived at the airport to find that: (1) no seats were available for them on the flight they expected to board; or (2) the flight was being delayed for up to a whole week; or (3) the flight had been abruptly cancelled; or (4) the travel agent who had arranged the tour had gone bankrupt or absconded and the whole trip was off.

Expect New Records

We are now entering the peak season for overseas travel and even in the face of the 1969-71 recession, the likelihood is that all records for vacations abroad will be shattered by summer's end.

In 1971 alone, the informed estimate is that 3,800,000 of you will fly overseas, primarily to Europe. This year alone, your spending for overseas flights and for your foreign vacations (excluding the Caribbean) is projected at an awesome $3,800,000,000. Both would be all-time peaks.

And of this number, 1,100,000 — or nearly one out of four — will fly by charter plane and spend $700,000,000.

You'll do so for three very valid reasons:

(1) You can save as much as 50 per cent on your airplane ticket alone by going via charter flight, and because of this single factor you can take trips you couldn't even dream of otherwise.

(2) Most charter flights are safe, well-managed and compare quite favorably with regular scheduled airline flights.

(3) Most charter tour operators are honest, responsible and well informed about the travel they are recommending.

Some Are Illegal

But there is an illegal fringe in the charter flight industry which is blackening the reputation of the entire field — and which you must learn how to avoid.

There are charter flight arrangers who are no more than high-pressure promoters and are shockingly ignorant about the tours they put together — and these too you must learn how to avoid.

"Travel abroad" has a lot in common with familiar consumer goods. You can buy it in a wide range of brands, grades, quality, types and guarantees. You also can buy it at list price. Or you can buy it marked down for sale. Or you can buy it "hot" from a fence.

To be more specific:

There are the individual fares available on the scheduled airlines which offer you the greatest flexibility in schedules, and the highest guarantees of service and responsibility. These are at the very top of the price range.

Then there are the package tours, excursion and group fares offered by the scheduled airlines and their agents which are subject to limitations that do not apply to normal fares but which still have built-in service guarantees and negotiability (meaning the tickets may be exchanged for other dates and airlines). These are next down on the price list.

Finally, there are the charters which can be bought from a variety of sources and in a variety of forms. Some charters include transportation only while others include arrangements on the ground as well. Some charters are flown by the scheduled airlines, some of the larger American non-scheds and some by a mixture of European companies of varying degrees of reputation and performance.

The charters are by far the cheapest — and this, of course, is their great lure.

Tomorrow's column will give you rules to help you get the most from a charter and to avoid the pitfalls.

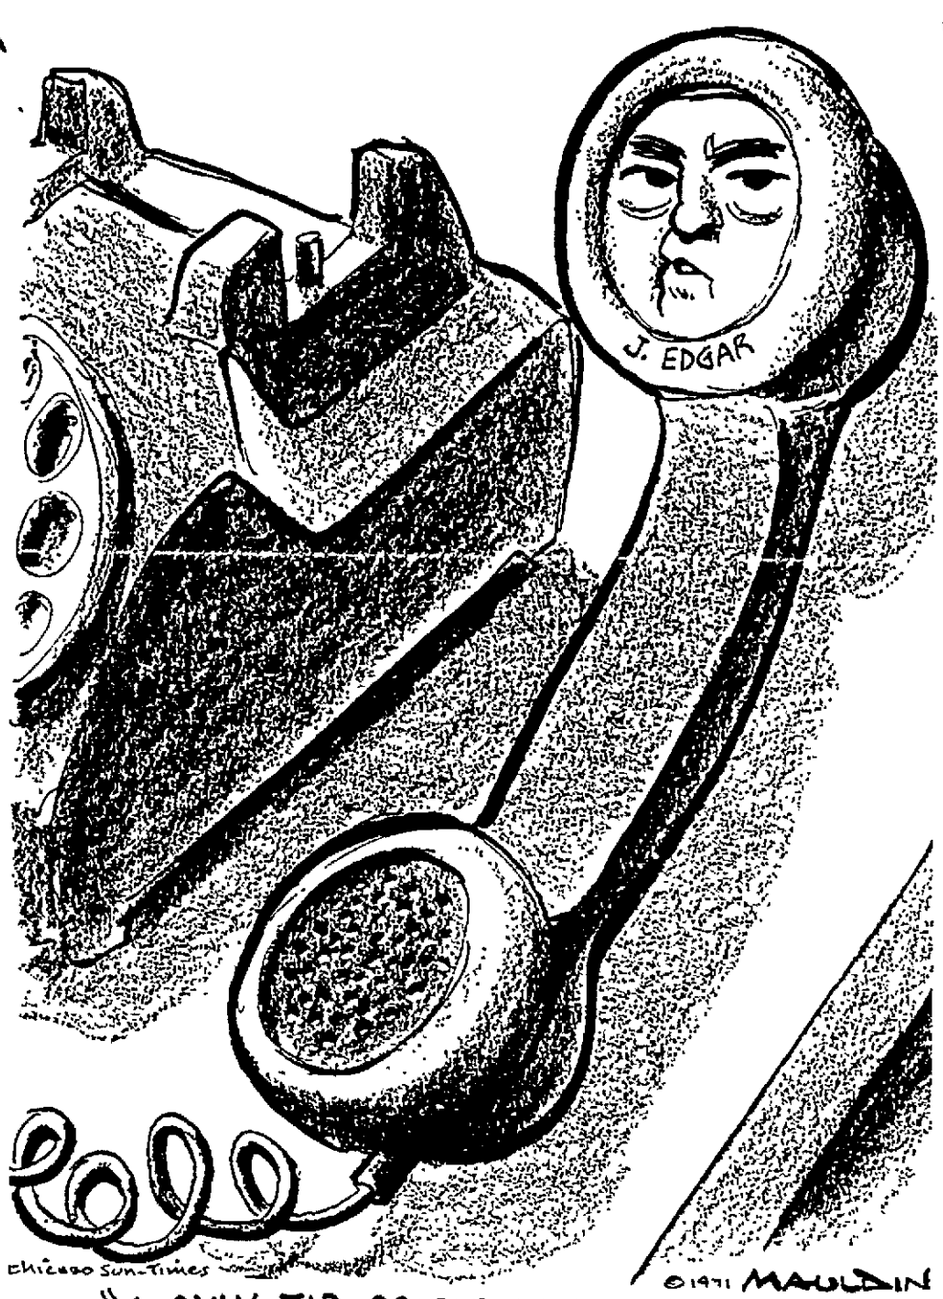
Victory for Individual Rights

The rejection by a federal court of the proposition by Attorney General John Mitchell and the Justice Department that court permission is not necessary for wiretapping when the national security, in the Attorney General's opinion, is involved, is a step for the defense of individual rights in the nation. It is further than that a move against the hysteria that often overtakes our government when there appears to be threats of revolution or whatever.

Mr. Mitchell argued that as far as ordinary criminal cases were concerned, court approval was essential. But he insisted that when it was a matter of national security, only federal officials could really assess the dangers. They would have a background of information, he said, that would not be readily available to a court called upon to decide whether immediate wiretapping was in the interest of national security or whether it was merely something of a fishing expedition. But it seems quite likely, whatever confidence we have in Mr. Mitchell, that fishing expeditions might become the habit of the day as long as J. Edgar Hoover remains as FBI director.

Throughout our history and for that matter the history of many other nations, the conflict between national security and individual rights has been a serious one. In Communist countries and others with dictatorial regimes, the problem is not so great. The state is paramount. But this has not been true in countries that consider themselves to be trying to give the majority of rule to the majority of people — in other words, democratic leadership. Here the matter of individuals' rights to keep individual and private information from governmental authorities or from anyone else is highly regarded. Apparently, neither Mr. Mitchell nor Mr. Hoover regard it in that light. Are the threats of conspiracy alleged to be attributed to the Weathermen, the Black Panthers or the Ku Klux Klan so serious that other Americans can have their phones tapped? The outcome of several trials — especially that of an alleged conspiracy to blow up part of Washington and to kidnap Henry Kissinger — may give us the answer.

In the meantime it is reassuring to know that the courts seem to be leaning in the direction of individual rights rather than vague defenses of national security. It shouldn't take that long to get a court order on wiretapping if the need is that great. Surveillance practices irresponsibly put into practice and apparently unreviewed until the press discovered them are a strong indication that tighter controls against Big Brother must be maintained, whatever the scare tactics from the F.B.I. or perhaps even the threats of real danger. We think the nation can be defended without wiretapping which has not been cleared by a court of law, undoubtedly a more objective judge than the Attorney General, with his definite political allegiances, or the F.B.I.



A Little Racial Progress in Africa

Since Rhodesia broke away from England's control and the Republic of South Africa has continued to enforce apartheid policies — including the refusal to let black tennis star Arthur Ashe compete in that country — there has continued to be the fear that eventually a really disastrous race war might break out in Africa. Many black African national leaders have been sounding aggressive and the advantage in numbers is obvious.

But in recent months both sides seem to be trying to work out means of talking if not actually collaborating.

South African Prime Minister John Vorster has recently invited several leaders of black nations to visit Cape Town and even discuss the matter of apartheid. The invitation is not being scorned as it might have been only a few years ago. One reason is that black African nations and South Africa and Rhodesia, however much they may proclaim their political and racial ideologies, do have a substantial amount of trade relations. Last year South Africa made a deal with the Malagasy Republic for $6½ million to develop tourism in that country. Malawi, which is landlocked, needs access to a seaport and South Africa is the most obvious one and willing to cooperate.

There has so far in recent months been far less emphasis in black African nations on the need to sponsor guerrilla warefare against the governments of Rhodesia or South Africa. Probably part of the reason has been the realization in such nations of the instability of their own governments. The fall of a variety of somewhat dictatorial regimes has made some difference. But economics seems to be the determining factor.

Prime Minister Vorster is obviously more amenable to discussion than was his assassinated predecessor. He has invited and apparently plans to receive, as recognized heads of state, black African leaders who have not before visited South Africa under such conditions. If both sides can meet with courtesy and respect, one of the dangers of a real racial outbreak in Africa may be averted.

Alaskan Natives Press Demands

Another minority group which is making demands to make up for discrimination in the past is the natives of Alaska — Aleuts, Eskimos and Indians. The new emphasis upon the development of oil resources in Alaska may finally win for their claims some action in Congress.

There have been several bills introduced in both the Senate and the House of Representatives but most of them are considered inadequate by the Alaska Federation of Natives. Formal claims have been filed by natives for a total of 340,000,000 acres of land, more than 90 per cent of the state. Aboriginal claim is the basis for the suits and there is no doubt but that the natives were there first.

Senator Henry Jackson in January reintroduced his measure which would give outright to the natives 10,000,000 acres around their current villages and would give them 2 per cent royalty on minerals and $500 million over a 12 year period in federal funds. Representative Aspinall would give natives outright title to only 20,000 acres but the right to fish and hunt on 40,000,000 acres, some money from the federal government and from federal mineral revenues.

But the bill that comes closest to the demands of the Alaskans was sponsored in the Senate by Senator Fred Harris, whose wife, part Comanche, has been a leader nationally in trying to win rights for Indians. Senator Edward Kennedy and eight other senators also sponsored the bill. It would give 60,000,000 acres to the natives, half a billion dollars appropriated by Congress and a 2 per cent share in perpetuity of revenues from public lands. The other bills would cut the revenues off at certain amounts.

Ordinarily the path for such bills through Congress would probably be slow and difficult. The 55,000 natives of Alaska do not represent a great voting force and they have little means of exerting any pressure. The potential riches of Alaska are just being realized and as usual greed and profits seem more likely to determine opinions than the rights of a minority people, especially those who prefer to continue to a great extent their more primitive way of life.

But the excitement over oil leases and other mineral possibilities has meant a considerable pressure from industries and officials of Alaska to get the claims settled so that exploitation of the resources may continue without endless litigation.

Senator Kennedy, in arguing for the bill, pointed out that money did not compensate people "for giving up the land upon which their lives and culture depend." White Americans are realizing more and more that their own development of the United States has not always been in the best interests of future citizens and that Indians in particular have a deeper understanding of the needs of conservation.

It may be that Alaskan natives will be induced to exploit whatever land is finally allotted to them. But it would appear that preserving the natural forests, tundras, lakes and streams is more likely under their ownership than the white man's. The proposed oil pipeline across Alaska has not yet been proved to be harmless to the ecology of the regions through which it must pass. The sale of oil leases on the North Slope last year, with $900,000,000 going to the state and nothing to the Eskimos, was hastily done. The matter of native ownership of land and their right to some of the revenues from other areas should be settled and as much in the interests of the natives as possible.

Wisconsin Report

Travelling Reporter Learns to Appreciate Wisconsin the More

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — That an occasional journey is broadening is one of the staples of folklore. Yet a statehouse reporter sometimes finds also that it tends to chauvinism when he ventures some distance from his home base.

Casual perusal of the local newspapers during our jaunt southward to a distant family outpost suggests again, as the people of Wisconsin have so often been told, that their performance in the authorization and delivery of important public services tends to be comfortably out in front of many sister states.

In this state, Gov. Winfield Dunn is now lecturing his constituency about the need for state support of a formal program of post-high school education through the development of a series of "community colleges" of the kind assured in Wisconsin several years earlier and now being built through district schools of vocational and technical education.

The Tennessee governor is trying to persuade his people that such a goal can be assured only through state support, a conclusion long ago reached in Wisconsin where the current legislature is expected to make a more positive state financial commitment for the purpose.

In neighboring Arkansas, capitol dispatches relate that the legislature is considering a system of civil service merit requirements to replace the traditional recruitment of state employes and officers on the basis of partisan patronage. Prospects are dim for its enactment in spite of the pleas of a newly elected governor, Little Rock correspondents relate.

The visiting reporter reads on with amazement. A civil service bill in trouble in the last half of the 20th Century? But the facts do not appear to be in dispute. Officers in the most sensitive services hold or lose their jobs at the whim of the governor in power.

Must Deliver Votes

The head of the state prison system was fired the other day for no other cause. The state police establishment is riddled with patronage appointments. It is difficult to imagine a Wisconsin system under which such men as Sanger Powers and Lewis Versnik would serve according to the number of votes they can or will deliver to the man in the governor's office.

How old is the Wisconsin civil service act? Reference material is not immediately available, but memory recalls that the grandfather of Sen. Risser of Madison, the Democratic Senate majority leader, was one of the authors, which suggests that it was early in the century.

In the Illinois capitol at Springfield the other day members of the legislature were being advised to reclassify the state highway system to recognize densities and financing priorities. Again Wisconsin may recall that it achieved precisely such a plan for its state roads years ago.

Reporter Yawns

Other Illinois highway propositions headlined for their significance bring yawns to the wayfarer who recognizes that they are standard assumptions in his state. Examples are segregation of highway funds as user taxes for use in highway improvements only, authorization of bond financing for long-range highway improvements, the creation of an integrated State Department of Transportation with a jurisdiction encompassing all transport-related problems, etc. etc.

Maybe, those Wisconsin legislators and other representatives of the state government who occasionally travel elsewhere to examine their tasks in perspective could recover a part of their travel expenses by lecturing occasionally on Wisconsin experience and performance in other statehouses.

Mr. Nixon at Bat

President Refuses to Bend To Pressure on Vietnam

BY WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

I approached Mr. Nixon's speech last week with high expectations, and as the saying goes, I was half satisfied. I will settle for that.

I had hoped that, finally the President would declare that henceforward no American conscript would be sent to combat duty in Vietnam, except as a volunteer. Shortly after the speech I inquired why the President had not made such a declaration, and was advised by a Pentagon official that "the arithmetic doesn't check out."

I did not press him, but I nevertheless find it inexplicable that with a regular armed force in excess of two million men, to which we might add those conscripts who believe in the Vietnam War, we cannot come up with the 150,000 men nowadays exposed to combat duty in Vietnam. We have less than 300,000 men there, and the rough estimate is that sixty per cent of them are exposed to combat.

Why do we need a national draft, in a country of two hundred million people, in order to come up with 150,000 combatants, who in any case will be reduced by approximately five per cent per month during the next period? The temper of the country has recently turned against the Vietnam war. But there are still those who profoundly believe in the American mission there. Surely, from the loins of these, the few thousand volunteers would issue, as necessary (if at all), to supplement the regular armed force whose job it is to engage in routine military enterprises as prescribed by the commander-in-chief, in pursuit of American security?

Surely somebody in the executive apparatus ought to explain why "the arithmetic doesn't check out." Why is the explanation so abstruse? The effort is surely worth making, because the presumption in America is that non-volunteers ought not to be used except in cases of a national emergency. Why is it a national emergency to keep 150,000 men in combat-ready situations in South Vietnam, with the casualty rate reduced to one-fifth of what it was when Mr. Nixon took office? It surpasses the understanding why the President doesn't consider the subject worth explaining, and one wonders whether he is insufficiently aware of the meaning it would have to the morale of the country if he were to declare that henceforward no American would risk injury in Vietnam who did not go there voluntarily, or professionally.

But then, the disappointment apart, the balance of the speech was profoundly satisfying. It is most often said about Mr. Nixon that he is a political opportunist. When Lyndon Johnson affirmed and reaffirmed the necessity of following through with our commitments in Vietnam he had the satisfaction of knowing that the overwhelming majority of the American people agreed with him, even if, towards the end, the Democratic vote was almost evenly divided. Mr. Nixon, when he spoke last week, had seen polls that suggest that two-thirds of the American people desire ardently a date, preferably before the end of this calendar year, when we will be out of Vietnam altogether. It is in the teeth of this popular current that the President spoke, simply, firmly, declining to bend under the pressure.

If Mr. Nixon were the opportunist he is accused of being, how easy it would have been to announce the end of the American presence in Vietnam, not later than, say, next Christmas. Oh, how very many volunteers he'd have found among his associates who'd have composed him a speech logically and morally irresistible, except perhaps to those who reason grimly forward to the strategic consequences of an unthinking withdrawal.

Instead, Mr. Nixon simply said: we were right to begin with, we are right now not to panic, it would be a mistake to hand over to the enemy a unilateral commitment which could only have the effect of strengthening their resolution. It is not necessary to parade yet again the reasons why it was strategically correct to help the Vietnamese, in order to isolate the deed of Richard Nixon. The minority are very few who would have turned against him if he had said: Vietnamization is complete, and now we are withdrawing. He'd have pleased the huge majority, hugely, and he is cunning enough to devise sufficient explanations in the event that the situation in Vietnam turned sour. One wonders whether some of Mr. Nixon's most persistent critics, whatever they may think about his decision, will admit, however grudgingly, to his having acted bravely, conscientiously; admirably.

Strictly Personal

Depression Created Own Generation Gap

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

My luncheon host was only seven years younger than I, but there is a funny kind of "generation gap" between us that is as great as any. I thought of this when he called for the bill, and it was $19.

He had insisted on our lunching at this expensive place, and I knew it would be around $20 for the two of us, plus tip; and I also knew that this was not expense-account money but was coming out of his own pocket.

It actually hurt me to see him lay it out, when I remembered our difference in ages. I am a child of the Depression, and he is not; I was permanently scarred in a way he escaped, and knows nothing of.

When the Depression began, I was entering my teens, and bad times really didn't begin to diminish until I was in my 20s. He was only a little boy at the time, and the Depression is just a blur in his mind. It makes all the difference in picking up a $20 luncheon check.

We are as alien to each other, in that respect, as the people who experienced the concentration camps and those who didn't. There is no way of relating on that level; if you didn't live through it, all the stories of dramas about it are pale and dim abstractions. To the young, Hitler might as well have been Attila the Hun, and the Depression as long ago as the War of the Roses.

It seems unfair to blame or reproach today's youngsters for failing to share the sense of values that older people possess, when even a man only seven years younger than myself has a far different concept of money than I have. Veterans are always different from non-veterans, no matter if they are veterans of a foreign war of a domestic cataclysm.

The Depression left millions of us with a permanent case of shell-shock. We saw what could happen to men who had worked all their lives, who knew how to work, and wanted to work, and were forced into the indecency of unemployment, of public assistance, of begging for a living.

This bad dream haunts us for all of our days, no matter how secure or affluent we may feel on the surface of our being; no matter how much we reassure ourselves that the structure of our society would no longer permit the same thing to happen. But the wound has not fully healed, and possibly never will.

To my friend, the $20 luncheon bill was a munificent gesture. I have done the same — spent as carelessly and as cavalierly — but not without a subterranean twinge of guilt, not without a tiny wrench of memory, recalling when a full-grown man worked a whole week for that. I could not bridge a gap of only seven years with him; how can we expect youngsters whose first President was Eisenhower to have the remotest idea what we are talking about, much less feeling in our deepest recesses?

Looking Backward

German Free School a Success

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for April 15, 1871.

On Tuesday evening, at the Society meeting, Herman Erb was elected president, and A. Ruhlander secretary, for the ensuing year. (Ed. Note: This was the German Free School Society).

The receipts for the last year amounted to $1,349.52 cents; the attendance of scholars averaged 65 pupils.

Commencing with the next term, two teachers will be employed. Good work has been done toward making permanent the "German-English Academy of Appleton."

25 YEARS AGO
Tuesday, April 9, 1946.

Senior student Lucille Kalbus was chosen by her classmates and members of the faculty at Shiocton High School for the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) good citizenship and leadership award. Lucille also was class valedictorian with a straight "A" scholastic average through her four years at high school.

Marcelyn Finder of the Seymour Future Homemakers Association (FHA) won first place in the district demonstration contest. She presented a demonstration on table setting.

Young Republicans of Outagamie County were to be organized April 16 at the court house, according to Mark S. Catlin Jr., Appleton, and Ray Kiermas, Stephensville, co-chairmen of the 8th District organization.

10 YEARS AGO
Tuesday, April 11, 1961.

Kristi Wigstadt, of Spring Road School, Town of Menasha, won for the second consecutive year at Winnebago County Spelling Contest. The other four contestants in the spelling finals, which means they were winners in their respective schools, were Cynthia Doughty, Omro; Lois Graham, Waukau; Elizabeth Brayton, Town of Algoma, and Sandy Hall, Winneconne.

Four of the St. John High School students taking part in the musical "Show Boat" were Gene Wildenberg, Judy Hantschel, Marjorie Theissen and Marolon Verbeten.

Funeral services were held that day in Encino, Calif., for the well-loved Marian Jordan, of the famous husband-wife radio team of "Fibber McGee and Molly." She died April 7.

Liu Shao-chi Alive, Spirit Lead in Communist China

By JOHN RODERICK
Associated Press Writer

PEKING (AP) — Liu Shao-chi is alive, but his spirit is dead. That is the reply I got when I asked the fate of the former president of the People's Republic of China.

The white-haired Liu was the storm center of the three-year Cultural Revolution. Condemned as a revisionist, a running dog of U.S. imperialism and worse —if anything could be worse— Liu finally was stripped of all his posts, labeled a scab and a renegade and disappeared from public view.

Liu is officially dead, a nonperson, as far as the Chinese are concerned. They were a bit astonished when asked about him but answered readily enough that everyone knew Liu was alive. They added that he probably was being re-educated, meaning punished and brainwashed.

From what I have been able to see in two days in China, the fall of Liu and the success of the Cultural Revolution have been followed by almost unprecedented relaxation generally as the nation rebuilds itself politically and physically.

The Cultural Revolution was a period of struggle, tension and confrontation.

During that time, the United States succeeded in putting Americans onto the moon. But its chances of putting ordinary Americans onto the Chinese mainland seemed about as remote as getting to the Milky Way.

Westerners living in Peking say they noticed the faint stirrings of change 18 months ago and a dramatic improvement only six months back. Some travel restrictions on the diplomatic corps were lifted, conducted expeditions to various parts of the country started and an over-all attitude of friendliness developed.

Public Rallies

Certainly neither Peking nor Canton now are what they were during the Cultural Revolution —cauldrons of intense political activity and the scene of public rallies of criticism of the wayward.

There are fewer wall posters and newspapers.

The invitation to 15 members of the U.S. table tennis team and three American correspondents to visit China was the final confirmation that the country has regained not only stability but a sense of confidence in itself.

The mood is remarkably like what it was in Yenan, the Chinese Communist cave capital when I lived there as a newsman a quarter of a century ago. The Communists we have met have been even franker and more outspoken than the men in Yenan were. The friendliness is the same.

The Chinese not only have extended a warm and apparently genuine welcome to the American visitors—"We have always admired and liked the American people," they reiterate—but have gone farther and invited criticisms of what they are doing.

They have been apologetic about the lack of some facilities but helpful in getting things done. And everywhere there has been spontaneous friendliness from everyone, whether it be an astonishd peasant or a smiling soldier.

The question in the mind of everyone in the American party is, "Will it last?"

Emmy Nominations Made

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — George C. Scott, who says he abhors acting awards, finds himself with another honor. He has been nominated for an Emmy for his performance in "The Price."

The Academy of Television Arts and Sciences nominated Scott Monday for the best single performance by a leading actor. Also named were Jack Cassidy for "The Andersonville Trial," Hal Holbrook for "A Clear and Present Danger" (World Premiere), Richard Widmark for "Vanished" and Gig Young for "The Neon Ceiling."

Scott also has been nominated by the Motion Picture Academy as best actor of 1970 for his role in "Patton." He tried to have his name stricken as a candidate, but the academy refused.

"The Andersonville Trial," which Scott directed, also won an Emmy nomination as the outstanding single program of the 1970-71 season. Its competition: "Hamlet" and "The Price," both by Hallmark Hall of Fame; "They're Tearing Down Tim O'Reilly's Bar" from Rod Serling's Night Gallery; and the four-hour "Vanished."

Scott was not available for comment on the Emmy nomination.

"Hamlet" took top honors in the nominations with a total of 13. Oddly, Richard Chamberlain, who played Hamlet, didn't get a mention.

Among the comedy series, "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" received the most nominations —nine. "All in the Family," which features a bigot in the leading role, followed with eight. Both were nominated for outstanding comedy series, along with "Arnie," "Love, American Style" and "The Odd Couple."

For the outstanding dramatic series: "The First Churchills," "Ironside," "N.E.T. Playhouse," "Marcus Welby, M.D." and "The Senator—The Bold Ones." Nine nominations went to the latter show, which has been canceled by NBC.

Public Broadcasting

Public broadcasting scored impressively in the nominations. Among the nonnetwork shows cited in various categories: "The Andersonville Trial," "N.E.T. Playhouse," "Seasame Street," "Kukla, Fran and Ollie," "Montserrat" and "The First Churchills."

Other nominations included:

Single performance by leading actress: Colleen Dewhurst (Mrs. George C. Scott), "The Price;" Lee Grant, "The Neon Ceiling;" Lee Grant, "Ransom for a Dead Man."

Leading actor in dramatic series, Raymond Burr, "Ironside;" Mike Connors, "Mannix;" Hal Holbrook, "The Senator—The Bold Ones;" Robert Young, "Marcus Welby, M.D."

Actress Nominees

Leading actress in a dramatic series: Linda Cristal, "High Chaparral;" Susan Hampshire, "The First Churchills;" Peggy Lipton, "The Mod Squad."

Leading actor in a comedy series: Ted Bessell, "That Girl;' Bill Bixby, "The Courtship of Eddie's Father;" Jack Klugman and Tony Randall, "The Odd Couple;" Carroll O'Connor, "All in the Family."

Leading actress in a comedy series: Mary Tyler Moore, "The Mary Tyler Moore Show;" Jean Stapleton, "All in the Family;" Marlo Thomas, "That Girl."

The Emmies will be awarded during an NBC special May 9. For the first time in a couple of decades, the show will originate only in Hollywood. Johnny Carson will emcee.

Aid From GIs Gratefully Received by Ailing Miss

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Tears streamed down the cheeks of 17-year-old Paula Holt as she thanked "all the gang at Phan Rang." Her 20-year-old brother Gary could only say "thank you" again and again.

The $30,000 Air Force Sgt. Robert L. Jones gave the Austin brother and sister Monday night, contributed by servicemen in Vietnam, will help Paula and Gary fight a rare disease.

The malady, acute nephritis, already has taken the lives of three of their brothers and sisters.

The money Jones brought from his station at Vietnam's Phan Rang Air Base will be used by the young Holts for 15 hours of treatment each week by an artificial kidney machine which cleanses the blood of impurities. Some day they hope to have kidney transplants.

Many Spectators

"This is really a thrill to me," said Jones, 22. He and his wife Norma, of Turlock Calif., were given a red carpet greeting by the Austin Chamber of Commerce and several hundred spectators.

"This $30,000 is all I've got with me," Jones said. "The rest is back with the gang at Phan Rang. We have over $50,000 in pledges now."

Jones flight from Vietnam to the United States was sponsored by World Airways and his fare from California to Austin was paid by Jones' squadron mates. He plans to leave Austin Wednesday for the return trip to Vietnam.

A heavy weapons specialist with the 35th Tactical Fighter Wing, Jones read in Stars & Stripes that the Holts owed more than $20,000 for kidney treatments.

Raise $5,000

He started a campaign for funds, hoping at first to raise $5,000.

"All of a sudden I realized there was a way and the guys in Vietnam could help these kids," Jones said. "When people started talking it up, the money began coming in almost faster than we could count it. In less than two days I had $30,000 in my hand.

The Air Force gave him permission to fly back to the United States to deliver the money to the Holt family on behalf of all the men who had contributed.

Companion Acquitted In Angela Davis Flight

NEW YORK (AP) —DavidR. Poindexter II has been acquitted by a federal court jury of hiding Angela Davis while she was being hunted by the FBI as a fugitive from California.

"This is a minor skirmish in a big war," Poindexter told newsmen after the verdict was announced in U.S. District Court Monday. "The major battle is in California over Angela."

The jury of seven men and five women debated two hours and 10 minutes at the end of the week-long trial. "Thank you, thank you very much," Poindexter, 36, said as he shook hands with the jurors afterward.

Judge John M. Cannella had instructed the jury to acquit Poindexter if it believed he was unaware that a federal warrant had been issued for her arrest.

California Charge

Miss Davis was sought by California authorities on murder and kidnap charges for allegedly supplying the guns used in a courthouse shootout last Aug. 7 in San Rafael, Calif. Four persons including a judge were killed.

Federal warrants for Miss Davis were issued later that month when she was accused of fleeing across state lines to avoid prosecution.

The prosecution presented 44 witnesses, including motel employes and news media representatives, in an effort to show that Poindexter and Miss Davis traveled around the country for eight weeks to prevent her arrest.

They were arrested together at a motor inn here Oct. 13. Miss Davis is now in jail in San Rafael.

Poindexter's lawyers rested without calling any witnesses, relying on the argument that the prosecution had failed to prove its case beyond a reasonable doubt.

Judge Cannella said the jury could convict Poindexter if it found sufficient circumstantial evidence of a "high probability" that the defendant knew of the federal warrant. "If you find that the defendant had knowledge only of the state charges, you must acquit him," he added.

Burglar Trap Brings Conviction

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — A man convicted of setting a "burglar trap" that wounded a teen-age boy has been sentenced to three weekends in jail.

Don L. Ceballos, 32, also was sentenced Monday to one year's probation and was ordered to accept psychiatric treatment.

Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner stayed imposition of the sentence pending appeal.

Ceballos was convicted by a jury Feb. 11 of assault with a deadly weapon by attaching a .22-caliber pistol to a post in his garage and running a wire from the trigger to the garage door.

A 16-year-old boy was shot in the throat when he opened the door May 15, 1970. The youth recovered and was turned over to juvenile authorities whose proceedings are secret.

Fiery Lava Destroys Observatory

CATANIA, Sicily (AP) — Flaming lava from Mt. Etna destroyed the century-old observatory near the top of Europe's most violent volcano today and cut the cablecar route up the two-mile high mountain. The observatory was empty and no one was hurt.

With the eruption in its seventh day, experts said it was diminishing in force and the lava flow had slowed to about 40 per cent of its first eruptions.

Police ordered tourists and sightseers back from the upper levels of the mountain. There was said to be still no danger, however, to farming villages halfway up the slope or to the tourist-filled Mediterranean resorts at the foot of Etna.

A new stream of lava spewin molten rock from vents on the southeast side of the central cone poured through the observatory, which had survived successive eruptions since it was built toward the end of the last century. The building was used as a shelter for vulcanologists venturing near the crater during eruptions.

The cable railway was ordered closed after another lava stream passed under it and damaged one of the supporting pylons. The lava had piled up too deep to allow clearance for the cars, officials said.

Haiti Now Has Quickie Divorces

3-Day Residency, Presence of Only One Person Required

By PETER M. HALL

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Unhappily married foreigners can get rid of their mates legally by paying a three-day visit to Haiti and as little as $500 in attorney's fees. The unwanted husband or wife need not come along.

The Haitian quickie divorce was made possible by two presidential decrees signed last November and December. That was about the same time that a new law banned quickies in the Mexican state of Chihuahua.

The divorce business had brought a kind of fame—and a lot of American dollars—to Chihuahua's city of Juarez, across the border from El Paso, Texas.

Now rising numbers, of would-be divorcees from the United States are coming to Haiti. One Port Au Prince hotel said seven of its American guests in a recent week were here to cut their marriage ties.

To get a Haitian divorce, a foreigner first must pay $100 for a document establishing his residence here.

A travel agency that was given a monopoly for introducing divorce clients to attorneys has a list of legal fees ranging from $500 for an uncomplicated case to $750 or more.

The client may leave Haiti after a three-day stay and his lawyer will take care of the rest, including notification of the spouse.

If a reply from the spouse is not received by authorities within 15 days, the dean of the Haitian Civil Court hears the case and makes a decision.

Grounds for divorce are separation for at least a year, outrage, cruelty, serious injury and adultery. But Haitian authorities advise foreign divorce-seekers to make sure that a Haitian divorce is legal back home.

A BOY, TOO, NEEDS TO FACE THE UNKNOWN

It takes courage to leave the security of the known and break through to the new and unknown. Twenty-six of our Astronauts learned it at an early age. All of them were once newspaperboys.

While a child is growing up, home and family shield him from the world. But there comes a time, usually during the pre-teens, when a boy needs to "break away from his mother's apron strings" and develop the courage to face the world as a man. A newspaper route gives a boy just such an opportunity.

A route is a genuine opportunity for neighborhood service. It gives a young man a way to answer parents who say, "You're too young; wait until you get a little older." As a newspaperboy, he leaves the backyard. He meets strangers both cordial and cantankerous. He copes with weather and barking dogs. He learns that certain people don't pay their bills promptly. He learns that money isn't a handout from mom and dad, but instead is the result of performing a service that somebody needs and wants.

He learns that he can save money. He experiences that satisfying feeling of earning his way through his own efforts.

A boy today, perhaps more than ever before, needs activities that encourage real responsibility. He needs to feel that he's not an economic liability to the family, that he's more than a mere object of parental devotion. He wants to become a man.

What can be more important than this to a boy?

Let your boy explore the world on his own, yet under the supervision and guidance of a trained adult staff. Have him call us about a newspaper route. Who knows how far he can go?

DEAF, Inc. to Sponsor Dance

NEENAH-MENASHA — Inspired by last year's successful first annual "Happiness Is Helping" dance, members of the Deaf Education Aid Fund (DEAF, Inc.) are planning a second event from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. April 30 at the Cinderella Ballroom, Appleton.

Made up of concerned parents, teachers and others, DEAF, Inc. is a non-profit organization born of the need to help educate students to teach the deaf. Since its inception in May 1963, the group has helped approximately 20 students. Currently receiving assistance is Miss Ann Strong, Oshkosh, now a student at the University of Wisconsin - Milwaukee. Other scholarships are pending.

Tickets for the event, which will include a live band with music for all ages, will be available at the door the night of the dance. They may be purchased in advance at the First National Bank and the Outagamie County Bank, both in Appleton, and at the Old Armory, Neenah.

Mrs. Donals Peerenboom, Appleton, is handling ticket sales. Information about DEAF, Inc. is available from Mrs. Garwood Ferris, president, Neenah.

Erma Witnesses End of Era

BY ERMA BOMBECK

It was more than a passing interest that caused me to stop and read that the Lawrence Welk show is being cancelled.

Back in 1944, while I was still in high school, I applied for the job of copy boy on our daily newspaper. This was against my parents' wishes. According to my mother, newspaper people were as kin to sin as show business people. And we all know about them. How they chew gum, stay up until 10 and use words like, "Lydia Pinkham" and "kiddo."

Mother was quite relieved when they let me cover obituaries. In fact, she used to run around the neighborhood trying to get me "exclusives." ("If you go between 1 and 11 p.m., Mrs. Sidewinder, we can still make her deadlines.") Despite the fact that my proud mother was the only one in the neighborhood with a scrapbook of deceased people she didn't even know, she was still suspicious I would fall into bad company.

Bad company's name turned out to be Arthur and he was the drama critic. There was something about Arthur that intrigued me. I think it was the free passes that fell from his billfold. Or maybe it was the parade of weirdos who passed by his desk seeking promotion . . . the burlesque queens who always felt embarrassed in clothes, the big band leaders, the circus touters who did everything from planting a midget in his filing cabinet to bringing a Brahma bull up on the elevator.

One night, Arthur and his wife invited me to Wright-Patterson Air Force Base where a small band was holding forth. It was Lawrence Welk. He asked me to do the polka. I had never danced with a man wearing an accordion before.

When I returned home, mother was furious, "Where did you go tonight?"

I told her I was at a dance at the Air Force Base."

"Who did you dance with?" she asked.

"A man dressed in an accordion who put his finger in his cheek to pop a cork while the band played champagne music and he danced the polka."

"You mark my word," she predicted, "Weirdies like that will never make it in a decent world."

After 27 years, I wonder if Mr. Welk would like to try his luck in an indecent world.

Paul Weston, famous musician and orchestra leader, makes a good team with Jo Stafford in music, matrimony and bridge.

Opening lead: Nine of hearts.

South's hand was strong enough to warrant a game demand bid of two spades, and North's values were just enough for a positive response of three spades. The remaining bids were investigatory cue bids, and South leaped to the spade slam.

Many players would lose the slam. The unfortunate lie of the clubs would prove too much and South would eventually lose two club tricks and his slam. How did Weston avoid the loss of two tricks? He executed a rare type of safety play. Observe.

Weston won the heart lead with one of his high hearts and drew trumps in three rounds. His two remaining hearts were cashed to eliminate that suit from his hand and dummy. A diamond to dummy's ace followed by a ruff of dummy's diamond queen eliminated diamonds from both hands. Weston was ready for his dramatic play.

He played his club ace and then led his three of clubs to dummy's "strength" and was able to claim his contract regardless of how the club suit may have been distributed!

If clubs had been divided evenly (3-2), the ace and king would have established his fourth club. If clubs were unevenly divided (4-1 or 5-0), regardless of which opponent won the trick, Weston would enjoy either a free finesse or a ruff and discard.

Weston played his slam in a way that would guard against all club suit distributions. He gave up any chance for the overtrick but he nailed down the slam. Remember his play the next time you are in a small slam and you are wondering about your chances for an overtrick.

Your Problems

Ann Prints Letter Without Corrections

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANNIE BABY: You missed the boat in your response to the pot-head who insisted that grass made her more articulate, more lucid and sharpened her mind. Miss Pot-Head concluded by saying, "When I finish this letter it will be a masterpiece. If you fail to print it I will know you are a Communist . . ."

Well, you did print it, but you said her "masterpiece" contained 18 misspelled words, four non-sequiturs, and three unfinished sentences, and that you had to make considerable alterations before you could print it.

Why didn't you leave her letter alone and print it as she wrote it? It would have been much more effective. You missed the boat, Annie. — Mr. Everybody

Dear Mr.: Right you are. I missed the boat, but I opted to take a later boat rather than not make the trip at all. So here's the letter, as it was written:

'Dear Ann Landers: Your letter against pot last week was a joke. If you dryed up creeps want kids to believe you, who don't you tell the truth? I like my hair long. It looks fine. I have yet to see a single letter in your column tell the good things about pot. Why is that? Because you are a bunch of fuddy-duddies who are scare us kids to death. Well, it won't work. Most of us know more about pot than our parents and teachers put together. Getting turned on by Jesus is definately. I'm a 16 year-old girl who lives in a medium-size midwestern town. I have been smoking pot at least once a day for two years. It hasn't hurt me at all. In fax it has done me a lot of good. Not only is pot-smoking fun but it has expanded my conscientiousness and opened my eyes to the beaties of the world and unquestionable. This proves the police are pigs.

Grass has not dulled my mind. It has sharpen it. My think is clearer than it ever was. I am more aware things I never noticed before. Objects that used to look small look large, especialy when I. When I smoke, I see mental imagines in color instead of black and white. I used to be too shye to speak up in a crowd. Now I am a brilliant conversationist. I get stoned yet I am 100 percent lucid. I am express my inmost feelings brilliantly. Feet can be friends. When I finish this letter it will be a mastpiece.

If you fail to print it, I will know you are a Communist. In Russia they print only one side of story. The side they want people to believe. I'll be watch and waiting. — The Truth Will Win

Dear Truth: Your letter in the unedited form proved that a person who is stoned is no judge of his lucidity, his brilliance or the calibre of his performance. I should have printed it au naturel the first time.

DEAR ANN: May I say a word to that 16-year-old dopehead who signed herself "Truth Will Win?" I am also a teen-ager. This is my country, too. I am well aware of the hatred, the conflict and the violence that is tearing our nation apart. I know we will pay a terrible price for getting into a war we had no business getting into. I too, have grown up amidst riots, pollution, racial strife and drug addiction. Our generation will inherit the problem of taking care of the kids with fried brains. What plans do these spaced-out vegetables have for themselves come 20 years from now? People like me, who kept it all together, will have to provide hospitals for these sick ones. Keep telling them like it is, Ann. You will not reach everybody, but some of us do listen. Keep hammering away. — Awake in Waco

Dear Awake: I plan to — until my typewriter falls apart. Thanks for the encouragement.

Economy Now Leads Political Problems

Supplants Law and Order According To Poll; House Speaker Embarrassed

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Private nationwide surveys taken by pollster Oliver Quayle show that the "economic issue" suddenly and dramatically eclipsed the "social issue" for the first time during the month of March — more bad political news for President Nixon.

If the trend holds, it undercuts plans by key Nixon strategists — including his campaign manager, Atty. Gen. John Mitchell — to revive the law-and-order issue for 1972. Rather, the poll indicates that Mr. Nixon will have to rely on an improved economy to win next year.

Evans

Until March, Quayle's polling had been showing a 50-50 split as to whether voters put more importance on the economic issue ("fighting our way out of the recession; getting the cost of living down; reducing unemployment; lowering taxes") or the social issue ("preserving law and order; doing more to stop crime, drug abuse, demonstrations; disorder; lack of respect for authority; pornography").

But for the year ending April 1, Quayle's cumulative interviews with 2,620 people in seven states show 53 per cent more troubled by the economic issue, 47 per cent by the social issue. To open by a 6 percentage point gap on a 12-month average, the shift during March had to be huge.

The Speaker's Woes

Defeat in the House last week of an amendment adding $729 million to the education money bill was not only another in an embarrassing string of defeats for Speaker Carl Albert of Oklahoma, but also impaired relations between him and the powerful chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, Rep. George Mahon of Texas.

When the education lobby came up with its big amendment, Mahon, strongly opposing it, went to the speaker with this appeal: if the House approved the amendment and rolled Mahon's committee on a major money bill this early in the season, it would happen on bill after bill — sending the huge budget deficit into the stratosphere. Would the speaker support his committee chairman? Mahon later told friends he thought Albert would not actively support the amendment.

But when the vote came up Wednesday, Albert was whipping Democrats — including Oklahoma and Texas congressmen — into the teller line to pick up green cards for the amendment. In the cloakroom, Mahon was exasperated.

When Mahon beat Albert, 191 to 187, it added one more to the four defeats for Albert and his new leadership team in three months: Rules Committee reform, retention of the interest rate ceiling for government bonds, the SST, wage-and-price controls. On some of these issues (particularly SST), the leadership was passive. But Albert was working hard when he lost on the education money bill Wednesday.

Rumsfeld's No

A plan quietly engineered by top White House aide H. R. (Bob) Haldeman to shunt Mr. Nixon's two White House counsellors to office space next door was just as quietly quashed by counsellor Donald Rumsfeld.

Rumsfeld and counsellor Robert Finch, the President's oldest political pal, work out of offices in the White House west wing. Their duties, however, are amorphous and include a great deal of travel. Squeezed for space to handle the regular White House staff, Haldeman arranged spacious quarters for the two counsellors across West Executive Avenue in the old State Department Building, now known as the Executive Office Building (EOB).

Finch was agreeable, but not Rumsfeld. He rejected the eviction notice and Haldeman did not press the point.

The disagreement was symbolic of minor staff tensions. At a high-level White House discussion of the campaign expenditures bill, some presidential aides were lamenting the fact that there seemed to be no way to stop the Democrats from imposing stringent campaign spending limitations that would hurt Republicans far more than Democrats. When Rumsfeld suggested a remedy — a strong administration voice on Capitol Hill to explain what was really involved — Haldeman turned to him and said only half kidding: Fine, Don, then why don't you do it? You haven't got much else to do these days.

A footnote: The President's highly-publicized poverty session last week with Hollywood's movie moguls, who arrived in San Clemente in chauffeur-driven limousines, was arranged by Finch, who recently has been spending more time in California than in Washington. Finch eyes a 1974 Senate race against Democratic Sen. Alan Cranston.

Military to Wage New War—Ads

BY ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — The Army has launched a $10,600,000 TV and radio recruiting campaign. As the Wall Street Journal indicated this could make the U. S. Army one of the biggest prime time advertisers on television.

The announcement has the U. S. Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force boiling mad, as they are dependent on the networks for showing their commercials gratis, usually at 1 o'clock in the morning, just before they play the Star Spangled Banner.

It has to follow that the

Buchwald

Navy and Air Force will soon have advertising budgets as well, and pretty soon we'll have an advertising war on TV the likes of which we haven't seen since the soap companies added enzymes to their phosphates.

Since Madison Avenue now plays such a large part in electing our politicians, it's only right that they have a say about our defense.

I can just see the advertising agency making a pitch for the U. S. Air Force account.

"General, the Army is selling education, the Navy's selling travel and the Marine Corps is selling patriotism. We have to come up with something else."

"But what is left?" a four-star general in charge of advertising asks.

The agency man holds up a poster: " GET HIGH IN THE AIR FORCE."

The general says:"Are you sure that will attract young aviators?'

"Tht's just the opener, general. Here's the idea for a commercial. We show a dog-face in a muddy foxhole eating a can of corned beef. Then we show a sailor swabbing down the deck of an aircraft carrier all by himself. Then we cut to a marine, shoulder-deep in water, coming out on the beach, and then we show an Air Force officer."

Flying a plane?" the general asks.

"No dammit. He's walking down Sunset Boulevard with a girl on each arm. The voice-over says 'If you like corned beef, join the Army. If you like mopping decks, sign up with the Navy. If you enjoy walking in water with a full pack, join the Marines.'

"Then we pan to the two girls again, and the voice says 'The Air Force has a better idea.' "

"Isn't that a little blatant?" the general asks.

"General, you run your bombing missions and let me run my advertising campaigns."

"I don't know," the general says, "the Army may not like it."

"Does Hertz like Avis? Does Crest like Colgate? Does Pepto-Bismol like Alka Seltzer? General, this isn't war we're talking about now. This is serous business. All right, so you don't like that commercial. What about this one?

"We show a mother holding her head. Her 18-year-old son comes in with a transistor radio blaring out rock music. The mother shouts, 'Will you turn that radio off!' Her friend from next door walks in. 'Clara, you're nervous and short tempered. Here is what you need.' She hands her a folder and we zoom in on it. It says on the cover, 'If your children give you a headache, make them join the Air Force.' "

The general says, "Holy smokes, that's a bit rough."

The agency man says, "What do you want, good airmen or good taste?"

"Well, I guess you know your business," the general says.

"Now, I've got a surprise for you. I've come up with a slogan that will knock 'em dead. Are you ready?"

The agency man takes out a large poster, flips it over and printed in large letters over a B-52 airplane are the words: "FROM THE PEOPLE WHO GAVE YOU A CLEAN HYDROGEN BOMB."

Church Bells Silent In Deference to Dove

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The bells at Fruitvale Presbyterian church have been silenced temporarily.

The Rev. Robert Dow Nicholson explained Monday that he discovered a gray dove is nesting in the bell tower of his church, and he didn't want to disturb her.

On Easter, he said, the dove laid two eggs in her new home. The bells will be silent until the babies are hatched and can fly away, the minister reported.

Gov. Lucey Challenged to Debate Union

Senator Questions Efficacy of Merging UW, WSU System

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Gov. Patrick Lucey should publicly debate his proposal to merge Wisconsin's two university systems, a member of the state Senate Education Committee said Monday.

"The governor stresses to the taxpayers of Wisconsin that cost will be lowered and education improved if the merger is successful," said state Sen. James Devitt, R-Greenfield, in a statement.

But the legislator who failed in his bid to gain the endorsement for lieutenant governor last year said there have been "only hints" as to where savings would come from.

"If the cost will spiral, and experience has shown this to be true, Lucey's monolithic monstrosity is directly opposed to improvement in education," he said.

Devitt said the merger of the University of Wisconsin and Wisconsin State University systems would require reconciling opposing views of education and administration.

"There are many instances where loss of competition has stifled the initiative and innate vitality of the institution," he said.

"Studies have shown that institutions that are responsive to the needs of the individual students, as well as those of the community are decentralized systems."

Appliance Panel Resolves Major Problems

BY ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Should a manufacturer be obligated to supply free parts to a stove or replace a stove after the one-year warranty period has expired if the problems originated during the warranty period?

Should he also be obligated for defects noticed after the warranty period has expired for a stove that was plagued by other problems during the warranty period?

These are two of the thorny questions discussed at the latest monthly meeting of MACAP, a panel of eight consumer experts set up a year ago to resolve customer problems with appliances when satisfaction cannot be obtained elsewhere.

MACAP invited representatives of the press, Federal Trade Commission and Ralph Nader's study groups to observe and comment on the way it tackles the job of settling disputes between consumers and producers, retailers and repairmen in the appliance field.

MACAP means Major Appliance Consumer Action Panel. Its industry sponsors are the Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers, Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association and the American Retail Federation. It deals with almost all appliances except electrical ones.

Stove Case Typical

The case involving the stove was typical of ones referred to MACAP panelists by its Chicago clearinghouse. Approximately 60 per cent of cases are settled within a month and never reach the MACAP panel. MACAP's address is 20 North Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill., 60606. Its telephone number is 312-236-3165.

The stove case involved a number of complaints by a Texas housewife. The most important problem was a tendency of the stove to heat up even when the gas dials were turned off. After this defect was finally corrected following numerous repair calls, the oven doors fell off.

By the time the over-heating problem was corrected, it was three months beyond the warranty period, and the small manufacturer refused to pay the costs, which were $50.82. MACAP convinced him to pay them.

When problems with the stove persisted, and the manufacturer refused to keep paying, the case bounced back to MACAP. Obviously, the stove was a defective one, but also quite clearly, terms of the warranty did not require replacement of the stove or parts after one year.

Outlook Changes

Until recent years, that would be the end of it; the buyer would simply have no recourse but to pay through the nose for the "lemon" he got. But the outlook has changed because of new industry attitudes, exemplified by the creation of MACAP, and a series of court decisions and legislative efforts.

MACAP has adopted a policy that says a warranty is still in effect for problems that originate during the warranty period but extend afterward. Its members also are inclined to extend the warranty to cover new problems that arise after the period is over for an appliance that showed earlier defects.

Recent court decisions have supported this concept with the phrase "implied warranty." They have ruled that the simple act of placing a product on public sale carries with it an implied warranty that the product is fit for the purpose intended and safe for use regardless of time limits and other restrictions specified in a written warranty or guarantee.

But MACAP has no power to enforce its decisions; it must rely on the goodwill and business sense of member organizations and others in the industry. Judging from results of the first year's operations, it is making progress. In fact, it has stirred the interest of other industries in adopting similar procedures in order to stem the rising tide of consumer complaints.

Cases Settled

According to its own figures, it has satisfactorily settled a total of 1,855 cases out of 2,889 referred to it. These figures include several hundred received and processed by sponsoring industry associations before MACAP was formally organized in March, 1970.

Most of the complaints involved refrigerators and ranges. The proportions were 41 per cent for refrigerators, 24 per cent for ranges, 14 per cent for washers, 8 per cent for dishwashers, 5 per cent for air conditioners and 8 per cent for all other appliances under MACAP jurisdiction.

The most frequent cause for complaint was dissatisfaction with service or charges, which accounted for 22 per cent of all cases. Next most frequent complaint involved defects or poor performance, 19 per cent, followed by problems of getting parts or defective parts, 18 per cent.

Excessive repairs were the subject of 7 per cent of complaints, while warranty and temperature problems each accounted for 7 per cent more. Other less frequent causes of trouble were nonresponsiveness of dealers or manufacturers, excessive noise, food spoilage, safety problems, sales misrepresentation, improper installation and inadequate buying information.

Although MACAP expenses are paid by the industry associations sponsoring it, its members are not paid and are anxious to demonstrate their independence in handling individual cases and setting policies.

Chairman is Virginia Cutler, a professor of home economics at Brigham Young University. Members represent other universities, the YWCA, the Michigan Consumers Council and Credit Counselling Centers Inc.

They have already demonstrated some courage in supporting Congressional efforts to strengthen product warranties through legislation opposed by MACAP sponsoring associations.

In a number of cases, MACAP recommendations have gone against dealers and manufacturers. In one case, it suggested a settlement that turned out to be twice what the customer agreed to accept later. MACAP is an interesting experiment that shows considerable promise for the future.

College Week At UW-M June 16-18

Plans are moving briskly to make June 16, 17 and 18 the most interesting and exciting College Week yet at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, according to Mrs. W. F. Neuschafen, one of the area publicity chairmen.

These three days offer a unique opportunity for any interested woman to study one or more subjects in depth, meet women from throughout the state and enjoy student life, she reports.

Approximately 50 seminars will be held. Some are new, others revamped and updated, while others which have proven both popular and successful in the past, will be repeated.

A variety of entertainment, including the Stoughton Norwegian Dancers and tours in the Madison area have been planned. Also slated are guided tours of the Elvehjem Art Center, the State Historical Society Museum, the State Capitol and the Governor's Mansion in Maple Bluff.

Mrs. John C. Weaver, wife of the president of the university, will be the featured speaker at the opening session in the University Field House.

Registration and fee deadline is May 14. Charges for meals and lodging in Sellery Hall will be collected when the registrants check in on the opening day.

For registration form write to: Carol Ann Huber, secretary; Center for Women's and Family Living Education; 610 Langdon Street; Room 428 Lowell Hall; Madison, Wis. 53706.

Sew Bandanas Into Long Skirt

Summer fun fashions have snitched another look from the Western cowboy. It's the cotton bandana kerchief that used to grace the cowhand's neck.

Now these colorful red, white, and blue squares are being stitched together patchwork fashion for ankle-length skirts that are pretty enough to go out dancing in or casual enough to be worn over bikinis.

The navel-baring scarf skirts are often teamed with whimsical tops, calypso blouses, or T-shirts with embroidered sayings.

Archdiocese Fights Abortion By Counse ling

NEW YORK (AP) — The Roman Catholic Archdiocese of New York today begins offering a new counseling service that will present "a positive alternative" to pregnant women considering abortion.

Birthright, as the service is called, provides prenatal and postnatal medical care and then helps the mother keep the child or arranges for adoption, as she chooses. It will offer sympathy but no sermons.

Archbishop Terence Cardinal Cooke said Sunday the program would be accompanied by a large-scale advertising campaign to counter recent "accumulations of publicity" favoring abortion.

He said the program would seek to mitigate what he termed "massive pressures on desperate pregnant girls and women" brought on by the liberalizing of New York State's abortion law.

An advertisement for the program, to be run in metropolitan dailies starting Tuesday, shows a picture of a troubled girl and says in part:

"The sole purpose for the existence of Birthright is to give practical, loving help to any worried pregnant woman or girl — regardless of color or creed.

"It is the right of every pregnant woman to give birth and the right of every child to be born," the ad states.

"One of the things you won't get and don't need is a sermon. We want to help you and your child. Not to lecture you."

Water Important in Vegetable Cookery

The amount of water used in cooking vegetables is important. The less water, the more nutrients retained.

For young, tender vegetables, ½ to 1 cup water usually is enough for six servings.

Water to cover is needed for some older root vegetables that require longer cooking.

Rule Changes For Board to Be Ditched?

Committee Supports Switch; DeLaHunt Shows Indifference

BY DON CASTONIA
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Proposed sweeping rule changes for the Outagamie County Board may get swept under the rug amid charges that the proposed changes were politically motivated.

The board's rules and legislative committee Monday night agreed to stand behind the proposed new rules as they were originally presented to the board last month, but Board Chairman Russell DeLaHunt, who also chairs the rules committee, said it made little difference to him whether the new rules were adopted.

"I think we can function under any set of rules for the next year," he said. "The people on the board still will be the same."

The board chairman said there have been too many rumors that he wanted the rules changed for his benefit. "I don't want them (the rules) to be considered a power play of the chairman. I only wanted to see an orderly transition to the executive. I have fought for them, now I'm all fought out."

Change of Heart

Supv. Eugene Kloes, Appleton, asked, "What have we been doing here for the last six months?"

He charged that last Tuesday's county executive election results had something to do with DeLaHunt's change of heart on the rules. There must have been two sets of rules. Kloes said, one if Dist. Atty. James Long won and one if Administrator Alvin Woehler won.

The major proposed changes were to abolish the executive committee as it is now constituted and to replace it with a policy and finance committee; to create the position of legislative secretary to do research for the board; and to transfer final committee appointment power from the county board as a whole to the chairman.

The biggest issues were the new policy and finance committee and the legislative secretary.

Standing Committees

At present, the executive committee is comprised of representatives from the nine standing committees plus the board chairman and vice chairman.

The new policy and finance committee would have seven members.

Neither the board, at its March meeting, nor the rules committee Monday night, could agree on whether those seven members should be restricted to that one committee or if they also could serve on other standing committees.

Kloes and Supv. Charles Wussow, Appleton, felt supervisors on that committee should be restricted to that one committee to prevent their thinking from being influenced by membership on another committee.

Supv. Marvin Babbitt, Seymour, contended, "The more experience and the better the working knowledge of the county this committee has, the better off the county will be."

The proposed legislative secretary survived on a 3-3 committee deadlock on whether to delete the job from the rules presentation. DeLaHunt joined Kloes and Wussow in voting against taking the position out.

Deputy Clerk

However, the placement of the job was altered from the earlier proposal to have someone directly responsible to the county board.

Babbitt said state statutes make the county clerk responsible for all clerking functions of the county board and that the deputy county clerk was the logical person to function as the legislative secretary.

DeLaHunt said County Clerk Arthur Hoolihan has agreed to designate a person in his office to work with the board.

Kloes challenged that arrangement, saying if that were the way the statutes required the board to handle it, why did the county originally create the position of executive secretary?

DeLaHunt said that action technically had been illegal.

New County Push For Bridge Priority

Conradt Plan Boosts Oneida, French Spans

Outagamie County supervisors will be asked to back Appleton in seeking a shift in state bridge priorities from the Memorial Drive bridge to the proposed Oneida Street high-level span.

Supv. Ervin Conradt, Shiocton, chairman of the board's highway committee, said he was drafting a resolution for that support to be presented to the highway committee next Monday.

The resolution will then go to the entire board on Tuesday. Conradt said he has polled the other members of the highway committee and they have indicated agreement to the resolution.

At the same time, the resolution will call for giving the proposed French Road bridge second priority in the county.

Conradt said, "I believe there is a definite need for a high-level bridge. If and when the Memorial Drive bridge needs rebuilding or replacing, we must have an alternate traffic route across the Fox River through Appleton."

The new bridge, he said, would "certainly be a great benefit."

The French Road bridge is part of the proposed Tri-County Expressway system and has been strongly pushed by County Highway Commissioner Clarence Brownson.

Conradt said the county should petition the state for both bridges at the same time.

It will not be necessary to hold another public hearing to change the priority from Memorial Drive to Oneida Street, Conradt said. "The state determination will be made on the basis of unity between the city and county," he said.

Cost sharing for the bridge would be one-third state, one-third county and one-third city. However, Conradt pointed out that Appleton actually would be paying more than half of the total cost since it would pay 46 per cent of the county's one-third of the cost, in addition to its own full one-third share.

"I think the city is well aware of the cost factor," he said.

The Appleton City Council went on record early last fall to seek a change in the bridge priority. The city presented its position before a state highway commission hearing, but the county did not present an official stand at that time.

X-Way Shadow Stalls Zoning

BY CLIFF MILLER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Appleton planning commissioners, wading through a thicket of thorny issues Monday, put off a decision on a zoning change along French Road to buy time and avoid a conflict with Tri-County Expressway routing plans.

The land, owned by John J. Calnin, is located at the southwest corner of French Road and Northland Avenue. It was annexed from the Town of Grand Chute earlier this year as part of a 200-acre package

The property was zoned since the early 1960s for commercial use, but automatically comes under residential zoning in the city, under Appleton annexation procedures.

Ald. William Errington (15th), whose ward expanded to include the parcel, said he favors restoring the zoning but urged delay until the expressway route can be placed on the official city street map, an act that discourages construction in future right-of-way.

Errington said Clarence Brownson, Outagamie County Highway Commissioner, was in Green Bay Monday conferring with state Highway Commission officials on the expressway route north of French Road.

The right-of-way is reserved on the official map only as far north as the Fox River, with the route between the river and U.S. 41 along French Road only tentatively set.

Present maps show it occupying the Calnin property, however. Calnin promised the land wouldn't be developed before the route is fixed, but Errington said city officials should "protect ourselves."

Errington asked the plans commission "not to undo anything that has been done" in planning the expressway, and to wait "until we get a definite commitment from the state" on the route location.

Bridge Sought

There is a movement underway among local officials to seek state approval of bridge plans across the Fox on the French Road leg of the expressway, at the same time that state approval for a high-level bridge on Oneida Street is sought. Brownson, as county highway commissioner, is a key figure in both bridge projects, since both require county approval.

In other business, the plans commission:

—Ignored strong objections from neighboring home owners and recommended City Council approval of a zoning request by Lester Gauthier to change zoning from single - family to apartment residential use on 1.83 acres along N. Mason Street just north of Northland Avenue, to permit construction of a 36-unit apartment cluster.

—Endorsed and sent to the City Council a proposal to place Glendale Avenue between the west city limits and Bluemound Drive on the official city map, reserving the right-of-way against private development.

—Sent the Board of Public Works a recommendation to designate city-owned land in the Roeland Annexation area on the southeast side for residential use, considering the inability of the board and other government bodies to state a public use for the site. A local couple, Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Benedict, has offered to buy part of the property for residential use.

Zoning Reaffirmed

—Reaffirmed earlier zoning of a 26-acre site at E. Calumet and Schaefer streets for planned

Burglary Suspects Leave Bloody Trail

Two bloodstained trails, a demolished car and possible stolen property found inside the auto provided the only clues this morning to a burglary early today at the country Aire Club, 2311 W. Spencer St.

Outagamie County investigators are looking for two or three youths who apparently sped away in a car after triggering an alarm, then plowed off the dead end at S. Lynndale Drive onto the Chicago and North Western Railroad tracks.

Authorities said pools of blood were in the car and two blood-spotted trails led west of where the car came to rest on the tracks.

Investigators went to the Country Aire after the alarm sounded about 2:20 a.m. A rear door had been forced open and a coin-operated machine inside was tampered with.

Twenty minutes later, investigators were notified by the railroad that a severely damaged auto was on the tracks off the dead end at Lynndale.

Inside the car authorities found two handfuls of change, loose cigarette packages and a carton, a tape recorder, camera, electric shaver and other items. Police are looking for the source of the items which they believe might be stolen. The materials were found in the trunk and passenger compartment of the auto.

An engineer of a train, a Chicago and North Western freight, bound for Fond du Lac, told investigators that about 2:30 a.m. he saw two male youths running toward Perkins Street.

Police said the auto was registered to a Wausau man. A check with Wausau authorities revealed that the owner's daughter had allowed a youth to drive the auto to Green Bay two days ago. The youth had told her that he would pick up friends in Green Bay.

County, traffic officers and Appleton police surrounded the Country Aire and drew weapons when they thought the suspects still might be inside. They found tire marks near the club indicating the car was driven away at a high speed.

Authorities said the car, which had been southbound on Lynndale, snapped off a road sign, sheared off a sewer cover and bent a railroad track. The undercarriage of the auto was torn out, they said.

Checks at hospitals in the Fox Cities and in Oshkosh failed to disclose anyone who sought emergency treatment early today. Sheriff's department authorities said they received no word of hitchikers along U.S. 41 who appeared to be injured, nor did they receive any reports of residents' seeing injured or bleeding persons.

Authorities this morning were checking with railroad officials and police in Fond du Lac to determine whether the youths may have hopped the freight train to make their escape.

Police said the steering wheel of the auto was severely bent, indicating the driver was thrown against it when the car left the road.

An investigator, making a routine patrol check of a W. Wisconsin Avenue service station at 1:15 a.m., reported seeing three youths getting gasoline at the station in what he believed to be the same auto involved in the accident.

Two viles of blood samples will be sent to the state crime laboratory for analysis. The auto has been impounded at an Appleton wrecking service and is being held by authorities.

Air Wisconsin Reports 4,911 March Travelers

Air Wisconsin reported total passenger traffic of 4,911 at the Outagamie County airport during March. This includes 2,438 outbound passengers and 2,473 incoming passengers.

This compares to 4,066 in February and 5,206 during March 1970.

GOP Panel Aims At River Project

The executive committee of the Outagamie County Republican Party agreed Monday to look for ways to encourage local cooperation in attempting to have federal officials choose the Fox River for a river cleanup demonstration project.

The U. S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) reportedly is giving the Fox strong consideration as the river on which to employ latest management techniques in a national display of ways to clean a polluted river. The project is said to have a probable cost of $100 million.

The county GOP decided to look more closely at the prospects on the basis of a conversation between local party leaders and Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Green Bay, several days ago.

Byrnes told the group that strong cooperation between communities along the river is a fundamental requirement for a river to be chosen for the demonstration. Jerry West, Appleton, suggested a resolution encouraging local governments to cooperate.

Long Urges Wait

But Dist. Atty. James Long discouraged a public statement on the proposal until the party is better informed.

"It is unfortunate that too many people are in the business of putting out press releases" on such matters, Long said. "I find that there's nobody that really knows anything," he said.

His remarks were made amidst veiled references to the dispute over regional planning and federal grant coordination between the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) and the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission. The initiative to seek the federal demonstration grant for the Fox has come from COG, while Northeastern, founded primarily as a watershed planning agency, has been moving in other directions.

Donald Brown, Appleton, program chairman, said Byrnes indicated during the informal

Appleton Board Endorses Preschool Speech Program

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A federally funded program which would provide training for preschool children with oral language difficulties was endorsed Monday night by the board of education.

The goal of the program is to improve the ability of communication in as many children as possible so they can enter the normal kindergarten classroom without being handicapped, said Rolland C. Nock, director of special education.

The details of the program still must be approved by the State Department of Public Instruction, but Nock said the plan is to conduct a summer school session to discover which children are in most serious need of the help. Then, using 100 per cent state and federal funding, it will be conducted for two school years, he added.

Short Term Loan

James Westphal, director of academic services, said because the operating budget is so tight, the school might be required to take out a short term loan until reimbursement next year. However, he said this would be only a few thousand dollars.

The two-year, one summer school program is expected to cost about $135,000, and would be scaled down or up, if the eventual grant amount is altered. Some 70 per cent will be paid through the federal Elementary and Secondary Education Act Title VI and 30 per cent by the state department.

Westphal said that the district would have to pick up the 30 per cent share after 1972, the final year of the current grant.

Nock said that as many children as possible would be brought into the classroom program and hopefully the parents of the children with lesser difficulties can be trained to work with their children's problems. Speech therapist Miss Dorie Denessen and up to four aides will handle the inclass program while Miss Grace School, coordinator of the speech department, will help set it up and be adviser.

Nock said the program would be conducted at McKinley or Highlands elementary schools.

The board was shown a videotape of a youngster whose vocabulary was 20 words two years ago and now is in the hundreds or more.

Book Issue Delayed

The board delayed a decision on whether to establish a textbook rental or purchase program for the two high schools. The school's past supplier has indicated that it no longer wishes to handle the textbooks.

Dr. Kenneth Johnston, director of administrative services, said he and the other three administrative team members favored the purchase plan because it "will provide the students with full use of textbooks, hold to a minimum the expense that the board must assume and still will allow for a change to another plan at a later time."

He called for centralized purchase of books through the Morgan Administration Building, the sale of new books on consignment to students at enough cost only to offset expenses and the leaving of the sale of used books to the student councils or other organizations.

Jerome Boettcher, director of operations, noted the heavy initial outlay required by rental and also supported the purchase plan. "This is the only responsible position at this time," he said.

Parent members of the special text book study committee argued for the rental plan which they claimed 99 per cent of Wisconsin's schools had. The school system should buy and rent books to the senior high students as it does for the

Indigents' Defense Counsels Endorsed

Several months of study by the Outagamie County Board's Courts and Justice Committee today resulted in a recommendation that two attorneys be hired, at $8,000 each, to serve as part-time indigent defense counsels.

The recommendation, which passed the committee without a dissenting vote but which did not have the sanction of its chairman, will go to the finance committee April 19. It could go to the county board the following day.

Supv. John R. Schreiter of Appleton, who prepared the proposal, said the attorneys should be appointed by the presiding criminal court judge.

If adopted by the board, the defense attorneys would assume their offices June 1. They would be responsible for furnishing their own office staff. "There are lots of attorneys who would be interested in this," Schreiter told committeemen.

Legal Question

Supv. Paul Huseby of Appleton, committee chairman, said that because he is not convinced counties can legally appoint such permanent defense attorneys for defendants without funds, he will not fight the resolution on the board floor, but neither will he support it.

"I don't want to support something I don't know is correct," Huseby remarked. Schreiter said he had taken the proposal to Dist. Atty. James R. Long who told him it was legal.

There are five bills pending in the State Senate and Assembly dealing with indigent counsel, Huseby explained. This must mean there is a question about the legality of the present appointment system, he said.

Schreiter saw his dual defense counsel proposal, which would be an alternative to creation of a county public defender office, as "the only way to do justice to the indigents and the taxpayers."

Outagamie County paid out $25,000 to attorneys appointed to represent criminal defendants last year. Predictions on the 1971 cost have gone as high as $36,000.

No Limit Now

"Under the present arrangement, there's no limit to what we could be paying," said Supv. Thomas Woods of Appleton.

County Administrator Alvin Woehler told the committee it might want to check on the system by which an attorney is named for the defendant in court. Woehler said there might not be enough effort on the part of the court to determine if the defendant really cannot afford his own lawyer.

At present, the defendant who says he cannot afford a lawyer is placed under oath by the judge and is asked questions about his financial condition. Little else is done to determine if he has money, the committee was informed.

Planner Ordered to Continue Study of School Needs

Sidestepping the City Council and Mayor George Buckley, the Appleton Planning Commission Monday instructed Planning Director Jack Hetu to continue his study of central-city elementary school needs.

A recommendation previously endorsed by both the commission and the School Advisory Committee had been referred back to the commission by Ald. Alvin Tews when it came before the council for a vote.

At the same time, Buckley sent a request to the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) asking the regional planning agency to perform the study rather than have Hetu do it.

The COG policymaking body tabled the request and asked the mayor to substantiate his claim that the study is of regional nature, pointing out that all three schools involved serve Appleton residents. Buckley had lumped together the central city study and a companion study involving three Town of Grand Chute schools.

With the study of city schools sent back to the commission without council approval, the commission in effect chose to use its independent powers as the body having direct jurisdiction over Hetu's office to instruct him to continue the study.

He said he has been moving ahead with the project despite the lack of council approval.

The study includes the Columbus, Washington and Jackson schools, and encompasses investigation of the possibilities for modernizing them or, as an alternative, replacing them with a new central school.

Commissioner Ralph Gertsch objected that the questions are ones for the Board of Education to answer. But Ald. Judith Winzenz (12th), chairman of the school advisory committee where the proposal originated, disagreed with Gertsch.

"The central city area is a problem which is a city problem," she said, adding that "a part of that problem is the school."

Hetu said one aspect of his study is to investigate the possibility of using new school construction as the nucleus of a federally-assisted neighborhood renewal project. He stressed that the prospect is "iffy" at present.

Asked by Commissioner George Narovec whether continuing the study would conflict with the mayor's request to COG, Hetu said since COG tabled the request there is no conflict.

Asked whether it interferes with his other duties, he said it "dilutes" his time, but he feels the study is needed.

Commissioner Gordon Myse proposed delaying the commission's report to the council on the resolution to have Hetu perform the study, and instead instruct the planner to continue the project and report to the commission.

The commission can send a recommendation to the council after the study has been performed, Myse explained.

Gertsch cast the only audible opposing vote.

Citizens Object To Proposed Service Station

Kaukauna Opposes Planned Construction At Busy Intersection

KAUKAUNA — Aldermen and city officials are beginning to receive objections to the proposed construction of a gasoline station at Wisconsin Avenue and Lawe Streets, but nothing can be done to prevent its construction, according to Building Inspector Harold Loeser, who issued a permit for such a building.

The proposed site of the station is zoned properly and there are no restrictions in city statutes prohibiting such a building. To permit construction, a building formerly housing a bank, drug store and offices for professional people must be torn down.

Work already has started to raze the old structure. Clark Oil and Refining Co. purchased the old building and demolition is being handled by Madison Wrecking Company. All permits were applied for and approved before any work began.

Busy Intersection

The intersection is one of the busiest in the city, handling Highway 55 traffic as well as all traffic to and from Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co., the city's largest employer. The corner is the only one in the city where automatic signal lights are used to control traffic.

Deppite the traffic controls, police are planning to establish traffic lanes to regulate turns and through traffic as soon as weather permits.

At times traffic at the intersection becomes "bottlenecked" and this is one of the main objections to the proposed construction of a gasoline station on the property. The amount of traffic at the intersection, number of accidents and lack of adequate parking are given by citizens as reasons the station should not be built.

City officials and aldermen are sympathetic with those registering complaints, but admit freely there is nothing that can be done to prevent it. Plans are underway to review city statutes governing regulation of service station locations, but since nothing but zoning regulations now cover the matter, it appears the station will be constructed.

Post Office Security Force Probable in Valley by 1975

A new U. S. Postal Service security force probably will be available to Fox Cities post offices by 1975, according to Appleton Postmaster Francis H. Sumnicht

The force will be responsible for controlling access, maintaining order, preventing mail thefts, safeguarding customers and employes and providing basic security for buildings operated by the Postal Service.

Sumnicht said headquarters for the state's service is expected to be in Madison, with officers to be provided Wisconsin cities when necesary.

The security program recently was completed on a pilot basis in Philadelphia, and is scheduled this year for six other major United States cities.

Last October the Postal Service was assigned the responsibility of protecting Postal Service - operated buildings housing federal district and circuit courts. The security force will be assigned to more than 100 such installations throughout the country this year.

The force is expected to have 5,000 personnel by mid-1975.

Boy of 12 Is Delinquent On 36 Charges

Appleton Authorities Called Him Key in Juvenile Theft Ring

Admonishing a 12 - year - old Appleton boy to respect the property rights of others, Outagamie County Judge Raymond P. Dohr Monday found him delinquent on 36 offenses committed in 1970.

Detectives said the youth, who pleaded guilty in Juvenile Court, was one of the key figures in a juvenile theft ring which looted garages and service stations and damaged property.

Dohr, on the recommendation of a social worker, placed the boy on 18 months' supervision to the County Department of Social Services. It was his first appearance in Juvenile Court.

"He got involved in some things and a spiraling effect took over," explained the boy's attorney. The youth has been under the guidance of a minister.

A petition charged the youth with thefts and damage to property between March 7, 1970 and Jan. 28, 1971. Most of the offenses were thefts. Detectives said tools, fishing equipment, a gun and other items had been stolen from service stations, cars and private garages. Most of the stolen property has been recovered, they said.

The youth must pay $227.59 as his share of restitution.

Another member of the ring, 13, also was found delinquent Monday by Dohr. The Appleton boy pleaded guilty to most of 10 counts, and was placed on supervision to the county department for a year.

The incidents, which involved thefts and damage to property, occurred last October, November and December. The youth was named in the same gun theft with which the first boy was charged.

Most of the damage and thefts took place at Telulah and Mead parks. Dohr ordered restitution of $13.50 for shooting out 11 lights at Telulah Park last Dec. 8, with a BB gun.

Police said there were 14 youths in all, aged 12 to 15, in the ring. Most have yet to appear in court. Court action was waived in some of the cases where children were placed into the custody of their parents.

Earl Peterson New Postmaster at Eland

ELAND — Earl Peterson, route 1, has been appointed post master for the Eland Post Office. He was sworn in earlier this month.

Mrs. Verna Spranger had been serving as officer in charge since the retirement of Werner Wolfinger, who had been the post master for 30 years.

Peterson formerly owned the Peterson lumber Co.

Police & Fire Beat

Lester Harms, 19, route 1, Oneida, pleaded innocent Monday to a disorderly conduct charge. Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller scheduled trial for Thursday. According to a complaint signed by his wife, he bit her during a fight at their home early Monday. Bond was set at $400.

Glen I. Meidam, 74, of 815 Caroline St., Neenah, sustained cuts and bruises on the forehead Monday morning when the auto he was driving struck a parked car in the 1600 block of S. Seminole Drive. Meidam was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital by ambulance. Police said the parked auto was owned by Rex J. Kessler, 1610 S. Seminole Drive.

Elmer G. Rehmer, 67, of 914 E. North St., was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital by Larry's Ambulance Monday after a fall down basement steps at his home. Authorities said Rehmer sustained a forehead cut, and bruises to the head and arm.

A burglary at the Elk's Lodge, 129 S. Appleton St., netted $9.09 from a cash box, Appleton police learned Monday. They said entry was made through the front door. Lodge officials also informed police of a previously unreported break-in there Friday. A transistor radio worth $10, and $79 in cash were missing after the Friday burglary, officials said.

KAUKAUNA — Firemen extinguished a grass fire in a field near 17th Street and Oakridge Avenue at 1:50 p.m. Friday.

KIMBERLY — Police are investigating complaints of two residents who reported emblems and name plates stolen from cars parked near their homes over the weekend.

Marshall Van Hammond, 1352 Fulcer Drive, reported the name plate ripped from his 1970 model car and Clarence Wieseckel, 1420 Sunset Drive, reported name plates and emblems taken from two 1969 model cars.

COMBINED LOCKS — Roland Rusch Jr., 33, 228 Kamps St., suffered minor cuts and a bump on his head when the car he was driving west on Prospect Street went out of control, glanced off a telephone pole and struck a car owned by Stumpf Motors, Highway 55, Kaukauna, about 1:15 a.m. Monday.

The Stumpf auto was parked at R and R Body Shop, Darboy Road and Kimberly Avenue. Damage to the vehicles was estimated at over $650.

Bulk of U.S. Grant Will Benefit Valley

Most of a $75,000 federal grant approved for placing Wisconsin women in job apprenticeship programs will be funneled into the Fox Valley.

The mid-Fox Valley, from Oshkosh to the Fox Cities, is considered the "target area" of a new program aimed at getting more women into the nontraditional skilled jobs.

The grant, announced Monday by the U. S. Department of Labor, went to the State Department of Industry, Labor and Human Relations. The state department's division of apprenticeship and training is conducting the program.

Mrs. Norma Briggs, coordinator of women in apprenticeship said that most of the funds would be concentrated in the valley area in the two-year program which is serving as the launching base for improving job opportunities for women. Wisconsin has been a leader in providing women with nontraditional jobs.

The valley staff includes Mrs. Mary Bach, area supervisor, and clerical workers. Mrs. Bach has been contacting potential employers and women who might want to enter the program.

She said that she had started programs in auto mechanics and institutional projects, and has others "just in the developing stage," including a dietetic technician and auto reconditioner.

She said that she is convinced after 2½ months of making contacts that there are many women in the valley who would fit into the program — more women than there are jobs available at this time. Because of the economic conditions, she added, she would probably be laying the groundwork during fiscal 1972, the second year of the two-year grant, for future programs.

"We hope to at least let the women know about the opportunities in the nontraditional areas," she said.

Besides her personal contacts, the division is providing a film on women in nontraditional jobs which is available to potential employers and other groups.

The problems of women employment were outlined by Manpower Administrator Paul J. Fasser, Jr., in announcing the grant from Washington.

"Not only are women underrepresented in the nation's labor force, but they are concentrated in a narrow range of low-skill occupations," he said.

He said of some 8,500 apprentices in Wisconsin, only 4 per cent are women and most of those study cosmetology. Other states' percentages are more lopsided.

Appleton to Get Speedier Mail Service

Appleton is one of 11 Wisconsin cities included in a new postal system for swift relay of air mail.

Under the program outlined by Postmaster General Winton M. Blount, air mail deposited by 4 p.m. at a designated city would be delivered within 24 hours to certain cities within 600 miles.

Assuming the letter has proper postage and zip coding, delivery to major cities beyond the 600-mile radius would take place within two days.

The other 10 Wisconsin cities that have the air terminals and services needed to qualify are Green Bay, Eau Claire, Kenosha, La Crosse, Milwaukee, Madison, Oshkosh, Racine, Wausau and Superior.

The project begins April 22. In May the price of air mail stamps rises to 11 cents.

Former Employe Of Post-Crescent Dies at Age 77

Walter J. Schultz, former credit manager of The Post-Crescent, died Monday evening at Appleton Memorial Hospital. He was 77.

Schultz was born March 29, 1894, in Appleton and lived here all his life.

His career with The Post-Crescent began May 25, 1925, at the old Appleton Post-Crescent. He retired April 8, 1959. He was a member of The Post-Crescent 25-Year Club and was a charter member, director and vice president of the P-C Employees' Credit Union.

Schultz served in World War I and was a member of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Elks Lodge 337 and the YMCA.

He never married. Survivors include two sisters, one brother, nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Thursday at the Brettschneider-Trettin Funeral Home with burial in Riverside Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 3 p.m. Wednesday until the hour of services. The Legion visitation will be held at 7 p.m. Wednesday. Military graveside services wil be conducted. A memorial fund has been established.

'La Mancha' Lead Hurt in Crash, Play At Oshkosh Postponed

OSHKOSH — Postponement of the Oshkosh Community Players production of the musical, "Man of La Mancha," was announced today by Mrs. Betty MacNichol, codirector.

The show had been scheduled to open April 29 for a three-performance run at the Grand Theater.

Mrs. MacNichol said postponement was necessary because of injuries suffered by the leading actor, Carl H. Wenzel, 3120 N. Morrison St., Appleton, in an auto accident early Saturday night.

Wenzel, who is playing the role of Cervantes' Don Quixote, was released from St. Elizabeth Hospital Monday, and is recuperating at home. He suffered facial injuries in the crash, which took place on County Trunk OO at approximately 6:45 p.m. Saturday.

Mrs. MacNichol hoped Wenzel would be able to perform if the play were postponed. She said a new opening date would be set as soon as Wenzel was able to return to the cast.

All tickets already sold will be honored at the rescheduled performances, she said.

30 Days Given to Motorist Involved In Police Chase

A rural Appleton motorist was sentenced to jail for 30 days and fined $130 and costs this morning for leading Outagamie County police on a twisting, sixteen mile chase at high speed April 4.

John H. Calmes, 23, route 5, pleaded guilty to charges of attempting to elude a police officer and speeding before County Judge Gustave J. Keller. Keller authorized the Huber Law and revoked Calmes' driver's license for 3 months.

A patrolman, who was working a radar machine near Freedom, chased Calmes after he refused to heed a red light and siren.

County police said the squad car pursued Calmes on County Trunks E and S, State 55, County Trunks U and EE before finally catching him near Oneida.

GOP Says Robertson's Election Repudiates Lucey Administration

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Republican leaders welcomed their newest colleague to the Wisconsin Legislature today, declaring his recent election was a repudiation of Democratic Gov. Patrick J. Lucey's three-month old administration.

Rep.-Elect Alan Robertson, R-Blair, was introduced to legislators and newsmen in the Capitol a short time before he was to be sworn into office.

Robertson, 29, defeated Keith Hardie, former Democratic floor leader in the Assembly, for the seat vacated when Lucey named Rep. James Radcliffe of Strum as state highway safety coordinator.

Robertson's election was evidence, said GOP Minority Leader Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, "that the administration of Gov. Lucey has lost its credibility with the people."

"The Robertson campaign repeatedly took issue with the programs and policies of the governor, particularly as contained in his state budget recommendations," Froehlich said.

"Through the governor's austerity smoke-screen, (the voters) saw broken campaign promises, fiscal gimmickry and a perpetuation of unresolved problems," Froehlich asserted.

The former Assembly speaker said Lucey's program was on the line in the election and that he "flunked out."

Froehlich, Assistant GOP Minority Leader John Shabaz of New Berlin and GOP state Executive Director Stanley York shared the news conference stand with Robertson.

Froehlich said Robertson's election proved that Republicans can look ahead to additional election advances in 1972 legislative races.

Opposition to Merger

Robertson indicated he believed opposition to Lucey's controversial proposal to merge the two university systems was a factor in his April 6 victory.

"I wouldn't say that I am opposed to the merger," Robertson said. "But the opinion I got was that (many voters) are opposed to it."

Froehlich and Shabaz sharply criticized Lucey's revenue and spending programs.

Asked to compare Lucey's proposal with the 1969 budget of former GOP Gov. Warren P. Knowles, Froehlich replied: "The Lucey budget does not aid local governments as much. We sent back $392 million to local governments in 1969. Lucey's budget would send back only $270 million."

In some areas, Froehlich said, Lucey is taking a "meat ax" approach to state spending.

Board Directors, Officers Chosen At Kahler Corp.

Ray L. Roberts, president of the First National Bank of Rochester, Minn. has been elected to the board of directors of the Kahler Corp., Rochester-based parent firm of Kahler's Inn Towne in Appleton.

Roberts succeeds Robert A. Bezoier, who recently retired as president of the First National Bank of Rochester.

Directors re-elected to serve until 1972 are Roy Watson, G. S. Schuster, K. L. Ladner, J. W. Harwick, R. S. Branham, Dr. D. C. Campell, Robert Johnson, R. B. Milam and T. M. McDonnell. The position of honorary board member was retained by Mrs. Mary Kahler Hench.

Watson said the first quarter profits for 1971 were estimated at 40 cents per share, a 48 per cent increase over the 27 cents of last year.

All officers, including Watson, president; Milam, secretary-treasurer; Schuster, vice president, and Ladner, assistant secretary, were re-elected at a directors meeting.

K-C Sales Up, Earnings Down for 1st Quarter

NEENAH — Kimberly-Clark Corp. today reported that first quarter sales increased slightly but earnings were down.

Net income for the quarter ended March 31 was $10.3 million compared with a record $15.4 million in the same period of 1970. Per share net income was 44 cents compared with 66 cents a year ago. Sales were $236 million, up from $231 million in the same quarter of 1970.

Guy M. Minard, chairman, said sales and earnings from the firm's U.S. household and feminine hygiene products were at all-time highs for the first quarter. The performance of several paper lines, however, was down from the year earlier period.

Consumer product sales gains, he said, in part reflected introduction of new products, including Teri roll towels and Kotique feminine care items.

Minard said modest price increases for some product lines were not enough to offset a continuing rise in raw materials, manufacturing, distribution and marketing expense. A five-month strike at one midwest printing papers plant which ended Feb. 8 also contributed to volume and profit declines of the paper segment.

Both sales and earnings of the company's subsidiary in England were off sharply as a result of an eight-week mail strike and generally poor economic conditions.

Minard noted that price increases effective April 1 for several paper lines and for nessprint will help, but improvement in overall results for the year continues to hinge on significantly better general business conditions.

Figures for the three month period ending March 31 showed net sales of $236,352,000 as compared with $231,156,000 in 1970. Net income was down from $15,373,000 last year, to $10,326,000 in the same period this year. The average number of shares of outstanding stock was about 19,000 higher this year, at 23,396,000.

Rezoning Request Delayed development, rejecting a resolution by Ald. Glenn Thompson (13th), representative of the area, to return the zoning to single-family residential use.

Thompson questioned the lack of progress toward developing the tract, but a spokesman for the developers reaffirmed their recent statement that financial arrangements had faltered but now are being restored. The developers recently said plans call for a start sometime this year on the $10 million, 424-unit apartment complex.

Thompson said he acted on behalf of neighbors, who have begun to doubt the development will ever be undertaken. Only a building under construction will convince them, Thompson said, though he voiced no objection to the commission action.

The North Side apartment zoning request generated extensive debate, with residents from the area of the Gillett Highlands prestige subdivision objecting strenuously.

Fears Voiced

The owners of one-family homes voiced fears that apartment development nearby would cause their property value to deteriorate, while overburdening Highlands School, the sewer system and local streets. They said a 400-unit apartment complex is to be built directly north of the Gauthier property, on the same side of Mason but north of Northland Avenue.

Some of the same group was turned down several months ago when they came before the commission to oppose permits to move one of two older homes from another ward into their neighborhood. The owners of the homes promised to make improvements and meet the neighbors' objections, but the residents at Monday's session said the promises haven't been kept. They asked for better treatment from the commission this time.

But Commissioner Gordon Myse lectured the objectors, saying they "made valid points and expressed very legitimate concern," but that they "must understand that there is a place in this community and in all communities for multiple-family dwellings."

He said the Gauthier proposal is "modest" and that it is "not an invasion of this entire area, nor will it taint" the neighborhood.

One Opposed

Commissioner Ralph Gertsch cast the lone opposing vote after saying the development would strain the capacity of a nearby sanitary sewer lift station.

The Glendale Avenue extension was recommended for City Council approval after Grand Chute Town Chairman Ira Livingston Jr., and his father, objected. The senior Livingston owns much of the land the route would cross. The chairman said the town board opposes the route, saying it isn't needed since U. S. 10 is being rebuilt to the south to convey east-west traffic.

County Supv. Herman Ripp of Appleton and Alderman-elect Donald Day (19th) proposed extending Marquette Street rather than Glendale. Commissioners chose Glendale because it is the half-way point between U.S. 10 and County Trunk OO and because according to Planning Director Jack Hetu the route would encounter the least number of existing buildings in its path — the senior Livingston's home being the only one.

Higher Rates Set for General Telephone Co.

Firm Also Granted Increased Customer Service Charges

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — New, increased telephone rates and service charges will be imposed by the General Telephone Co. of Wisconsin, beginning with the first billings after the end of April.

The new rate schedules and service charges were approved last week by the state Public Service Commission. Base rates for General Telephone were last revised in 1960. Service charges moving equipment were last changed in 1968.

The new rate system provides for different rates for eight ranges of local service, determined by the number of customers that can be reached via local calls and various rates for single and multi-party lines and for residential and business connections.

While the base rates and service charges will be increased, charges formerly made for colored phones and long cords will be discontinued since colored equipment now is as readily available as the standard black and most customers choose the longer cords.

Changes at Brillion

Multi-party service will be discontinued at Brillion where all customers now have changed to one, two or four-party service and will be charged under the new rate schedule.

New rates for Nichols and Seymour, and Brillion where they apply will be $7.75 for residential one-party; $6.75, two-party; $5.80, four-party; $7.05, rural four-party, and $6.05, rural over four-party. Private business rates will be $14.50.

Chilton and Hilbert subscriber rates will be $7.90, one-party residential; $6.90, two-party; $5.95, four-party, $7.20, rural four-party; $6.20 rural over four-party, and $15, business one-party.

In Shiocton, Birnamwood and Black Creek new rates are $8.55, one-party residential; $7.50, two-party; $6.55, four-party; $7.80, rural residential four-party, $6.80 rural residential over four-party, and $17 for one-party business.

Installation costs will be raised from $6 to $10 for residential service. Moves and changes of equipment will be increased to $7.50 for residential phones.

Rural Fremont Man Found Dead in Barn

FREMONT — Lester Zuehlke, 56, route 1, was dead on arrival around noon Monday at New London Community Hospital.

Winnebago County Coroner Duane I. Moore has ruled the death a suicide. Zuehlke, a bachelor who had been in ill health for 10 years, was found dead in his barn.

GOP Panel Aims At River Project

discussion that other watersheds in the nation, where unified planning and enforcement already exist, "probably have the inside track" toward getting the demonstration grant.

Long warned the party against taking a stand in the local situation "because they like or don't like certain personalities," which he said is the basis for too many local actions.

Other members observed that according to impressions from the Brynes conversation the agency in charge should have both planning ability and enforcement powers. One suggestion was that the state Department of Natural Resources might be the agency to work through in seeking the grant.

Two other Wisconsin rivers, the Wisconsin and the Milwaukee, also have been suggested for the project. Numerous rivers in other states also reportedly are under consideration.

Brown said he will be in Washington soon to meet with Byrnes on other matters and he agreed to attempt to learn more through the congressman.

William Heerman, Appleton, a delegate-at-large, told the executive committee the need for coordination among communities presents "a wonderful opportunity for John Byrnes." Heerman added, "He could be a marvelous catalyst" in bringing communities together.

Byrnes' district includes both Outagamie and Brown counties. Officials from both counties have been working together to some extent toward presenting the case for using the Fox for the demonstration.

junior high students, the committee recommended.

Committee members called it the best long range possibility. They also said it would help to alleviate much parental complaint about the textbook policy the schools now have.

Critical of Administration

Mrs. George Schwarzbauer, a committee member, criticized the administration for its recommendation. She said she was "very shocked" that it had made such a recommendation after the committee spent long hours to come up with its recommendation.

She urged the board and administration to "think about us people and listen a little bit."

Johnston also reported the loss of expected state aid for foster home tuition students because the state has decided to effect its revised law on them a year early. He said that the district had expected $23,325 reimbursement for the 1971 budget but received only $42.20 for one student in a special case.

Under the state law, a district would be reimbursed only for foster students exceeding 1 per cent of enrollment.

The board also accepted bids totaling $14,560 for Appleton West High addition furniture and several hundred dollars for paper products.

Adams Revises His List of Priorities

MENASHA — It's mid-term for Mayor James Adams. He feels he's done just about all he can on a sewer user fee, and "now I can start devoting some time to other issues."

His priority list for the second half of his two-year term starts with repair of local sanitary and storm sewers and eliminating clear water infiltration into sanitary sewers, which the state has ordered to be done by next year.

Number two on the list is downtown redevelopment, "coupled with an economic upturn." Adams believes without an expanding economy, investors aren't gong to be interested in spending development money here.

This is "formation of a sound and adequate planning agency for the Fox Cities' metropolitan area. Adams wants a final resolution to the hassle between the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) and the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission (NWRPC) over a merger or formation of a new agency for the area.

Adams said this today about several unfinished items of business that he can now devote time to:

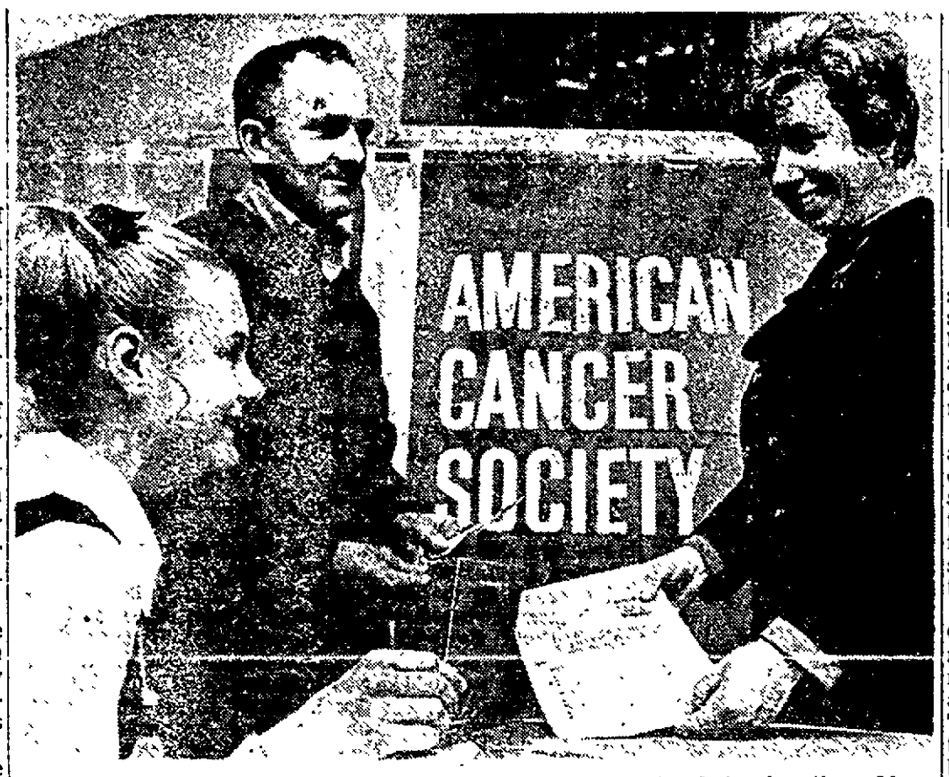
He's in the process of drafting a proposed minimum standards housing code, which the city must adopt to become eligible for federal urban renewal funds for downtown renewal.

A code is needed as part of the workable program a city must be certified by the Department of Housing and Urban Development in order to qualify for urban renewal and other urban improvement aids. Neenah has one. So does Appleton.

Adams said he hopes to see a meeting between the Menasha Redevelopment Authority (MRA) and two potential downtown developers later this month.

Adams said he will ask the planning commission to begin considering other parts of a comprehensive plan (community facilities and transportation segments) later this month or early in May.

The mayor's big push will apparently be towards sewer repair and improvements and clear water separation, which he said is "going to cost quite a bit of money in the next two years."



The Outagamie County Unit of the American Cancer Society began work for the 1971 fund drive at a kickoff meeting Monday. Special emphasis was put on the residential drive, set April 26, when hundreds of students and adult volunteers will join forces to canvass all the neighborhoods for donations. Mrs. Raymond Olson, right, residential chairman, lays out some plans for the drive with Mrs. Stephen Olson and Lawrence Dreier, both volunteers. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Industrial Flows Reported, Plant Designs Are Changed

NEENAH-MENASHA — The sewerage commission took two steps forward and one step backward Monday night in its advance on a new plant and compliance with state abatement orders.

The steps forward: Plan Manager Ronald St. Laurent was directed to prepare soil boring specifications for bid and advertise same. The tests are the first physical move toward construction of the $17.2 million treatment plant.

Commission attorney William Giese was told to draft a resolution asking the Department of Natural Resources to amend its orders to local mills. The amendment would remove the option they now have to build their own treatment works and commit them to the cities' plant.

"It would put the cities in a better bargaining position in any contract they enter into with industry," Giese said.

Design Data

The step back was taken by the commission's consulting engineers, Consoer & Townsend. They presented a booklet of basic design data for the preparation of contract drawings and specifications, but were forced to withdraw it immediately.

The still birth's cause was a new set of figures from local industry that seemed finally to satisfy the commission's seven-month-old questions to them asking how much wastewater they intend to send to the new plant.

Twelve local industries were asked again three weeks ago to give use figures in volume and strength for 1970 to 1975 and through 1985. "It was not totally responsive as we requested," said St. Laurent. But it is good enough to draw up the basic design data.

The previous responses by industry were not good enough, so the commission had to ask again for the same information. C&T said it will be back at the next commission meeting with new basic design data founded on this response from industry.

The responses did not quite constitute binding commitment to participate in the new plant. "It would be a flagrant breach of good faith and highly unethical if they answered with no intent to be in the new plant," said Giese. But it is not legally binding.

Commissioner Adam Haber insisted that no contracts be entered into until there were cost figures available. "They have a right to know what the costs will be," Haber said.

The latest report from industry pegs their flows at "considerably less than what got to us in August and September and finally came in November," said St. Laurent. He had not tabulated the figures.

C&T's basic design data was for a 31.9 million gallon a day flow from industry to 1985. Municipal flows were 6.1 MGD for a total daily average flow of 38 MGD. Another 20 MGD was added for wet weather and a plant able to handle 58 MDG maximum daily flow and 76 MGD peak hourly flow was roughed out. This data will now be junked. "We'll design for what they need," said St. Laurent.

C&T presented the commission with a proposal to do a study of the plant's interceptor system. The study is to be made in conjunction with new plant construction so any changes needed can be made at the time the work is going on — not after it is done. C&T is asking $15,000 for it.

Two more study proposals are yet to come. One will be on the solid waste disposal system at the plant. The other will give specifications for sampling and measuring devices that will be used to meter the volume and strength of industrial wastes. The measures will form the base for charges under new ordinances.

The commission decided to look at the wiring and switches that control motors in the ash settling area and run the incinerator. St. Laurent says the work has "very, very high priority;" the commissioners want to see. The $5,500 job is budgeted.

Bids will be let for the demolition of two frame buildings on commission property north of the plant. The Menasha fire department rejected them as training sites.

The commission decided to pay commissioners in unusual cases where they suddenly had to give up a whole day of work. Adam Haber was paid $75 for a day and a half of court testimony in a suit between the commission and Honold Painting Co. The commission will vote on each instance.

Shared Time Cut

MENASHA — The shared time program between Menasha High School and St. Mary High School will be substantially reduced during the 1971-72 school year.

The board of education stuck to its former position that it would allow the shared time program as long as the Menasha school system did not have to add staff to accommodate it.

Supt. Alan Osterndorf told the board Monday night of several openings in courses at Menasha High School, but not enough to allow participation by as many St. Mary students as that school wished.

For example, there are eight openings in home economics I, and St. Mary was interested in enrolling 22 students in that course. In total, Osterndorf said, Menasha High School could accommodate 16 St. Mary students next school year, although the parochial school had been interested in sending 41 students.

The Menasha school system is in its second year of a shared time program with St. Mary, in which Menasha students attending the parochial school, can enroll in home economics, industrial arts or Spanish courses at Menasha High School.

About 45 St. Mary students are involved with the shared time program this year.

The Rev. David Kiefer, St. Mary administrator, had written the request for continuance of shared time to both Neenah and Menasha school districts. Shattuck High School is involved in the shared time program on a much smaller scale than Menasha High School. A decision by the Neenah board of education on whether to continue it is still pending.

Ruling Expected Soon in Winneconne Board Recall

OSHKOSH — Circuit Court Judge Edmond P. Arpin has taken under advisement the question of whether a school board commissioner can be legally recalled.

Before some 40 spectators, including the two opposing attorneys, members of the Winneconne school staff, board of education members, and other Winneconne taxpayers, Arpin said he would get his opinion out as soon as possible.

Harvey Weiss of the Winneconne Taxpayers Association and represented during the hearing Monday afternoon by Atty. Richard Steffens of Menasha, was one of the pushers behind petitions that went out last December that went out three school board members.

One Resigned

Since one of the board members resigned, however, only two were filed with the school board clerk, Robert Schueler, who was represented in court Monday by Patrick Coughlin of Winneconne.

The petitions ask the recall of board members George Dobberke and Gerard Eisch. According to Weiss, the Winneconne Taxpayers Association has been upset with the school board, especially in regard to the school's building program.

After consultation with his attorney, Schueler said he didn't feel the petitions were applicable because no statute specifically provided for the recall of school board members.

A writ of mandamus was served on him in late February.

Steffens hit on a point he has made before that other elected officers of the county and state can be recalled, but the school commissioner's job seems to be "sacrosanct," even though he is elected to a three-year term.

When the majority of people are dissatisfied (and Steffens pointed out the four defeated high school referendums) and do not believe that the board members are carrying out the wishes of their constituents, the board members should be able to be recalled, Steffens contended.

500 Signers

He pointed out that 1,500 people signed the petitions, but Coughlin later said that the 1,500 signers of three petitions represents some 500 people, not 1,500 persons.

Steffens also hit hard on his contention that the Winneconne School board members had legislative duties since they had the power to tax.

"Is this really a legislative district? We think it is," Steffens said.

And according to the state statutes, an official elected to more than a two-year term in a legislative district, can be recalled.

1926 Statute

However, the statute did not specifically say that this referred to school board members. Steffens said that when the statute was set up in 1926, they weren't school districts. But that doesn't mean they wouldn't have been included if they had been in existence, he added.

Coughlin stressed the fact that the school board members were not included.

And he said that at the time there were school districts "all over the state of Wisconsin."

He also said that when the statute was set up, that town, villages and cities weren't included, but later it was extended to apply to city elections. However, it was not to towns, villages or school districts.

"I don't think the recall provision is applicable to school districts," Coughlin said.

Court Removal

He pointed out that there was a statute for removal of school district officers, but this was through the courts.

In regards to the legislative district push of Steffens, Coughlin said that just because school board members have legislative functions, it does not mean it is a legislative district.

He also maintained that a legislative district refers to an assembly or senatorial district.

The school board also has judicial powers over staff members, but that doesn't make it a judicial district, he said.

"All the legislature had to do was say all elected officials are subject to recall, but they didn't do that. They designated those subject to recall," Coughlin said.

Coughlin said that Schueler has to follow the law and he can't call a recall election just because he has received some petitions, but only if the legal procedure permits him to do so.

Crash Injures 4 Near Greenville

GREENVILLE — A two vehicle accident late Monday afternoon on U. S. 45 resulted in injuries to both drivers and the two passengers in one auto. It occurred at the intersection just northwest of State 76.

A truck driven by Louis C. Ellenbecker, 48, route 1, Appleton, was struck in the rear by an auto driven by Lyman E. Wolfe, 59, 513 Oshkosh St., New London.

Ellenbecker sustained back and neck pains and Wolfe suffered chest pains and was bleeding from the ear. They were taken by ambulance to Appleton Memorial Hospital.

Passengers in the Ellenbecker vehicle, Lois Ellenbecker and Tammy Ellenbecker, sustained bumps, and Lois, neck pains.

Sherwood Legion Seeks Support For King Home

SHERWOOD — Members of the Thomas E. Kees American Legion Post have been asked to contact other veterans and urge them to write their assemblymen, senators and Gov. Patrick J. Lucey to retain the status of the Grand Army Home at King. Lucey's proposed budget cuts would limit service and construction at the home.

Robert J. Veeser, Chilton, Calumet County veterans' service officer, discussed the GI Bill and state loans available to veterans at a recent post meeting. He also told of the benefits available to veterans if they will let it be known that they are in need of help.

Roman Becker and James Rae were named delegates to the Sixth District Conference to be held Sunday at Winneconne.

Work parties are being organized for the annual Spring Festival to be held April 24 and 25 at the clubhouse and to prepare the baseball diamond at the Legion Park for the Youth League.

Preparations are being made to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the post on Veterans' Day. Anyone having suggestions for the celebration should contact the officers.

A nominating committee composed of Carl Hendricks, Alvin Drousth and Clarence Zahringer, was named to prepare a slate of officers for the next meeting.

Certain Sentry Insurance to be Sold by Hancock

STEVENS POINT — Sentry Insurance and the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co. have said they will enter into an agreement enabling John Hancock agents, initially in a limited marketing area of a few states, to offer property and casualty insurance underwritten by Sentry.

The announcement by Gerhard D. Bleicken, Hancock's chairman and chief executive, and John W. Joanis, Sentry's chairman and chief executive, followed approval by both boards of directors. The agreement is expected to be put into operation by mid-summer.

An initial marketing area will be selected soon with expansion of the program to occur as warranted. Frank B. Maher, Hancock president said that Hancock agents, when licensed, will be able to sell Sentry's personal lines of private passenger automobile insurance, homeowner's policies, fire and extended coverage on dwellings, and property-liability insurance for boats.

Under terms of the agreement, Hancock will form and provide all of the capital for a subsidiary which will fully reinsure all Sentry policies sold by licensed Hancock agents. Sentry will be responsible for all administrative aspects of the program, including the training of agents and the underwriting and servicing of all policies, including claims.

we make things a little easier with your health insurance

Health insurance programs should make it easier on the individual and the employer . . . and WPS Blue Shield does. That's just one reason why more than half a million Wisconsin residents now carry the WPS Blue Shield identification card entitling them to hospital, surgical and medical benefits.

No forms to fill out. Just solid coverage for accidents and illness to individuals or groups...large groups... and small businesses with as few as three employees.

WPS Blue Shield. We make things a little easier with your health insurance.

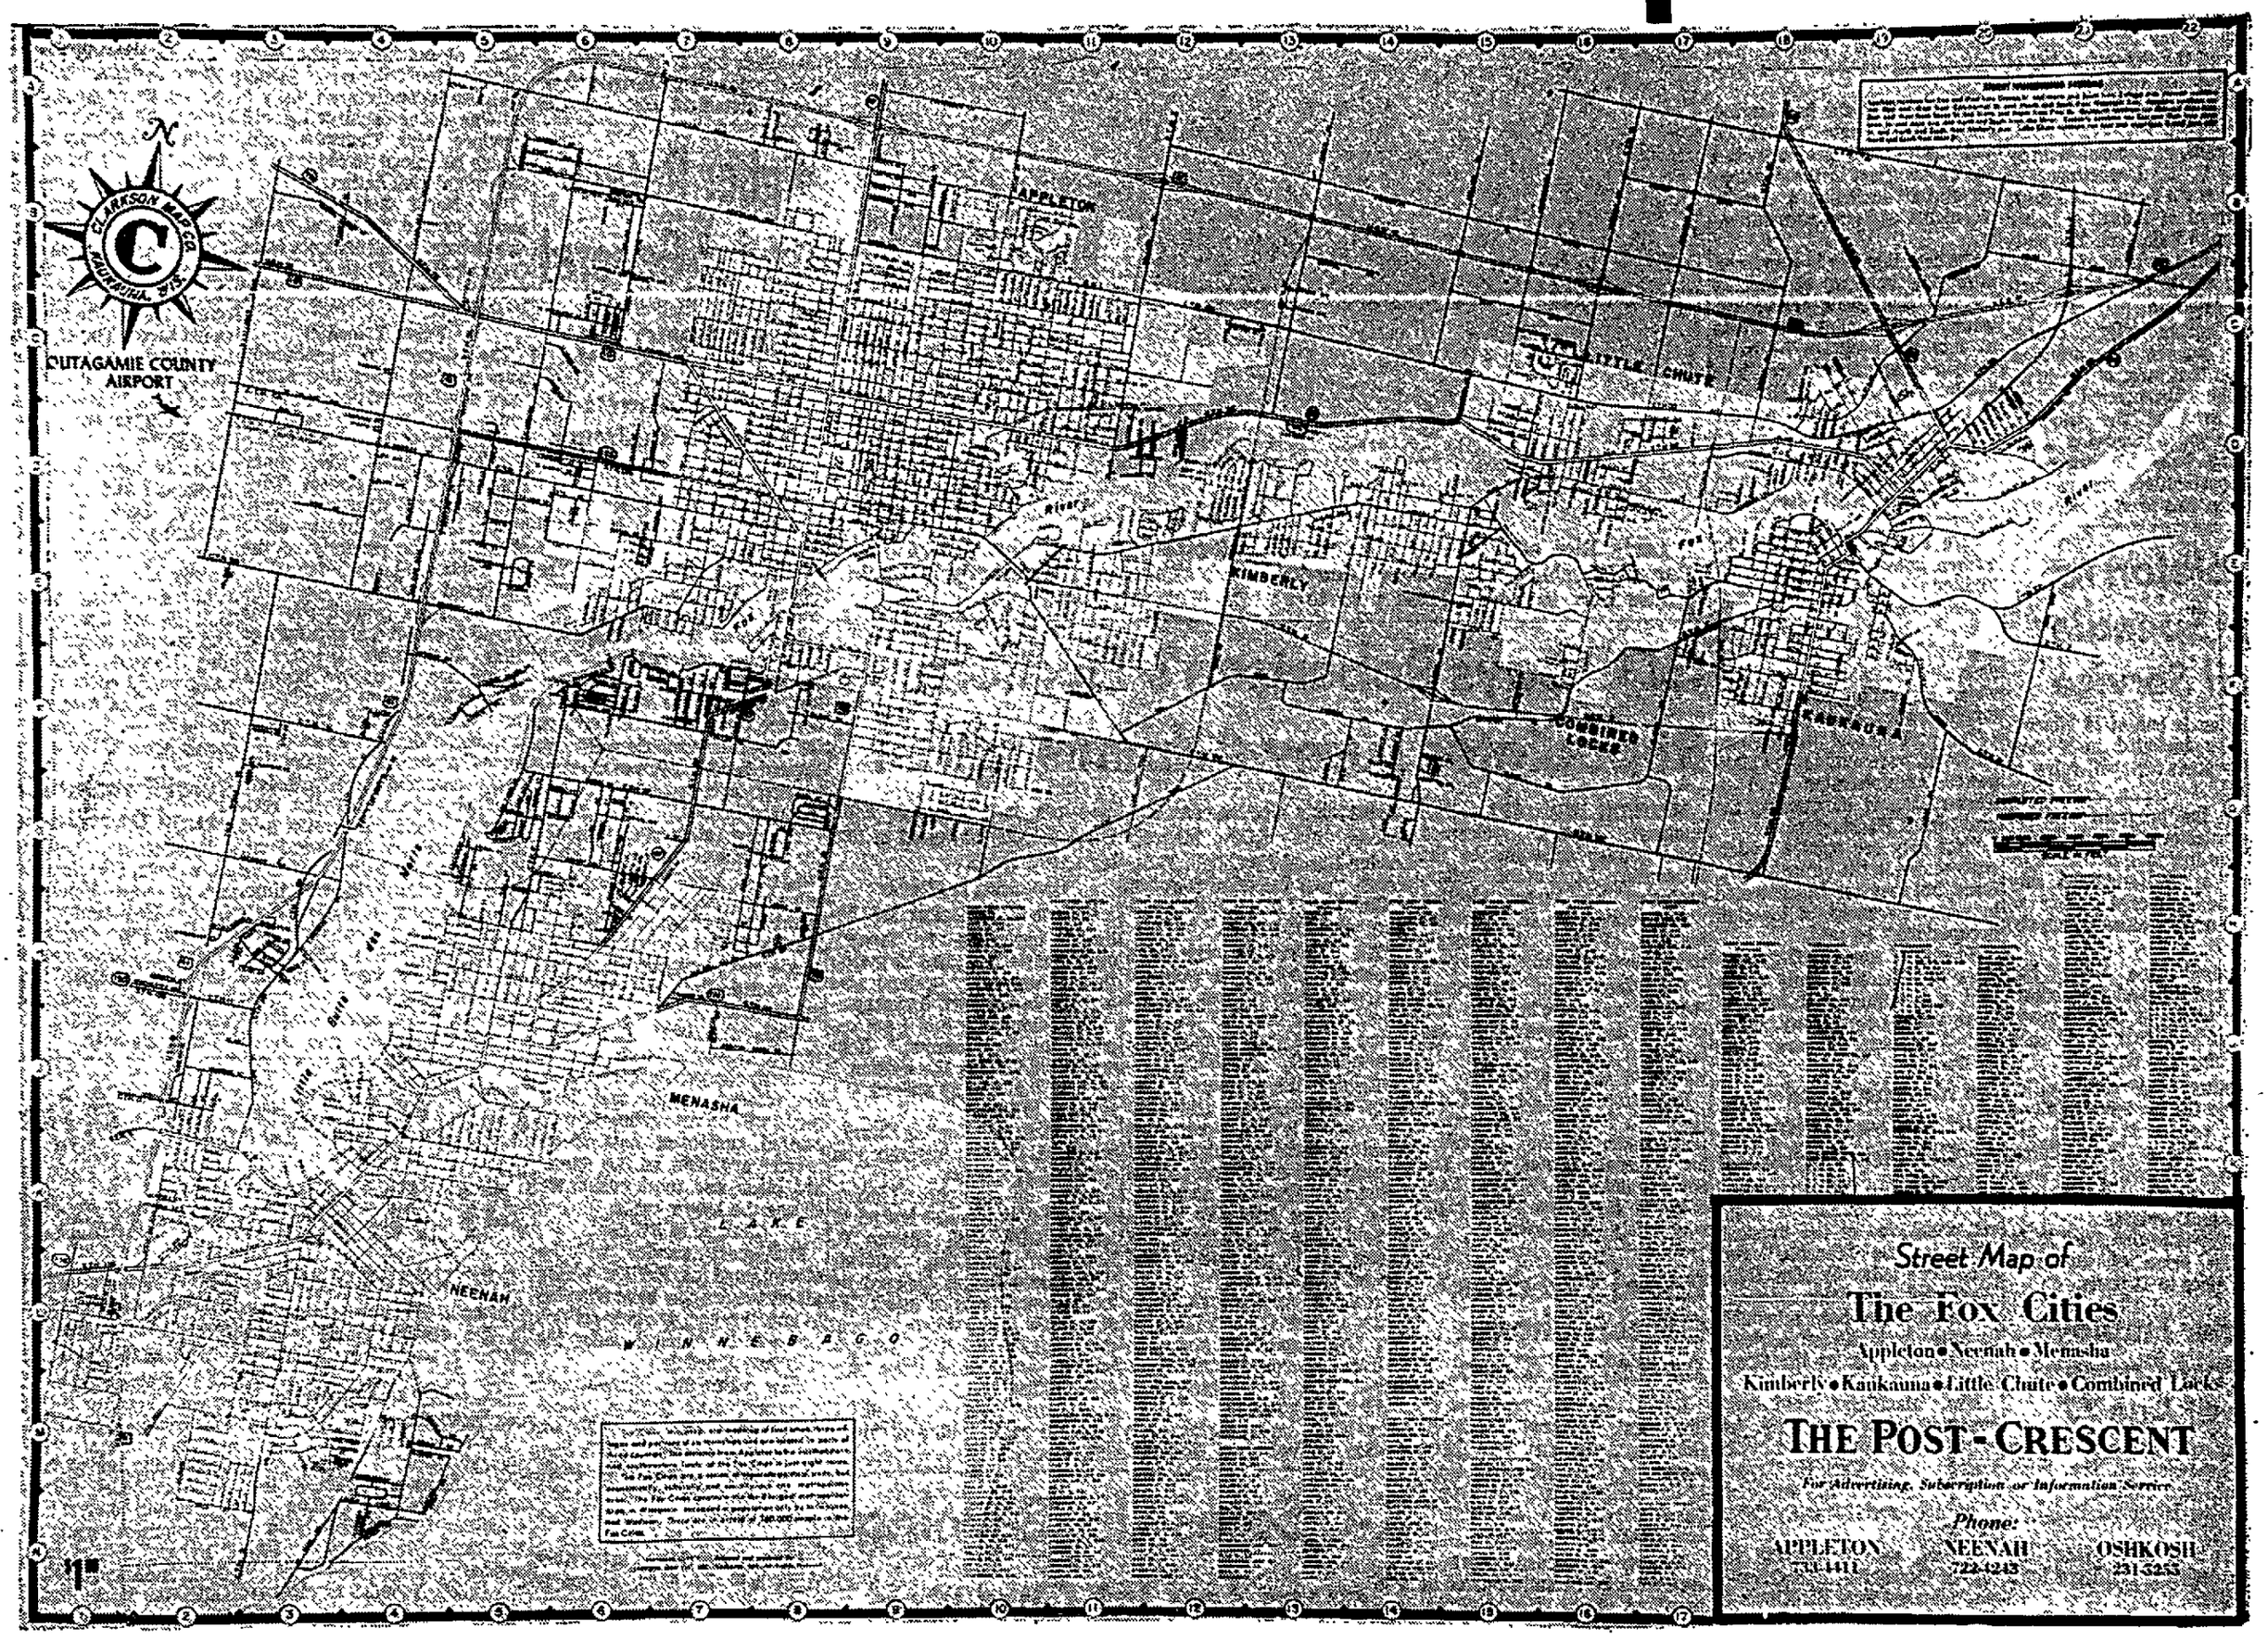
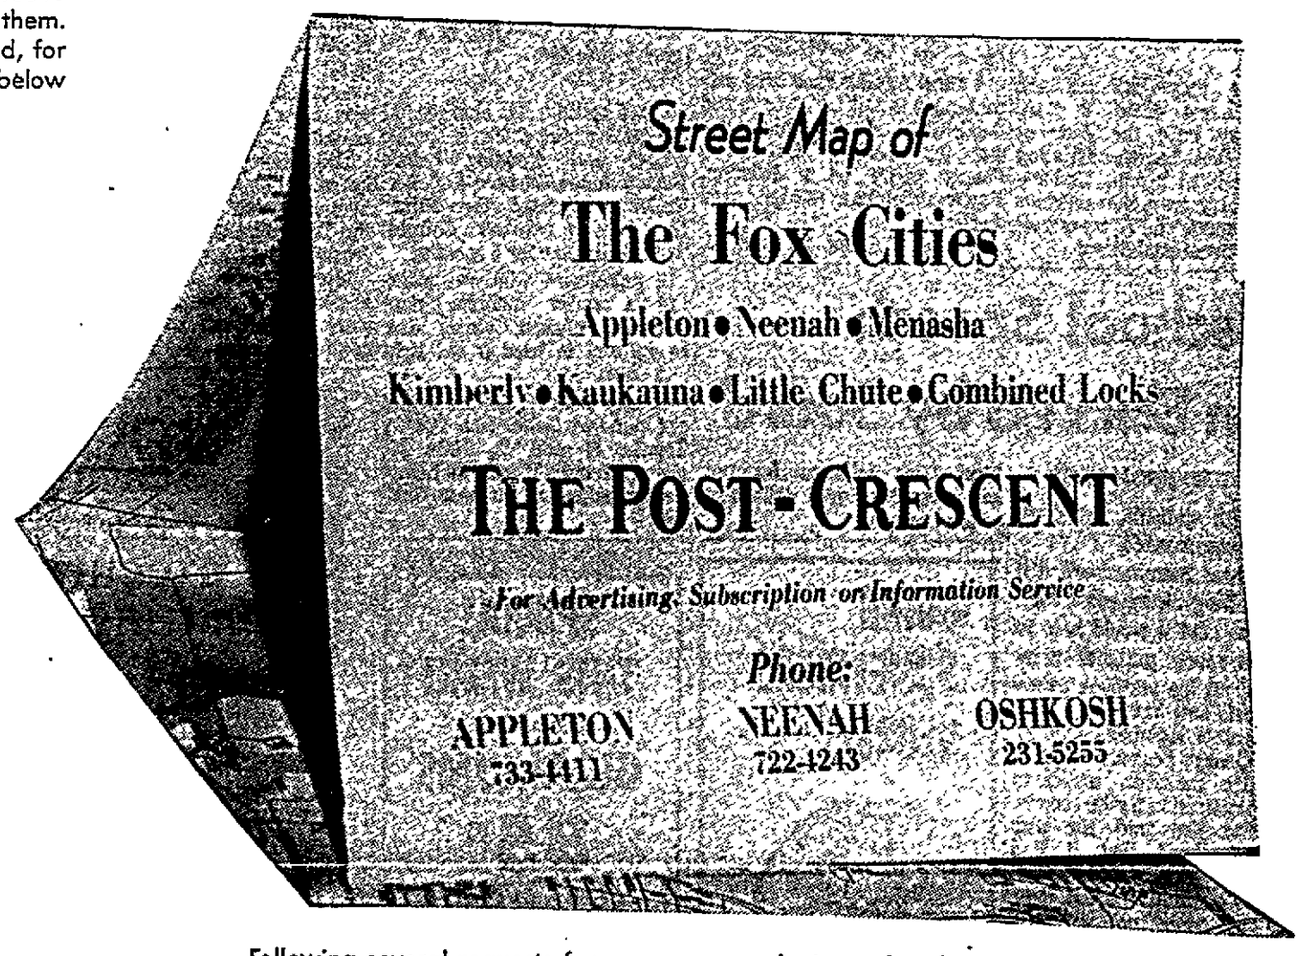
Fox Cities Maps



- Present and Proposed Freeways
- New Scale-in Feet
- New Interchanges
- New Streets
- New Colors
- Actual size 34"x24½"

A great number of changes have taken place since the last Post-Crescent Fox Cities maps were prepared in 1966. Many new streets, freeway extensions and interchanges have been installed. Town areas have grown, city areas extended. These changes are all reflected in the new, 1970 Fox Cities maps just now available. While it is almost impossible for city planners and engineers, from whom most of the information is obtained, to be 100% accurate, the 1970 maps are as complete as it is possible to make them. Stop by the Post-Crescent offices in Appleton, Neenah or Oshkosh and, for just one dollar, get your new map. You may use the handy order form below for mailing purposes if you desire.

Available Folded or Unfolded



Following several requests for a more convenient carrying size, the new, 1970 Fox Cities maps are now available folded to an approximate 8½"x6" size. However, unfolded maps are still available for those who desire to mount them.

Contract Bridge Teams Matched in National TV Special April 25

First Program of Its Kind; on Channel 2, WBAY-TV in Valley Area

A contract bridge match between America's top two teams will be played before a nationwide television audience Sunday, April 25.

The contest will be broadcast as a one-hour special — the first of its kind on coast-to-coast television — by the Columbia Broadcasting System (Channel 2) WBAY-TV starting at noon.

It will pit The Aces, the world's first professional bridge team that won the world title in Stockholm, Sweden, last June, against The Charles Goren Stars, a group of experts organized and sponsored by the man who introduced the point-count system into the game.

Bridge players will be able to watch all the action from their living rooms, see diagrams of the hands, and actually hear the thought processes of the players as they contemplate the bidding and play.

New Dynasty

When Ira G. Corn Jr., wealthy Dallas businessman, organized The Aces three years ago, the team immediately set out to establish a new dynasty in the bridge world to succeed the famed Italian Blue Team that had dominated world play for 15 years.

With the capture of the Bermuda Bowl in international competition last year and in succeeding major tournament victories, the dynasty seemed to have been established.

It only remained for the young bronco bridge-busters from Dallas to accept a challenge from The Charles Goren Stars, who represent "the establishment" in the world of bridge. This they have done, and the outcome will be witnessed by the largest audience in the history of the game.

Team Members

The Aces will be represenied in the televised match by Bob Wolff, Jim Jacoby, Bob Goldman, Mike Lawrence, Bob Hamman and Bill Eisenberg.

Playing for the Goren Stars will be Harold Ogust, Norman Kay, Peter Leventritt, Bill Grieve and Bill Root. It is truly a star-studded cast.

Ogust, New York City, chief executive of the various Goren enterprises, has won several National Team-of-Four championships as a teammate of Charles Goren.

Kay, Merchantville, N. J., has won numerous championships in the last two decades and has represented the United States in the World Team Olympaid and North American World Championships.

Leventritt, former president of the American Contract Bridge League, has amassed an impressive list of tournament victories. He is from New York City. Grieve, New York City mathematician, also has been a consistent winner since the 1950s and has represented the U. S. in the World Bridge Olympiad.

Root has won every important American trophy since 1953 and twice represented the U. S. in world championships. He also is a New Yorker.

The Aces will be going into the TV match fresh from their capture of the Vanderbilt Cup knockout team championship in Atlanta March 20. Their margin of victory was the largest ever in a national knockout final.

Corn, the team's non-playing captain, writes the new nationally syndicated newspaper column, "The Aces on Bridge." Joseph Musumeci is team coach.

Warren Benson, guest scholar at Lawrence University this week, will conduct the Symphony Orchestra Thursday night and the Lawrence Symphony Band Friday night in performances of his own works. Both concerts begin at 8 p.m. in Memorial Chapel. He also will hold master classes, discuss curriculum and teaching methods during his three-day stay on campus. A 3 p.m. recital will be held for band directors Thursday in Harper Hall. Benson is professor of composition and musician in residence at Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N.Y.

Dont Like Smell Of Sheep? Wait! New One Coming

JACKSON, Calif. (AP) — Can a little earring with a horrendous odor keep a hungry coyote away from a sheep dinner?

A test of a capsule containing a substance with skunk - like smell, attached to earrings, was "encouraging" says a wildlife management student.

Gary Neese of UC Davis conducted the test at a ranch near this Amador County community.

It is hoped that sheep, goats and calves will be protected from coyotes and wild dogs by the awful odor. The aroma is leaked into the atmosphere through vents in the capsule. A capsule remains potent for about six months.

Original cost: 35 cents. Refill: 27 cents. The earrings are attached with a squeeze of a pair of pliers.

A test with 64 earringed goats in a flock of 198 showed all alive after two months. Seven un-earringed goats were killed. Coyotes were definitely blamed in one death and suspected in the others.

Two Boys Seesaw For 131 Hours

GARDENA, Calif. (AP) — Don Ball and John Adams used their Easter vacation from Gardena High School to claim a world record in seesawing.

The two 17-year-old athletes built their own seesaw with a 16-foot-long board luxuriously appointed with backrests and foam padding and installed it in a local shopping center parking lot.

Adams and Ball began their ups and downs at noon Tuesday and finished Sunday, after 131 hours on the seesaw.

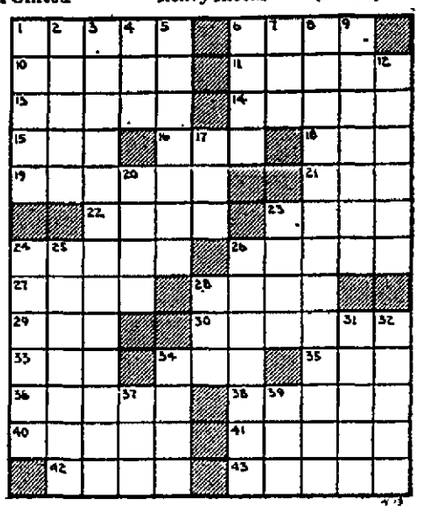
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Postage Stamp Holder Handy in Emergencies

BY CAPPY DICK

A holder for postage stamps to be kept in reserve for emergency use is easy for a boy or girl to make. Hung from the pocket of a ballpoint pen, the holder will be out of the way, but always will be easy to find when the need arises for a stamp. Figure 2 shows what the finished holder will look like.

First, make a plastic envelope one and a quarter inches square. This is accomplished by folding a piece of plastic and taping two edges with transparent tape.

Make a small hole near one corner. Glue a gummed reinforcement ring to each side of the envelope as shown in figure 1. Run a short string through the hole and tie it. Hang the string from the pen clip.

Place several stamps of various denominations inside the envelope and the project is completed.

Don't draw stamps from this supply except when absolutely necessary. Replace them at the earliest opportunity.

SEND FOR THIS BOOKLET OF PARTY FUN

Mothers, If you need new ideas to entertain your children's scout meetings and birthday parties, you'll find 45 of them in Cappy Dick's handy "Birthday Party Stunts" booklet. To get a copy, send 50 cents in coin, plus a self-addressed, stamped envelope to CAPPY DICK BOOKLETS, P.O. Box 42877, Evergreen Park, Illinois 60642.

Bite of Winter Felt in Road Department Budgets

By WILLIAM E. SCHULZ
Associated Press Writer

Winter's sting has shifted from the nose and toes to the pocketbook as across Wisconsin cities and counties are adding up the cost of removing nature's white fallout.

Highway department budgets are stretched to and past the limit—and the problem of repairing damaged streets still lies ahead.

Veterans in the Manitowoc County Highway Department call the winter the worst and longest since 1936. Department equipment got 80 per cent more use than average, said Walter Handl, County Highway Commissioner, because of almost continuous ice and snow conditions.

"There were 18 measurable amounts of snowfall that required the use of some type of equipment to combat ice and snow," said Paul Steckmesser, street superintendent for the city of Manitowoc. "That's close to three times above normal."

Budget Ran Dry

The county's $150,000 highway budget ran dry late in January, but officials aren't sure just how deep they are in red ink. The city still has money left—but not enough to make it through December.

La Crosse spent $96,000 above and beyond regular pay and benefits for its 40 public works employes. The biggest bite was for the renting trucks to haul snow out of the downtown area. In all, the department needs $58,000 in "deficiency appropriations."

One of the hardest hit cities was Marshfield where snow removal expenses for the winter totaled $115,452.95—for a city 15,500. The figure for the calendar year, $97,418, is $44,880 over the budget for the entire year.

City officials plan to apply to the Wisconsin Division of Emergency Government for aid, but are not sure they will qualify.

Aid for Hurley

One city did receive state aid. That was Hurley, a city literally buried by some 18 feet of snow.

The city's 30-year-old snow removal equipment broke down under the repeated onslaughts of snow and Iron County crews took over.

The legislature granted the city $8,000 to help pay the bills.

Marinette's removal fund is $29,450 in the red and Marinette County officials figure they will be some $50,000 overdrawn. The county, however, operates with kind of a floating deficit from the previous year and budgets tend to run short under normal conditions.

"We're looking for robins," said Fond du Lac County Highway Commissioner Harry Meixensperger, whose budget is in trouble. "If any amount of ice or snow is coming yet, it could be very costly and the budget could be expended to quite a sizable figure if the weather is as bad as it has been in the "past."

He said it was the worst winter in 10 years in terms of road conditions and road maintenance problems.

Equipment Wrecked

"This winter wrecked our equipment quite bad," he added. "It took a lot out of the trucks."

The county road budget was $21,000 in the red at the end of February.

In the city of Fond du Lac, officials figure they will make it into spring, "but it doesn't look like we'll have much for November and December."

"The winter certainly put some wear and tear on our equipment," said Delbert E. Smet, the city's construction and maintenance superintendent. "We've probably worn out more grader blades and plow blow blades this year than ever before."

Southern areas fared little better.

Waukesha has spent virtually every cent budgeted for the calendar year. "We'll just have to keep our fingers crossed about November and December," said Asst. Comptroller Les Bankert.

Janesville Deficit

Janesville faced the winter with a reduced budget and is roughtly $5,000 in the red.

"Quite a few snows fell during the weekends, necessitating overtime pay," said Art Badger, superintendent of streets.

"Whenever we get storms like this year, with the snow as wet as it was, it is hard on the equipment," he said. "It's really hard to push eight to 10 inches of snow. Drivers use more power to push the snow, so if he hits anything, like a manhole cover raised by the frost, there's more breakage."

Rock County's snow removal budget is headed for $100,000 worth of red by the end of the year, officials said. The county spent nearly $192,000 of its $220,000 budget for the calendar year in January and February. At least $30,000 was spent in March.

Nuisance Storms

In West Bend, the greatest problem was the "nuisance type" storms that took an "awful lot of salt, and supplies dwindled and were hard to replace," said Al Rettler, Washington County highway commissioner.

In the city of West Bend, salt supplies were depleted and could not be replaced. The city had to turn to sand to keep streets passable. The county's expenses are up some $46,000 from other winters.

Racine County also has spent more than usual, but officials said budget funds are not depleted. The city of Racine has been on an austerity budget. Overtime costs are within reason, officails said, but materials costs are up.

The state, too, had problems.

Salt usage is "higher than usual because we've had an unusually heavy winter," said a spokesman for the Division of Highways. The state used more than 200,000 tons of salt in 1969-70.

Salt Used Up

In Milwaukee, the city's 41,612 ton supply—as well as a few thousand more tons—is gone. The city has had four general snow plowing operations and 34 ice operations—which include lighter snowfalls.

Then, with the warmer temperatures of the last couple weeks removing ice imbedded in streets, the trip to the office becomes rough.

Janesville director of public streets Roger Krempel labeled the pothole situation the worst in 20 years.

Conditions on Stevens Point also are the worst in 20 years, said Street Supt. Ray Flaig, who just took over his job. "What a way to start," he said.

The type of winter was blamed for the potholes. Flaig explained that frequent snows, followed by salting, followed by water puts liquid in small holes. It freezes and expands, popping loose chunks of pavement.

And that means still more expense for repairing the chuckholes.

Hobby Club Contest Winners Announced in the Young Hobby Club contest for March 31 with each winner to receive magic billiard balls from columnist Cappy Dick.

The winners are Steve Dannecker, 10, Joe Siebers, 10, and Denise Hintz, 11, all of Appleton, and Robert Paveletzke, 12, Menasha. Cappy Dick will send the area prizes within two weeks.

Chicago Professor To Speak on 'Quixote'

George Haley, Spanish professor at the University of Chicago, will speak at Lawrence University Wednesday. Haley's lecture on "The First Author of Don Quixote," will be at 8 p.m. in the Worcester Art Center.

Prof. Haley has published several books and articles on Spanish literature. He presently is working on a book dealing with the narrative technique of "Don Quixote" and another book entitled "Plays and Players at Salamanca (1603-07)."

Haley holds a bachelor of arts degree from Oberlin College, and received both his master's and Ph. D. degrees from Brown University. He taught at Brown University before joining the University of Chicago faculty, where he is chairman of the department of Romance languages and literatures. He is on the editorial board of "Modern Philosophy."

Denture Invention

For People with "Uppers" and "Lowers"

The nearest thing to having your own teeth is possible now with a plastic cream discovery that actually holds both "uppers" and "lowers" as never before possible.

It's a revolutionary discovery called FIXODENT®, for daily home use. (U.S. Pat. #3,003,988) With FIXODENT many denture wearers now eat, speak, laugh, with little worry of dentures coming loose.

FIXODENT forms an elastic membrane that helps absorb the shock of biting and chewing—helps protect gums from bruising. You may bite harder, chew better, eat more naturally.

FIXODENT may help you speak more clearly, be more at ease.

The special pencil-point dispenser lets you spot FIXODENT with precision . . . where needed! One application may last for hours. Dentures that fit are essential to health. See your dentist regularly. Get easy-to-use FIXODENT Denture Adhesive Cream at all drug counters.

A Fledgeline Bald Eagle, a little more than two months old, returns to its nest in a dead tree at Marco Island, Fla. This eagle is one of two raised in the nest this season and it's just learning to fly. It will be five years before the bird acquires its majestic white head and tail. (AP Wirephoto)

High Arctic Scene for TV Special

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7:30 Channels 2-7 — Journey to the High Arctic, the season's final National Georgraphic Special, is really for animal lovers. There's no killing in it (except for a whale's accidental death), there's daring adventure and all through it — love for animals. The adventurers are Albert I. Oeming, a Canadian zoologist who runs his own zoo in Alberta, and a disarming flyer named Charlie Fix, who taught himself to fly at 13 and now flies Oeming and his helper on animal hunts where, in most cases, the animals are captured in an effort to save a vanishing species.

7-8 Channel 5 — If this edition of The Don Knotts Show had been scheduled earlier, perhaps it wouldn't have been the last new show of a cancelled series. It's a reunion of the old Steve Allen gang — Don, Tom Poston and Louis Nye — and they prove once again what a really hilarious group they are. All the old bits are here: Man in the Street interviews (about X-rated films), Crazy Shots, the Allen Bureau of Standards (with Don, Louis and Tom as potted judges testing wine), Steve as a Late Show pitchman (with such films as "Lassie Takes the Pill" and "Tugboat Annie Goes Topless") and a desk and chair discussion of the good old days, showing some great highlights.

8:30-9 Channels 2-7 — All in the Family begins repeats and if you haven't yet met the funny Bunker family, here's your chance. This was the first show aired and, actually, wasn't as good as those which followed. It takes a while to get used to bigoted Archie (Carroll O'Connor), his "dingbat" wife, Jean Stapleton, their fluffy daughter, Sally Struthers and Sally's "pinko" husband, Rob Reiner.

9-10 Channesl 2-7 — As its main feature tonight, 60 Minutes interviews actor George C. Scott, Academy Award nominee for Best Actor for his portrayal of "Patton." Scott tells why he'll refuse to accept the acting prize if he wins. This is his third nomination for the award. His first was for his role as prosecuting attorney in "Anatomy of a Murder" — he didn't win — and his second was for "The Hustler" — and he refused the nomination.

Pupils Convinced Trees Are Good

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The city supervisor of horticulture started getting letters in February from fourth graders who wanted to plant a tree.

Erwin C. Williams found the youngsters' arguments convincing.

"Trees breathe out oxygen which is what we breathe in," wrote Susan Ramer.

"They shade you when its hot," classmate Kelly Piper added in another letter.

"The world would be an unhappy place without trees," Sallie Dickstein wrote.

The 9-year-olds from the Westlake School raised $40 from their after-school flower sale and used it to buy and plant a coral tree, famous for its beautiful flowers.

When your bills total $1,598 and your coverage totals only $800... what do you do?

You come up with the cash to make up the difference. You face the fact that a health insurance policy that promised $50 a day for hospital care didn't go very far when you really needed it.

That's the hard way to learn there is a difference.

It's the difference between conventional coverage — offering specified dollars-per-day benefits — and the service-benefits coverage pioneered by Blue Cross and Surgical Care Blue Shield. Our plans anticipate unforeseen needs — intensive care to angiography — provide for the services required to meet the needs. Daily service benefits which expand to cover the actual costs of care.

With benefits keyed to match individual needs — Blue Cross and Surgical Care Blue Shield make an all-important difference to you.

Our only function is providing health-care protection . . . for today's care and today's costs. Who can afford to have anything less?

Packers Duel Broncos, Bengals, Dolphins

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — There is a distinctly different look to the Packers' 1971 National Football League schedule . . .

Revealed today, it contains a number of fresh features, chief among them three unfamiliar faces (Denver's Broncos, the Cincinnati Bengals and Miami Dolphins), plus:

—A "new" opening day opponent.

—A rare Green Bay appearance by the Minnesota Vikings, 2-time Central Division champions; and —A warm weather finish.

Accustomed to breaking in against such tractable neighbors as the Chicago Bears and Detroit Lions, the Packers will debut against the New York Giants for the first time in their 50-year NFL history.

Fran Tarkenton and friends invade Lambeau Field Sunday afternoon, Sept. 19, to take part in Dan Devine's formal bow as the Packers' new head coach.

They will be followed by the Broncos, presumably under the field leadership of ex-Packer Don Horn, who will make their first Wisconsin visit with a Milwaukee County Stadium appearance Sunday afternoon, Sept. 26.

The youthful but highly competitive Bengals, maneuvered to a division title in 1970 by the wily Paul Brown in only their third season move into Green Bay a week later (Sunday, Oct. 3).

Minnesota, which last visited Green Bay in 1966 when Tarkenton presided at a 20-17 Viking victory, invate Lambeau Field two weeks later (Oct. 17).

That, incidentally will be a 3 p.m. game and the Packers' last Lambeau Field performance until Dec. 12, when they entertain the Bears.

A week later (Dec. 19) the Packers will close out the season at Miami.

Although there are a number of differences, the '71 schedule resembles last year's card in some respects. Five of the first seven games will be played at home, as was the case in 1970, and there again will be two Monday night, national television appearances.

The latter will find the Packers playing host to Detroit at Milwaukee Nov. 1 and winging to Atlanta for a Nov. 22 date with Norm Van Brocklin's Falcons.

In addition to their late matinee with the Vikings Oct. 17, the Pack will play one other 3 p.m. match — against the Cardinals at St. Louis Dec. 5.

Devine, assessing his baptismal Packer schedule, observed with tongue obviously in cheek, "I think, as general manager, it's very interesting . . . I think it's a very interesting schedule for the fans.

"We have only one game at home late, although I feel that the bad weather thing is greatly over-emphasized. I can't see any difference between playing home late than in playing in Chicago late. In fact, you might be more comfortable in Green Bay. "I'm glad to play in Green Bay late . . . I think there's an advantage to playing at home when the weather is cold.

Meat of Schedule

"The meat of the schedule, of course, is in the middle," Devine pointed out. "We play Detroit, Minnesota and Los Angeles in succession, followed by a Monday night game against Detroit in Milwaukee, then come back against the Bears in Chicago six days later. That's a kind of a short week.

"I guess everybody who plays a Monday night game has that

Stargell Late Pirates' Hero; Cincinnati Claims First Win

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

If at once, you don't succeed . . . wait around for another chance.

Willie Stargell did not succeed in his first five tries Monday night, stranding four Pittsburgh runners along the way. But he got an extra chance in the 11th inning and delivered the game-winning hit as the Pirates shaded Philadelphia 4-3.

Stargell, who had missed a homer by a foot in the ninth inning, and had popped up with two men on in the seventh, worked the count to 2-2 against reliever Dick Selma in the 11th. Next came a perfect pitch.

"I was jammed," said Stargell. "I got the pitch where I wanted it," said Selma. Still, Willie drilled it for the single that scored Dave Cash with Pittsburgh's winning run.

Braves Beaten

Elsewhere in the National League Monday, Cincinnati won its first game, belting Atlanta 7-3 with four home runs. San Francisco shut out San Diego 5-0, St. Louis clipped Houston 5-4 and Los Angeles topped Chicago 4-3.

Cash had opened the 11th for the Pirates with a walk and raced to third on Richie Hebner's third hit of the game. Roberto Clemente struck out bringing up Stargell, who was 0-for-5 at that point.

Bob Robertson's two-out homer had tied the game for the Pirates in the sixth after Don Money had rifled a three-run homer to account for all the Phillie runs. Money has had two hits in five games this season, and both of them are homers.

Stop Slide

The Reds halted their four-game slide with a power display against Atlanta that featured a pair of two-run homers by Johnny Bench.

Pete Rose and Jim McGlothlin also homered for Cincinnati while Orlando Cepeda connected for Atlanta.

The seven runs the Reds scored in seven innings against the Braves equaled Cincinnati's total runs for the first four games of the season.

Gaylord Perry fired a three-hitter and San Francisco celebrated its home opener by blanking San Diego.

The Giants scored all their runs in the second inning with Alan Gallagher tagging a two-run homer and Padre pitcher Clay Kirby contributing four walks and two wild pitches to the rally.

Fans 11 Men

Perry struck out 11 and did not walk anyone in winning his second game.

Jose Cardenal drove in two runs and Lou Brock and Ted Simmons rapped three hits apiece, leading St. Louis past Houston.

Reliever Frank Linzy nailed down the victory, coming out of the bullpen in the ninth inning after the first two Astros had

Fingers Stymies Brewers

By BOB GREENE

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Rollie Fingers had a big hand in the Milwaukee Brewers' first home defeat of the season Monday.

Fingers was just wild enough to keep the Brewer batters a little leary. He was effective enough to give up just four hits and hurl the Oakland Athletics to a 5-0 victory.

"My slider and my fast ball were my best pitches," the lanky righthander said. "I was a little wild because of the cold, but I was able to come in with strikes when I needed them."

The same wasn't true about Brewer starter Lew Krausse. The A's jumped on the Milwaukee hurler for three runs in the third and tallied two more off reliever Ken Sanders.

"We couldn't do anything," said Brewer manager Dave Bristol. "Without runs, the best you can hope for is a tie."

Fingers Praised

Bristol was lavish in his praise of Fingers.

"He was very stingy with his base hits," he said of the Oakland pitcher.

Yet, the Milwaukee field boss was not that unhappy with his own pitching.

"Krausse pitched himself out of several jams," Bristol noted. "He had men on base, but he was able to get out of it."

"Our problem was that we couldn't get any runs off of Fingers," he said.

The A's broke the scoreless tie in the third when left fielder Joe Rudi led off with a drive into the left field bleachers, his first home run of the year. Two outs later, Sal Bando was hit by a pitch, then scored when Rick Monday blasted his second roundtripper over the right field wall.

Two doubles, a fielder's choice and a single in the ninth completed Oakland's scoring.

Milwaukee's Danny Walton singled sharply to center in the second to ruin Fingers' no-hit bid. The only other safeties off Fingers—all singles—were by Dave May in the seventh, Ted Kubiak in the eighth and pinch hitter Mike Hegan in the ninth.

Posting his first victory of the season, Fingers struck out four and waled only one. Walton in the fifth following a 52-minute delay because of rain.

The rain also caused the game to start 25 minutes late, and cut the crowd to just 4,791.

The Brewers and A's complete their two-game series this afternoon. Milwaukee will send Bill Parsons (0-0) against Oakland's Vida Blue (1-1).

Leaves Hortonville

Laemmrich Named Xavier Cage Coach

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

Gerald (Gus) Laemmrich, Hortonville High School basketball coach, will become the third cage coach in the history of Appleton Xavier.

The 28-year-old Laemmrich will replace Jerry Schmidt, whose contract was not renewed. Schmidt coached for two years after succeeding Gene (Torchy) Clark, who directed the Hawks for the first 10 years of the school's existence.

Laemmrich's appointment was announced today by the Rev. Emmet Weber, superintendent. In addition to becoming head basketball coach for the 1971 - 2 school year, Laemmrich will teach physical education and architectural drawing.

Laemmrich will be returning to the conference (Fox Valley Catholic) in which he starred as a player (for Menasha St. Mary) a decade ago. He terms the FVCC "an extremely strong conference, with a lot of good players and a lot of real fine, dedicated coaches."

Third-place Finish

The Hortonville position has been Laemmrich's first head coaching assignment. In 1970-71, he directed the Polar Bears to a third-place finish in the new and strong East Central Conference. Their over-all record was 12-7.

In their previous three years under Laemmrich's direction, the Polar Bears played in the Little Nine Conference and were in contention each season. Laemmrich is currently coaching the Hortonville junior varsity baseball team and has also coached football at the junior high level.

Prior to his Hortonville job Laemmrich coached for one year at his collegiate alma mater, Texas A & I. He was a 4-year letterman at the Kingsville, Tex. school. Among his teammates were Little All-American Phil Shirk and Jim Koerner, another St. Mary graduate.

Gus Laemmrich

A great leaper at only 6-foot-1, Laemmrich was noted for his rebounding ability in both high school and college ball.

He helped Menasha St. Mary with the 1960 state Catholic

The Appleton Youth Baseball Association will meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Goodland Field.

Tickets on Sale

Foxes' Banquet Will Be Held April 22

Thursday, April 22 has been selected as the date for the Appleton Baseball Club's 14th annual "Welcome Home" banquet according to Bob Cisna, banquet chairman.

The 7 p.m. dinner will be held at the Columbus Club, 2531 N. Richmond St. Announcement on the featured speaker will be made in the near future.

Foxes players will be arriving in Milwaukee the night before and bussed to Appleton in time for the banquet, which annually serves as the official welcome. Short talks will be given by club president Bob Rahn and business manager Ed Holtz. Field manager Joe Sparks will introduce his team, recap spring training, and give a preview of the 1971 campaign.

Tickets will sell for $3.50. Seating this year will be in tables of four, with players scattered throughout the room. Individual tickets or tables can be purchased at radio station WHBY, Bleier's Bar, Mid City Beer Depot, United Fund headquarters, or by calling the Foxes business office.

Minnesota's Macbee Joins Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP — Mod dresser Earsell Macbee has brought his wardrobe to Hollywood where he hopes it will be appreciated.

The former Minnesota Viking defensive cornerback was signed Monday by the Los Angeles Rams as a free agent. He had been a regular for five seasons with the Vikings and two seasons ago led the team in interceptions with six as Minnesota won the National Football League title.

He was sidelined in 1970 with a knee injury.

The 6-foot, 195-pound, 30-year-old former Utah State star became known in Minnesota for his wild dress and flamboyant nature.

Twins Ace Has Allowed Only 7 Hits

Royals 2nd Blyleven Shutout Victim

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Young Bert Blyleven is pitching to spots . . . and has American League batters seeing them.

The Kansas City Royals became the 20-year-old Minnesota right-hander's second consecutive shutout victim Monday night, succumbing 2-0 on three hits. Last week, Blyleven blanked Milwaukee on four hits.

The victory, coupled with Milwaukee's 5-0 loss to Oakland, put the Twins atop the American League West by one-half game in their quest for a third straight championship. Elsewhere, Boston outlasted Washington 10-7 and California nipped the Chicago White Sox 3-2. Baltimore, Cleveland, Detroit and the New York Yankees weren't scheduled.

Blyleven became the youngest player in the majors last season when he joined the pitching-short Twins last June. The first batter to face him hit a home run but he won the game and finished with a 10-9 record and 3.18 earned run average.

More Control

"I have more control," the Dutch-born hurler said after spoiling the Royals home debut before a record crowd of 32,728, including Satchel Paige, a native son, who threw out the first ball. "I've been concentrating more in two games this season than ever before. I'm pitching more to spots. I'm putting the ball where I want to put it and I'm getting ahead of a lot of batters, which is 90 per cent of pitching."

The Twins scored off Dick Drago in the second inning on Harmon Killebrew's double and Jim Holt's single and got their second run in the seventh when Cesar Tovar doubled and Rod Carew singled.

Blyleven gave up a double to Cookie Rojas and single to Paul Schaal in the third inning and a single to Amos Otis in the seventh. The third-inning hits came with none out but Blyleven fanned Drago and Killebrew made a diving back-hand stab of Freddie Patek's liner and stepped on third for a double play.

The Red Sox, who had lost three in a row, erupted for six runs in the seventh inning, three more in the eighth and held on despite a five-run Washington counter-rally in the last of the ninth.

Held to one hit—Rico Petrocelli's fourth-inning single—for six innings, the Red Sox broke loose after a walk to Duane Josephson, Billy Conigliaro's single and Doug Griffin's bunt single loaded the bases.

Pitcher Ray Culp drilled a two-run single, Luis Aparicio beat out a bunt and Reggie Smith singled for two runs. The fifth run scored on an infield out and Petrocelli capped the uprising with a home run.

Conigliaro's homer and Joe Lahoud's two-run pinch single—he batted for Carl Yastrzemski, who suffered muscle spasms in his back—put the game out of reach in the eighth. The Senators' rally in the ninth featured Joe Foy's two-run single, Rich-

Anglers, Fish Return to Favorite Spots

Wolf, Fox River Walleye Migration on

By LES STARCH
Oshkosh Northwestern

OSHKOSH, Wis. (AP) — The walleyes are swimming up the Fox and Wolf rivers on their annual spawning runs and fisherman are occasionally landing a lunker but mostly in the one or two pound class.

Ice broke up and moved out of Big Lake Butte des Morts last week and added many floes to plague boat fishermen.

One angler pulled out an eight-pound walleye on the Fox and another fisherman took a five-pound on the Oregon Street bridge in Oshkosh.

Warm weather brought out anglers at their favorite spots in Oshkosh, Winneconne, Fremont, Eureka and other places during the weekend.

The fish usually wait for the sun's rays to warm the water to 46 degrees. This is the magical point at which walleyes leave the Fox and Wolf and head for favorite flooded marshes or tributary streams to spawn.

Not Spawning

Spawning, however, may be a week or more away. Meanwhile, with walleyes in the river, anglers can be assured of some fishing success but will have to work for it.

The Wolf has always been something special for veteran walleye anglers. Many anchor their boats at favored spots from the Winneconne bridge upstream to Fremont, Gill's Landing, New London, Stephensville and Shiocton.

Public boat launching places, boat liveries and other needed facilities are available at all communities.

Walleyes travel 80 miles up the Wolf in their spring spawning run, according to Dick Harris, Oshkosh, assistant fisheries manager for the Lake Michigan district.

Fox Crested

"This offers a lot of places to fish," said Harris. "Although the water is high in the Wolf, I don't believe that it is at its crest. There is still a lot of snow to come out of the deep woods and marshes to the north. But the Fox has crested and has dropped a couple of feet."

Once the walleyes spawn, they return to the river hungry and that's when the fishermen get a second chance at them. However, this period is probably a week or 10 days off."

"There's an awful lot of water on the Wolf and taking walleyes in the spring involves considerable technique," Harris observed.

"One sure-fire way is to be on the river 24 hours a day, or know what's going on, like the old-timers do. Once they have spawned, female walleyes are notorious for going down the river fast. They'll get back down to Lake Winnebago in two or three days."

While the Wolf produces a lot of spring walleyes, Harris cautions fishermen not to sell the Fox short.

"Now, quite a few walleyes use the Fox River for their spring spawning. They didn't used to. The reason is a change in current and the way the Fox enters Big Lake Butte des Morts, making the river much more attractive to spawning walleyes. This is due probably to the Army Corps of Engineers stopping dredging."

Harris said it's not known where all the walleyes 12 inches and smaller are coming from but it proves that walleyes of all sizes are available.

"One thing for sure," Harris adds, "spring walleye fishing is unpredictable but tantalizing to fishermen."

Clara Spence Rolls 584

Joan Kolosso Hits 586

Joan Kolosso fired a 205 game en rout to a 586 series to take top honors in the Queen's Classic League at Sabre Lanes Monday night.

Clara Spence was runnerup with a 206-200-584 combination, while Sue Schroeder followed with 575, including a 214.

Trailing were Evie Myers, 216-573; Ruth Schmidt, 203-573; Pat Lutz, 549; Margaret Wildenberg, 216-543; Sharon Frehler, 201-542; "Corky" Behrent, 204-532; Marion Holschuh, 528; Viv Kelliher, 204-526; Mary Lou Williamson, 201; Grace Hansel, 201, and Carol Johnson, 200.

Jean Hahn's 201-546 aggregate paced the Lucky League at Sabre Lanes. Barbara Dercks took second with 530.

The Southside Ladies League at 41 Bowl saw Wilma Lesselyong crash a 214 singleton.

Fred Daniel Cracks 641 Couples Trio

Fred Daniel powered a 641 series to pace the Space Couples League at Super Bowl.

Margie Paque's 212 line was the only other high count.

Andy Fackel's 579 trio was the peak effort registered in the Something Else Couples League at Twin City Bowl.

High games of 232 by Dick Helniak and 226 by Joan Blixt topped the Western Couples League at 41 Bowl.

The Twin City Couples League saw Bill Novotny crash a 228 threesome.

Larry Heegeman socked a 234 game in the Zodiac Couples League for top honors.

The Buzzards captured the championship in the Bird Couples League at Colonial Lanes in Freedom.

Donna Hildebrand rapped a 203 singleton to lead the Wild Animal Couples League at Super Bowl.

to contend with, but," he noted with a dry chuckle, "we're not worried about the other folks, of course."

"All in all, I'm quite pleased with the schedule. I think it's a tremendous challenge to our team, and to our coaches." . . . It's certainly not an easy schedule, but it's not unplayable."

Devine, just three months removed from the University of Missouri campus, found one date particularly interesting. That, of course, is the Dec. 5 visit to St. Louis, where he is accorded the kind of reverence reserved to such as Stan Musial and Bob Gibson.

"I understand Bill Bidwill (vice president of the football Cardinals) asked for that game," the Packer leader confided. "He called me and asked if I would mind playing in St. Louis and I said that I would not, so he apparently wrote the league office and requested it."

The Packers will encounter three of their regular season opponents along the exhibition trail — the Bears in the annual Shrine game at Milwaukee Aug. 7, the Dolphins Aug. 21, also at Milwaukee, and the Bengals at Cincinnati Sept. 4.

They also host the Pittsburgh Steelers Saturday night, Aug. 14, in the 11th Bishop's Charities Game and the formidable Oakland Raiders Aug. 28. The green and gold close out their preseason schedule at Buffalo Sept. 10.

Hundley Out Again With Knee Iniury

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Randy Hundley, Chicago Cubs' toughluck catcher, suffered a possible torn cartilage in his right knee Monday night while pinch hitting against the Los Angeles Dodgers.

That was the preliminary diagnosis of the same knee he injured in spring training, an ailment which kept him out of the line-up until the pinch appearance in the ninth inning.

He was flown to Chicago after the game for further examination.

Hundley hit a fly ball to center and collapsed at home plate in the Cubs' 4-3 defeat.

Hundley, who missed much of last season with an injury to his other knee, is lost to his team indefinitely.

Finishes With 874 Quartet

Roger Koehn Wallops 713

Roger Koehn thundered a 713 national honor count in his first three games and ended with an 874 total for four to lead action in the 3-Man Scratch League at Super Bowl Monday night.

Koehn had a high game of 268, but he also included 242, 203, and 161 individual lines.

More high scores were turned in by Pete Kayalski, 872 along with a 245; Tom Hibbard, 830; Bob Badtke, 237-236-822; Harvey Badtke, 233-812; Ron Steffen 234-806; Don Brandenberg, 799, and Ken Gradl, 785.

Marcell's II beat Marcell's I for the Scratch League championship.

Don LeNoble socked a 690 series in pacing the Heart of the Valley League at Little Chute Recreation Lanes. LeNoble's games were 227, 210 and 253.

In his final game, LeNoble strung together eight straight strikes to start but later blew the 10th frame, getting six pins on his first roll and just three his second.

Ron Beattie followed LeNoble with a 607 count, while Jim Kellenhausen rapped 587 and Tom came in with 245-576.

The Knights of Columbus National League at 41 Bowl saw Bud Griesbach fire a 651 trio, including a 246 top solo. Bob Pekel slammed 582, while Paul VanderHyden toppled 234-580 and John Dietz hit 579.

Billy Out of Meet

U.S. State Department Gives Call to Casper

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Billy Casper, one of this nation's premiere pro golfers, said Monday night he has withdrawn from next week's Tournament of Champions at the request of the U.S. State Department.

Casper said he would serve as a member of the official party for the state visit to the United States of Morroco's King Hassan II.

The golfer said the official dates for the North African monarch's visit would be announced Tuesday in Washington. King Hassan has been invited to make the visit by President Nixon.

The king is an avid golfer and Casper has played with him several times in Morroco, the most recent several weeks ago. Casper said the king had requested that he be with him for the duration of his American visit.

Casper said the king and he have a tentative golf date at Washington's Congressional County Club with Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

The Tournament of Champions will be played in La Costa, Calif., beginning April 22. It is for players who have won regular PGA tour events during the past 12 months and carries a guarantee of approximately $2,000.

Jardine Plots Spring Drills

Badgers Land Ohio Standout

WISCONSIN DELLS, Wis. (AP)—The University of Wisconsin announced Monday having acquired an Ohio high school standout in the Badgers' campaign to overhaul a muggy football image.

Coach John Jardine said Mike Mauger, a 210-pound halfback from Massilon, Ohio, "was recruited by just about everybody," but chose UW.

By everybody, Jardine included "Notre Dame, Michigan, Ohio State. We're just glad we got him."

He described Mauger as an excellent running back. He won a citation as Ohio's prep player of the season.

Jardine disclosed the acquisition while he and staff members, meeting in Wisconsin Dells to avoid what they called the hectic atmosphere of the Madison campus, tried to take a calm look at UW gridiron outlooks.

Best Record

In his first year as coach, the former UCLA assistant coach coaxed the Badgers to a 4-5-1 record, their best since 1963.

He said he expects 92 applicants for work clothes, including 19 lettermen, when football spring trials begin next week. An intrasquad game is scheduled May 15.

Last season's improved behavior doesn't mean fans can count on an even greater record this year, Jardine said:

"People are expecting a lot more than we have available," he said: "I'm not so sure we'll be as good as we were last year."

The Badgers "have a lot of rebuilding to do defensively," he said.

In the offensive category, "We have the same people back," he said, but cautioned: "We didn't exactly set the world on fire on offense last year."

Ohio State's Jim Cleamons Big 10 MVP

Iowa's Fred Brown Takes Second Place In Final Balloting

CHICAGO (AP) — Jim Cleamons, the guiding force behind Ohio State's Big Ten basketball championship team, Monday was named the most valuable player in the conference and winner of the Tribune's Silver Basketball.

Cleamons, the only senior on the Buckeye squad, was the individual who kept the Buckeye attack in order as Ohio State swept through the Big Ten with a 13-1 record.

Coach Fred Taylor said Cleamons was like having another coach on the floor.

Cleamons, 6-foot-3 and from Columbus, Ohio, was an overwhelming winner in the balloting. Fred Brown of Iowa was runnerup while Larry Weatherford of Purdue and George McGinnis of Indiana also received some support.

Basis of Voting

The voting was conducted on a basis of two points for first place and one point for second. The 23 electors were the league coaches, 10 officials, Big Ten Commissioner Bill Reed, Tribune Sports Editor Cooper Rollow and Tribune basketball expert Roy Damer.

Others eligible in the voting were Rick Howat of Illinois, Henry Wilmore and Dan Fife of Michigan, Bill Kilgore of Michigan State, Jim Brewer of Minnesota, Rick Sund of Northwestern and Glen Richgels of Wisconsin.

Mike Coonen Hits 556 in Senior Loop

Mike Coonen fired a 204 game and 556 series to set the pace in the Senior Traveling League at Hahn's Lanes Saturday.

Dan Kubitz was runnerup with a 543 series which included a 189 game. Dave Landskron rolled 198-537, John Lutz had 199-531, Wes Feitzer rolled 204-530, Colin Dowling 202-526, and Ron Lenz 503.

Robbie Schmidt slammed a 185 game and Art Hameister had 183 to spark the Bantam Boys Division of the Hahn's Lanes Junior Bowling program Saturday.

Bruce Ahrens hit 153, John Stephan had 145, Dan Williams 143, Rick Erce 143, Randy Kunstman 142 and Jim Nelson 141.

Kathy Krueger topped the junior girls at Hahn's with a 444 series including games of 161 and 155. Lanette Johnson hit 153 and 141.

Dan Kubitz had a 521 series, John Lutz hit 209-519 and Mark Frahm had a 202 game to lead the Junior Boys. Mark Tesmer also had a 204 game while Dick Accord rolled 509.

Pat Miller had a 531 series, with a 187 game, in the final round of action for the Appleton High School-East Bowling League at Sabre Lanes.

Dick Last had a 522 set with highgame of 207 while Larry Garrity had 183-518, Bruce Krueger 192, Jeff Dorow 197 and Dennis Quimby 180.

After the bowling, the league banquet was held at Reetz Supper Club and trophies were presented to the top teams and also to league secretary Janet Merkel. Hokies Heroes took first place and team members were Dick Last, Dave Ruggles, Jon Hanges and Dave Niewenhuis. The Banana Splits were second and Schwartz and Company placed third.

Winners of the high-low tournament at the end of the season were Pat Miller and Peggy Muck. Sabre Lanes donated the team trophies.

Indianapolis Plans Arena

ABA Pacers Will Use 18,000-Seat Business Complex

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Indianapolis Mayor Richard G. Lugar announced Monday plans for a $32.5 million sports arena-business complex in the area of the city's historic City Market.

Plans for the complex include an 18,000-seat multi-purpose stadium, two 12-story office buildings and three multilevel parking garages. Construction is scheduled to start this year and Lugar said the entire project is expected to take about 30 months to complete.

Lugar said the sports arena will become the home of the Indiana Pacers of the American Basketball Association and possibly a professional hockey team.

L. Charles DeVoe, president of the Pacers, said the organization will abandon plans to build their own stadium in the northwest portion of Marion Indianapolis County.

Dolphin Star Has Surgery

Defensive Lineman, Manny Fernandez, Resting Comfortably

MIAMI (AP) — Manny Fernandez, who was voted the Dolphins' top defensive lineman all three of his pro years, was reported resting comfortably today after shoulder separation surgery Monday.

Fernandez's shoulder had both ered him since a practice injury kept him from the final 1970 regular season game against Buffalo in the Orange Bowl.

The 250-pound tackle made the Dolphins as a free-agent in 1968 and has played regularly since.

The 24-year-old native of Oakland, Calif., was the fifth Dolphin operated on since the season ended.

Others were tight end Marv Fleming, quarterback John Stofa, defensive end Bill Stanfill and safety Jake Scott.

Laemmrich Will Coach At Xavier

title. The Ralph McClone-coached Zephyrs posted a 25-1 record and edged an extremely tall Racine St. Catherine team, 32-30, in a memorable title game.

In 1961 — when Laemmrich was a senior — the Zephyrs were 22-6 and again reached the state finals. That time St. Catherine turned the tables and squeezed out a 50-48 win. The Zephyrs then competed in the Eastern States Invitational tourney, in Rhode Island, and won consolation honors.

All-Tourney Honors

Laemmrich won all-tourney honors both in the state and in the Eastern meet and was all-conference. In addition to Koerner, another of his teammates was Adrian Martin, current St. Mary coach, who'll be one of his rivals in the FVCC.

The 1960-1 Zephyr team beat Xavier twice when it was a 3-year school. St. Mary has never beaten the Hawks in basketball since they became a 4-year school.

Laemmrich says he strongly believes in the religious education offered at parochial schools and feels that the trend of decreasing enrollments is about to end.

From an athletic standpoint, Laemmrich said he's impressed by the time and effort local people contribute in sponsoring such events as the annual Catholic school tournament. He also lauded the efforts of grade school coaches, whom he called extremely dedicated.

Laemmrich characterizes his style of play as "disciplined" but says his team "runs" when given the opportunity. Changes are made to fit the type of personnel available, according to the new coach.

Defense will be stressed, Laemmrich said. "If you can play defense, you can stay with anybody."

Laemmrich says he doesn't believe in the "rebuilding" approach, which he feels is overdone. "We'll try to win with the kids we have this year ... I think there's some real good ball players out there (Xavier) right now."

Pride and Hustle

Laemmrich says he emphasizes "personal pride, desire and hustle" in his coaching. An athlete who has these qualities gets a lot out of a sport, he added.

Conditioning and discipline are other important concepts, according to Laemmrich. "I think some may be in for an awakening."

Athletics are a major factor in high schools today, said Laemmrich. A good athletic program can produce unity, discipline and pride in a school, he noted.

Among coaches he has admired Laemmrich lists Al McGuire, "Torchy" Clark, Ralph McClone, Dick Emanuel and Dick Bennett. But, he points out that any coach who thinks he can be a "carbon copy" of another is fooling himself. Each coach has a different personality, Laemmrich said. In arriving at his own style, however, a coach may be influenced in some manner by others, he noted.

"Hortonville has been good to me," said Laemmrich as he lauded the school, the players and the fans.

Laemmrich, who is unmarried, lives in Appleton, and his parents (Mr. and Mrs. Joe Laemmrich) reside in Menasha.

Surgery Success For Laker Star Keith Erickson

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Keith Erickson of the Los Angeles Lakers, who missed Sunday's National Basketball Association playoff game with stomach pains, was listed Monday night in satisfactory condition after abdominal surgery. Physicians said the operation was successful, and that Erickson will be hospitalized at least a week.

Erickson, a forward who was shifted to guard to replace the injured Jerry West, was held out of Sunday's National Basketball Association playoff game against the Milwaukee Bucks when he complained of stomach cramps.

He was hospitalized immediately after the game which gave the Bucks a 2-0 edge in the current series.

Doctors initially diagnosed the trouble as appendicitis. But the examination also disclosed the need for more extensive surgery involving the lower bowel.

Fregosi's Hit Spoils Wood's First Start in 2½ Seasons

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP) — An old knuckleball pitcher failed to foil a limping old pro hitter and it cost Wilbur Wood of the Chicago White Sox a potential two-hitter victory in his first start in almost 2½ seasons.

Bullpen ace Wood and the Pale Hose held a 2-1 lead with two out in the eighth over the California Angels Monday until Jim Fregosi hobbled off the bench as a pinch-hitter with an apparent harmless Angel runner on first base.

Star shortshtop Fregosi, benched by an ailing hip and back, took an 0-2 count and then slashed Wood's next knuckler down the left-field line for a two-bagger scoring the runner from first to tie the score at 2-2.

Wood, yielding only one unearned run on two hits until that point, was replaced by Vicente Romo. Next up, Sandy Alomar stroked a single scoring Clyde Wright, pinch - runner for Fregosi, from second to saddle Wood with a 3-2 defeat.

The last time Wood started for the White Sox was Aug. 10, 1968, when he also lost 3-2 to the Cleveland Indians. Since then, until Monday, the flutterballing lefty appeared in some 200 games as a reliefer.

"It was a bad knuckle ball I threw Fregosi," said Wood as he munched a cigar at his locker. "I got him on a real good knuckler strike for an 0-2 count. Then, I thought only one thing, I'll strike him out on the next pitch.

"But it was up high and he rammed it down the left-field line."

Joe Frazier Wins With Stretch Run

BOWIE, Md. (AP) — Joe Frazier, the horse, slipped into his home state and delivered a knockout stretch run worth $18,362.

Afterward, trainer John Oxley said the 4-year-old gelding probably would be brought back for another Maryland-bred race, the Jennings Handicap at Pimlico May 10.

Joe Frazier, named by breeder Peter Fuller in honor of the world's heavyweight boxing champion, scored a one-length victory in the $30,750 Vertex Handicap at Bowie Race Course Monday.

Bucks Schedule Ticket Sale for 2 Home Games

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Bucks announced Monday tickets for their next two home playoff games at the Milwaukee Arena will go on sale today at the Arena and the Bucks office.

The Bucks play their next two games on the West Coast. If they lose either game, their next home game will be against Los Angeles at 1 p.m. Sunday.

If the Bucks win both, and New York wins its playoff with Baltimore in two more games, the next home game will be at 1 p.m. Sunday against the Knicks.

If the Knicks-Bullets series goes longer than two games, the Bucks will have to wait before scheduling their next game.

Eastern Illinois University's Keith Fuerst, of Appleton, won the 1971 still rings championship in both the NCAA college division and the NAIA tournaments. Fuerst also qualified for the NCAA university division meet and placed 14th in the nation.

Face Nomads

Bombers Open Spring Slate at Home Sunday

The Fox Valley Bombers, new members of the Metropolian Division of the Wisconsin Soccer Association, open their spring schedule against the Milwaukee Nomads at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at Goodland Field.

Seven players return from last year's Bombers squad, which won the championship of the First Division. Included are Peter, Marty and Joe Gietnam, Pepe Diaz and Ben Bavinck, all of Appleton, plus Oshkosh's Gunny Engelman and St. Cloud's John Adema.

BOMBERS SCHEDULE
April 18 — Milwaukee Nomads
April 25 — At Sheboygan Sports
May 9 — Milwaukee Grenadiers
May 16 — At Milwaukee Albanians
May 23 — Milwaukee Tigers
May 30 — At Waukesha Continentals

New players on the Bomber roster will be Joe Bavinck, Pat Bourassa, Paul Hendrickson, Julian and Fernando Coronel, all from Appleton, and Neenah's Jim Nash.

More Candidates

Also receiving consideration for spots on the club are Green Bay's Aldo Santaga and Eddy Peabody, both members of the Bombers last year, and Appleton's Kim McDonald and Tim Josephs, who have been playing with the UWGB Fox Valley team.

Peabody was Fox Valley's top scorer last season with 18 goals as the Bombers topped their circuit in scoring with 70 season goals. Oshkosh's Peter Litjens, now sidelined with a knee injury, ranked second with 13 while Santaga added 11 and Diaz 10.

ie Scheinblum's two-run double and Jim French's second RBI hit of the game before Ken Tatum came on to get the last out after Culp had surrendered 15 hits.

Relief ace Wilbur Wood, making his first start since 1968, was sailing along for the White Sox with a 2-1 lead—on homers by Rick Reichardt and Jay Johnstone—when the Angels took the game away from him in the eighth.

Jim Spencer drew a leadoff walk and scored the tying run on Jim Fregosi's two-out pinch double. Vicente Romo replaced Wood and Sandy Alomar singled home the winner.

Colts and Jets To Tangle on Opening Day

Diego, Los Angeles at New Orleans, Miami at Denver, New York Giants at Green Bay, Oakland at New England, Philadelphia at Cincinnati, Pittsburgh at Chicago, San Francisco at Atlanta, Washington at St. Louis and Houston at Cleveland.

But there seems little doubt that the games at Baltimore and Detroit will attract most of the attenion as the NFL begins its second season of struggle under its new conference alignment with four teams playing in new parks.

Both the Colts' and Jets' quarterbacks remain questionmarks at this juncture of the off-season—Unitas with a ruptured Achilles tendon suffered in a paddle ball game and Namath with a broken wrist suffered while he was paddled by the Colts in their first game last season.

The question of who will be at quarterback for the Central Division champion Vikings also should be settled when they open against the Lions with either holdover Gary Cuozzo or trade-acquired Norm Snead at the helm.

The Oakland-New England game will mark the regular season opening of the Patriots' new Schaefer Stadium in Foxboro, Mass. Philadelphia opens its Veterans Stadium Sept. 26 against Dallas, Dallas bows at Texas Stadium on Oct. 3 against Washington and San Francisco makes its debut in Candlestick Park on Oct. 10 against Los Angeles.

The schedule runs through 182 season regular games, winding up on Sunday, Dec. 26. The weekend of December 26 will be turned over to the NFC and American Conference divisional playoffs before the championship games on Jan. 2 determine the Super Bowl entries.

Under the two-conference structure, each team will play three AFC-NFC inter-conference games, except Detroit and Denver, who each will play four. The NFC won 27 games in the first year of inter-conference competition to 12 for the AFC. There was one tie.

Saints Get Linebacker From Broncos, Trade '73 Draft Selection

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The New Orleans Saints of the National Football League acquired linebacker John Huard Monday from the Denver Broncos in a trade for an undisclosed draft selection in 1973.

The 6-foot, 225-pound Huard was the Broncos' starting middle linebacker for three straight seasons after joining the club as a fifth-round draft choice in 1967.

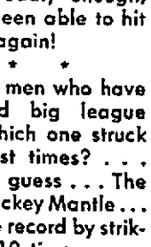
SPORT FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW



by John Behnke

Did you know that of all the major baseball batting records set over the years, the one that has lasted the longest is one established by Wilbert Robinson in 1892 when he got 7 hits in a 9-inning game ... How hard is this record to break? ... No one else has ever been able to get 7 hits in a 9-inning game in all the years since 1892 and in all the big league games played since then.

A player with one of the oddest records in baseball today is first baseman Norm Cash ... In 1961, Cash hit a hefty .361, leading the American League in batting, but even though he's played in the majors as a regular every year since then, oddly enough, he's never been able to hit over .300 again!

Of all the men who have ever played big league baseball, which one struck out the most times? ... What's your guess ... The answer is Mickey Mantle ... He holds the record by striking out 1,710 times.

I bet you didn't know ... Got $1.00 free during the Jockey Very Brief sale April 1 to May 1. Details in our store.

Hockey Star Suspended After Socking Referee in Mouth

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Connie Madigan, a key member of the Portland Buckaroo defense, was suspended indefinitely late Monday by the Western Hockey League for knocking referee Dave Newell unconscious with a punch in the mouth in a WHL playoff game Sunday night here.

WHL President Eugene Kinasewich announced the suspension and said Madigan also was fined $500.

Defenseman Rick Foley of the Bucks was suspended for two games for tossing his stick in Newell's direction Sunday night, moments before the Madigan incident. He was fined $400.

Madigan was ejected from the game in the third period after being given his second 10-minute misconduct penalty of the night.

The San Diego Gulls led 4-2 at the time but Portland came back to tie 4-4 in regulation play. Earl Heiskala won it for the Gulls in overtime.

Newell, who fell unconscious by Madigan's blow before the crowd of 8,743, was reported in

Palmer Hikes 1971 Earnings To $100,000

NEW YORK (AP) — Arnold Palmer has reached the $100,000 mark in golf earnings for the sixth straight year.

Palmer boosted his earnings for the year to $100,828 with an 18th-place finish in the Masters that was good for $2,650 in winnings, the PGA Tournament Players announced today. He continues to lead pro golf's weekly money list.

Miller Barber, who failed to survive the Masters cut, remained second with $88,884 while Gary Player moved into third place with $82,015.

Palmer has surpassed the $100,000-mark in his career eight times.

Others in the top 10 this year include:

4—Tom Shaw, $79,331; 5—Jack Nicklaus, $73,775; 6—Billy Casper, $64,130; 7—Carlyle Snead, $59,144; 8—Dave Eichelberger, $53,641; 9—Lee Trevino, $53,190, and 10—George Archer, $50,467.

POST-CRESCENT BOWL-O-RAMA

WIN! WIN! WIN!
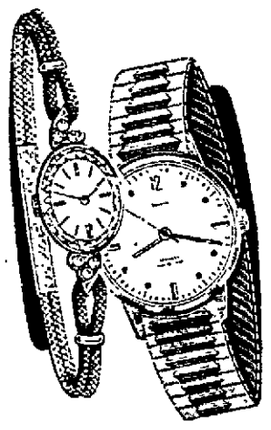
Ninth Annual
Men's and Women's Individual Classic
BOWL-O-RAMA
41 BOWL
W. College Ave.
Appleton, Wis.
APRIL 20-MAY 24 inc.
North Central Wisconsin's Greatest Bowling Competition

For This Gremlin—Roll a 300 Game, Scratch!

Yes, this 1971 Gremlin, from C & T American, 1850 W. Wisconsin Ave., Appleton, is yours if you are the first one to roll a perfect game during the Bowl-O-Rama tournament, scratch. It's got 135 horsepower, six cylinders, three-speed transmission on the floor, and decked out in dazzling white exterior with red stripes . . . and red deluxe custom interior. Be the first to roll a perfect game and win this flashing 1971 Gremlin, courtesy C and T American, Appleton.



Hit the Triplicate!

Martin J. Hukpka Jewelers, Appleton, will have a handsome and lovely $50 wrist watch for the man and the woman hitting the top triplicate . . . based on the first three games according to ABC and WIBC regulations. And Martin J. Hupka Jewelers will even engrave these fine watches, too!

High Game—Men and Women

And the women in Class A and B will be going for beautiful sets of patio furniture (an award set shown at right) awarded by W. T. Grant store at Northland Plaza, Appleton. These lovely wrought iron and redwood sets will be just in time for relaxing summer outdoor living.

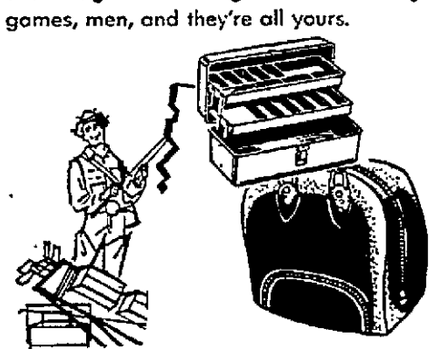
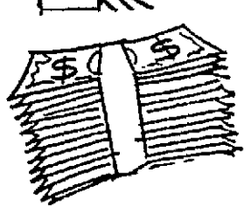
The men in Class A and Class B will be vying for a special "sportsman's package" which will include a set of golf clubs, a rod, reel and tackle box combination, plus a bowling ball and bag. Shoot for the high games, men, and they're all yours.



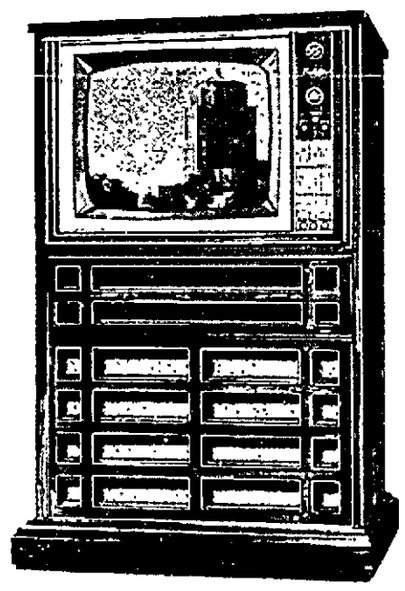


High Cash Awards, Too!

$500 for men—$300 for women. The Post-Crescent will present all champions with engraved wrist watches while first place cash prize in both A and B classes will be $500. Top award for the women bowlers in each class will be $300.

Win on a 7-10 Split? Sure!

The 7-10 split usually makes young bowlers old men before their time; but he—or she—who makes that 7-10 split . . . cleans it right up . . . will win a very handsome home entertainment unit . . . a television, stereo, radio combination, by famous Curtis Mathes, and offered by Trudell's at Appleton's Valley Fair Shopping Center. Known as the Marbella, (right) this Mediterranean-styled cabinet will be at home whatever the furnishings, and, of course, will provide hours, months, years of modern "line-of-sight," beautiful, full tone entertainment for every member of the family. So, come on, just wipe out that 7-10 split!



Chanticleer Inn—Eagle River Beckons "Mystery Award" Winner!

Yes, John and Betty Alward invite the winner of the Mystery Award (we don't even know what it is) to spend a wonderfully fun and relaxing summer weekend (for two) at CHANTICLEER INN, the northwood's year-round resort and motel. Located in the heart of the Eagle River area, Chanticleer Inn provides the perfect spot for scenic beauty and sport with complete facilities for doing everything—or nothing—summer or winter.

2. CLASSES: Men's Class A (161-average and higher); Men's Class B (160-average and under); Women's Class A (141-average and higher); Women's Class B (140-average and under).
3. HANDICAPS: Men and women's handicap figured from 200 scratch. Handicaps will be two-thirds of the difference between highest sanctioned average for 1969-70 season and scratch. Entrants will use their highest sanctioned league average based on 21 games for the 1969-70 season. If current 21-game average as of Feb. 1, 1971 is 10 or more pins above 1969-70 season's average, current average must be used. If no average last year, use highest sanctioned average currently based on 21 games or more as of Feb. 1, 1971. All others bowl scratch.
4. Bowlers who have qualified for a prize of $300.00 or more in any event in a tournament within the previous 12 months period even though payment of prize has not been made must report — Actual Score — Position and Amount Won for possible rerating.
5. Any bowler who reports a lower average than required or who fails to report a prize of $300.00 or more, previous 12 months, shall forfeit tournament entry fees and prize winnings.
6. EVENTS: Singles only, four games over eight lanes. Bowlers will be allowed to enter more than once, but can place in tournament standings only once. High score will count.
7. PRIZES: $2.50 prize fee will be returned 100 per cent in prizes. At least one prize for every six entries, plus special merchandise awards.
8. CHARGES: Prize fee $2.50; bowling $2.00 (4 games); expense fee $1.50. Total charges $6.00.
9. CLOSING DATE FOR ENTRIES: Midnight Saturday, May 22, 1971. Additional shifts will be added by tournament officials if necessary, to handle last minute entries.
10. SANCTION: Tournament is sanctioned by ABC and WIBC. Bowlers must present evidence of ABC or WIBC membership or join on an unattached basis before entering tournament.
11. PRIZE DISTRIBUTION: June 14, 1971 at 41 Bowl.
12. ALL ENTRIES SHOULD BE MAILED TO: BOWL-O-RAMA, 41 Bowl, 3916 W. College Ave., Appleton, Wis. 54911

Prize fee of $2.50 must accompany entry blank. Bowling charges and expense fee can be paid at time of bowling.

SPONSOR'S NIGHT

A special sponsor's night will be held at the 41 Bowl May 26. Sponsors will compete in a special bowling tournament that night followed by free lunch, beer and awards. No charge will be made for the entire evening as a thank you to squad sponsors. Anyone bringing in a squad of 30 or more will be considered a squad sponsor. Participation in this special tournament will in no way interfere with a sponsor's regular participation in the Bowl-O-Rama.

Big Cats of World Head for Extinction

By BILL STOCKTON
AP Science Writer

LAGUNA HILLS, Calif. (AP) — The Asiatic lion once roamed from southern Europe to Asia. Now, 150 are left in a game preserve in India where human scavengers steal their food.

Experts estimate 40,000 tigers lived in the jungles of India 25 years ago. Only 2,500 remain, saved when the Indian government banned tiger hunting and trade in tiger skins.

Once plentiful in the Amazon Basin of South America, the jaguar has so declined that zoologists must travel hundreds of miles to find one.

In short, the big cats of the world—lions, tigers, cheetahs, leopards, jaguars, and others—are rushing toward extinction. Unless something is done, and soon, zoologists warn, the cats will join the dodo bird and passenger pigeon as museum relics.

That was the grim picture painted here recently when more than a dozen big cat experts from India, Africa, Europe, Canada and the United States gathered to assess the future of the felidae.

"The large predators have reached the twilight of their existence," said Dr. George Schaller, a zoologist with the New York Zoological Society and Rockefeller University who spent three years studying lions in Africa.

"Shot for so-called sport, in demand by the fur industry, trapped and poisoned because they kill deer, livestock and other animals in which man has vested interest, the tiger, leopard, cheetah, and others have been so ruthlessly exterminated in recent years that their future is not assured."

Not Too Late

It's not too late to preserve the big cats, the scientists agreed. But it will be a difficult task involving international agreements with emerging nations where economic growth often takes priority over saving endangered species of wildlife.

The biggest obstacle is human population growth. In Africa, India, Asia and South America, expanding population is consuming more and more forests and grasslands, robbing the cats of native habitats and prey animals.

The Asiatic lion, for example, shares its sanctuary with several thousand humans and must prey on farmers' cattle. But groups of scavengers members of India's "untouchables" caste, are alert for lion kills and quickly move in, driving the lions away. They take the hide and meat of the kill, leaving the remains for vultures.

As a result, cubs are starving and the lion population declining.

A more immediate threat especially to the spotted cats, is the demand for coats made of their skins.

Although most countries have laws protecting their cats, poaching continues. A poacher can sell a leopard skin for $50, as much money as many Africans make in a year. Several skins sewn into a coat might fetch $5,000.

The trade in illicit skins and demand for coats, widespread in the mid-1960s, is slowly being choked off, the cat experts reported.

Importation of skins into the United States declined sharply last year after enforcement began of the Endangered Species Conservation Act passed by Congress late in 1969. Conservation groups have launched campaigns to persuade fashion's elite not to buy coats made from cat skins. And furrier trade organizations have been induced to place temporary bans on trade in some cat skins.

Zoologists frequently suspect a species of cat in endangered, but can't prove it because the cat hasn't been properly studied.

"This lack of knowledge is hindering conservation because a government can say, 'You tell us this animal is in danger, but where are your facts to prove it'," said Dr. Paul Leyhausen, a German cat expert with the International Union for Conservation of Nature.

And many emerging nations, battling hunger, disease and uncontrolled population growth, resent interference from outsiders whether through diplomatic channels or other means.

"African and Asian wildlife can be preserved only if the people desire to preserve it," said Harry A. Goodwin and Eley P. Denson of the U.S. Interior Department, responsible for administering the Endangered Species Act.

"The sentiments of city-dwelling Americans or Europeans mean little to peasants, tribesmen and landowners who actually control the fates of the animals," they said.

Watermelon Binge

GRAHAMSTOWN, South Africa (AP) — Miss Avril Butler, a Rhodes University student, claims a world record for eating 6 pounds, 15½ ounces of watermelon in 30 minutes. She did not say what the old record was.

To Your Good Health

'Cold Sores' on Thigh Really Are Herpes

BY G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What causes "cold sores" to appear within a radius of six or eight inches in the same area of the body? I have been getting them in a most incomvenient place to apply medication, the back uppermost part of the thigh.

They sometimes appear at

intervals of six months, more or less, and sometimes before one has healed another has started within an inch or so.

What causes them and is there any way to stop this trouble? Doctors have given me ointments.—R.M.L.

I'd call this trouble herpes, or recurrent herpes, rather than "cold sores" which is a term used for such sores near or on the lip.

It is difficult for me to try to be very sure what some trouble is without seeing the patient, but in this case I would suggest a probability: a dormant virus. In other words, it is very similar to shingles, but with the virus having periods of inactivity, then becoming active and affecting a nerve root in the area.

Why does it stay quiet for a time, then break out? Probably because of some temporary lowering of your resistance, whether from fatigue or some other elusive factor. Some women have a similar trouble that breaks out during the menstrual period.

Various remedies are favored by different physicians to relieve itching or pain, but the fact remains that we have no specific medication to overcome virus disease. The one optimistic thought to keep in mind is that the body itself in time usually comquers the virus even though we have no specific way of doing it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: We would like some information on stomach hernia. At first we thought my husband might be having trouble with his gall bladder, but X rays didn't show anything wrong. So his doctor said he'd like to see X rays of his stomach and they were taken. Over the phone he said these X rays showed a hernia at the top of the stomach. We would like a little more on this type of hernia.—J.E.C.

It's not actually a hernia of the stomach, but a hernia (or enlargement) of an aperture where the gullet passes through the diaphragm. This is at the juncture of the esophagus and top of the stomach.

Your trouble is that this condition goes by so many names: "stomach hernia," as you call it, or hiatal hernia, or hiatus hernia, or even "upside-down stomach," which is a misnomer.

For instructions on how to handle this type of problem, send for my booklet, "Hiatal Hernia and Eight Ways to Combat It," and it will tell you what you want to know. For a copy send 25 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Thosteson, care of The Post-Crescent.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it possible that a woman can give birth to her husband's child 10½ months after her husband's death? I have never heard of any woman being pregnant 10½ months. Sometimes they may have their babies three or four days ahead, or little overtime with the first, but not this long.—Mrs. C.P.K.

The average is nine months (265 to 285 days covers most) but whether you've heard of it or not, there are extreme variations from this on record. Earliest premature babies with a chance of surviving require about 26 weeks; there are cases of "post-mature' babies born at 46 weeks which is about the 10½ months you mention. Both extremes are rare but they have occurred.

Shingles can be a painful disease! To receive a copy of my booklet, "The Facts About Shingles," write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Post-Crescent, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 15 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Valley Is Hub for Air Quality Region

A 17-county federal air quality control region has been established by the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), with the lower Fox Valley area at its center.

The valley area is in a region consisting of the Lake Winnebago and Lake Michigan state agency administrative district established under former Gov. Warren Knowles. It is known as the Lake Michigan Air Quality Control Region.

The EPA announced the location of the boundaries for the air quality region among eight in Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota. The actions result in all three states being entirely covered by a total of 19 regions.

The action has been awaited by state and regional officials as the basis for enforcement of air pollution control standards. The standards also are to be established by the EPA on a uniform basis nationwide. The federal agency is required to announce the standards by April 30.

While the air quality control division of the state Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is in charge of enforcement, a spokesman for the agency said Monday local and regional officials will be encouraged to see that the new federal standards are met.

Local Action

Counties, groups of counties and individual communities may establish air quality control agencies, according to Doug Evans, administrator of the state agency. "Where there is nothing locally going on, the state will have to fill the vacuum," Evans added. But he said his agency is encouraging local action.

The EPA will announce two sets of standards, one termed primary, the other secondary.

The states have three years to meet the primary standards, and must meet the generally tougher secondary standards "within a reasonable time."

Plans for meeting the standards must be submitted to the EPA within nine months from the date the standards are announced, although 18-month extensions may be granted for filing plans to implement the secondary standards plans.

Prior to submitting their plans, the states must also conduct public hearings.

On Jan. 30, William D. Ruckelshaus, EPA administrator, proposed the standards, subject to final confirmation after review by the end of this month. They cover six contaminants, sulfur oxides, particulate matter, carbon monoxide, hydrocarbons, nitrogen oxides and photochemical oxidents.

The state has begun a program in various localities, including one recently started in Appleton, to test particulates and sulfur dioxide.

Evans said it is understood that the primary standards aim at eliminating hazards to health, property and plant life and other destructive types of air pollution. The secondary standards, he said, are somewhat less clearcut, and apparently strive to achieve nearly natural air quality conditions.

Joint Action

Evans said existing law permits local communities or counties to adopt air quality control agencies. Groups of counties may agree to cooperate, he said.

He said within the 17-county northeastern Wisconsin district the Lower Fox Valley area seems most likely to lend itself to a multi-county control system.

It is the only portion of the new region that seems to have mutual air pollution problems that cross county borders, he explained. He stressed that the opinion is based on surface appearances, and has not been tested.

The area includes Winnebago, Outagamie and Brown counties, primarily, with the possible addition of some adjoining counties. Evans said that other counties in the region such as Manitowoc and Sheboygan would seem able to control pollution within their own boundaries independently of each other, based on evidence available now. A number of counties would appear at present to have

County Push Sought For Oneida Bridge

Resolution Asks State Priority Shift

Outagamie County supervisors will be asked to back Appleton in seeking a shift in state bridge priorities from the Memorial Drive bridge to the proposed Oneida Street high-level span.

Supv. Ervin Conradt, Shiocton, chairman of the board's highway committee, said he was drafting a resolution for that support to be presented to the highway committee next Monday.

The resolution will then go to the entire board on Tuesday. Conradt said he has poled the other members of the highway committee and they have indicated agreement to the resolution.

At the same time, the resolution will call for giving the proposed French Road bridge second priority in the county.

Definite Need

Conradt said, "I believe there is a definite need for a high-level bridge. If and when the Memorial Drive bridge needs rebuilding or replacing, we must have an alternate traffic route across the Fox River through Appleton."

The new bridge, he said, would "certainly be a great benefit."

The French Road bridge is part of the proposed Tri-County Expressway system and has been strongly pushed by County Highway Commissioner Clarence Brownson.

Conradt said the county should petition the state for both bridges at the same time.

It will not be necessary to hold another public hearing to change the priority from Memorial Drive to Oneida Street, Conradt said. "The state determination will be made on the basis of unity between the city and county," he said.

Cost Sharing

Cost sharing for the bridge would be one-third state, one-third county and one-third city. However, Conradt pointed out that Appleton actually would be paying more than half of the total cost since it would pay 46 per cent of the county's one-third of the cost, in addition to its own full one-third share.

"I think the city is well aware of the cost factor," he said.

The Appleton City Council went on record early last fall to seek a change in the bridge priority. The city presented its position before a state highway commission hearing, but the county did not present an official stand at that time.

City Projects

Bids for Sewer, Street Work Let At New London

NEW LONDON — City officials spent about $12,000 per minute when they met for a special session at 5:30 p.m. Monday.

The decision was not a hasty one, although the meeting lasted only 15 minutes. The money was spent as bids were let for the reconstruction of Pearl and N. Water streets, sanitary sewer replacement on N. Water Street, and sanitary sewer in the alley west of Pearl Street.

Sommers Inc., Shiocton, submitted the low bid for the street reconstruction, in the amount of $109,599. Two other companies entered bids, Bloy Construction, and C. I. Hughes. The Hughes bid was high at $161,864.

Combined Bid

The sanitary sewer projects were combined in one bid and awarded to Joski Construction Co., Green Bay, for a total of $68,761.

Three other contractors bid for the sanitary work, with the high bid being $153,822 from Bahr Construction Co.

Donahue and Associates, engineers of the projects, assured the council in a letter that both companies could fulfill their contracts and do the job.

Inspection on the entire downtown project will be conducted by Donahue.

It was noted, however, that Joski had attempted to withdraw his bid at the time of the openings, following the opening of two bids higher than his. The request was denied at the time.

If he refuses to sign a contract now, the city will cash his bid bond of $3,438. Aldermen then would probably accept the bid of DeVleeshower Construction Co., in the amount of $80,288.35.

Immediate Action

Director of Public Works Robert Martin was instructed to take immediate action on getting the contracts drawn by Donahue. The council said it would like to get the projects started as soon as possible, and Martin noted that officials from the Sommers firm indicated that they also would like to start as soon as possible, if they were to get the contract.

A problem will arise because the sanitary sewer must be put in on N. Water Street before the street work can be done.

The high water is expected to hamper the sewer project for a while. Martin said that Sommers could start with Pearl Street, and this give Joski the opportunity to wait for the water to go down.

After the meeting, Mayor S. W. Krostue noted that it would benefit the city to get the projects under way as soon as possible. The contract calls for 90 days completion from the start of construction, with a performance bonus for early completion and assessment for late.

After the contracts have been executed, Donahue will hold a preconstruction conference to be attended by the city, contractors, and a Donahue representative, to set a construction schedule and finalize other details.

Preservation Group Gets New Boat

NEW LONDON — After one year of existence, the Wolf River Preservation Association (WRPA) already has taken big steps toward realizing its major goal.

The organization, comprizes representatives from the villages, cities and towns along the Wolf in Waupaca County. It was organized April 9, 1970 with the aim of protecting the natural beauty of the river and of providing boating and fishing safety.

One of these big steps has been the purchase of a second boat to patrol the river. Waupaca County had used its own boat, but this was used for all rivers and lakes in the county.

The WRPA boat is scheduled to patrol just the Wolf, rendering asistance to boaters in trouble and promoting water safety through education. It also will be available to the county in other areas during emergencies.

The WRPA boat was purchased and equipped through fuilds from New London, Fremont, Weyauwega, and Towns of Mukwa, Caledonia, and Fremont. It offically was launched Monday.

The patrolman, Jon Brown, New London, works with the Conservation Department, and although he is not a warden, he is authorized to make arrests for game violations.

The boat is a tri-hull, equipped with a red light, siren, and two-way radio.

In addition to the water safety patrol, the WRPA has conducted several thousand brochures were printed and distributed to people using the river. Included are a river map and boating and safety regulations. The brochures have been so successful that more will be distributed this year.

A massive cleanup of the river also was organized and run through the auspices of the WRPA. During the campaign volunteers raised and removed over 200 sunken barrels from the shores and river bottom and moved debris and old docks out of the water.

Similar projects are planned for the river in all of Waupaca County.

Officers serving the WRPA are Geary Wilson, New London, chairman; William Kramer, Fremont, vice-chairman; and Paul Roloff, New London, secretary-treasurer.

Behind Last Year

82.04 Per Cent of Waupaca Taxes in

WAUPACA — The city's tax collections are 82.04 per cent complete this year, approximately 3 per cent under 1970, City Clerk Harriet Ward reported Monday.

This year's total tax roll was $994,880, plus $5,213 for special assessments, for an aggregate of $1,000,093, she said. This includes real estate personal property and special taxes.

On the Feb. 28 deadline, the record showed that city taxpayers chose to postpone $147,615 in taxes. These are due on or before July 31, 1971. Delinquent taxes totaled $31,972.

This year's taxes were based on an assessed valuation of $17,605,500. The rate was $56.50 per $1,000.

The apportionment of taxes for the year includes $432,814 for the Waupaca Unified School District; $27,197 for Vocational District No. 12; $187,595 for county expense; $5,581 for state taxes for the handicapped; and $340,789 for the operation of city government.

Itemizing the $5,213 special assessment, city property owners paid $5.52 for weed cutting; $1,864, curb and gutter; $458, sewer; $2,025, paving and other street improvements; $312, sidewalks; $76, snow removal; $32, water mains and laterals; $87, delinquent water bills; $122, delinquent sewer charges; and $230, miscellaneous services.

18-Year-Old Charged With Having Drug

A Marshfield youth was charged with possession of a dangerous drug Monday in connection with an incident in Little Chute early Monday.

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller gave Kenneth Rogers, 19, until Wednesday morning to consult with an attorney. Further proceedings will be before County Judge Nick F. Schaefer. Keller set bond at $400.

Little Chute police stopped Rogers, an 18-year-old Marshfield companion and two juvenile Kimberly girls on Madison Street in Little Chute about 2:40 a.m. A Kimberly squad car was summoned to take the girls home.

Little Chute police questioned Rogers about a bottle of wine they said he carried. Rogers, who carried a suitcase, told police he was looking for a motel.

When the Kimberly squad car pulled from its parked position, police found a small traveling kit underneath. Little Chute officers, and the patrolman driving the Kimberly squad car said the traveling kit had not been on the street when the squad car first pulled up.

Inside the kit, Little Chute police found a small plastic bag containing what a preliminary test at the police station showed to be marijuana.

The 18-year-old was questioned and released. He had been taken into custody with Rogers.

The charge, a misdemeanor, carries a possible maximum penalty of one year in the county jail.

Rural Hatley Girl Named Winner Of Laird Award

WITTENBERG — Jane Nemke, a senior in the Wittenberg-Birnamwood High School, has been awarded a Laird Scholarship. This award will cover her total expense of her freshman year at the University of Wisconsin, Marathon County Campus at Wausau.

This award is based on scholarship and leadership in the high school and in the community.

Miss Nemke, the national treasurer of the Future Homemakers of America, has recently been named to represent the national FHA organization at President Nixon's White House Conference on Youth. The White House Conference which is held every ten years, will take place in Estes Park, Colorado, April 18-22, 1971.

She has been invited to represent the FHA at the American Home Economics Association annual meeting June 28 to July 1, in Denver, Colo. She will be part of a student panel which will discuss today's social issues.

On June 11, she will travel to Washington, D. C. where, as treasurer, she will prepare the national FHA budget for 1971-72, for presentation to the executive council and the advisory board on June 12 convention. This year's national FHA Convention will be held at Kansas City, Mo., July 12-15. In addition to presenting her treasurer's report Jane will also preside at the fifth general session of the meeting and has already written the national officer's presentation skit which she will direct and narrate at the opening session of the convention. This hkit will give an over-all view of the convention's objectives which center on its theme, "Accent on Action-Discovery, Involvement, and Growth."

Jane is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nemke, Route 1, Hatley.

Police Investigate Thefts From Cars In New London

NEW LONDON — Authorities are investigating two incidents of thefts from autos which occurred Sunday night.

A purse was stolen from an auto owned by Melvin Dent, 1104 Oshkosh St., New London, which was parked on Lincoln Street. The purse was recovered in the alley behind the Coast to Coast Stor, and much of the contents were recovered. A wallet, some money and cards are missing.

Richard Hanson, route 2, New London, reported that someone cut the convertible top of his auto, and broke in, stealing about 20 tapes. The Hanson auto was in the parking lot at the intersection of N. Shawano and N. Water streets.

School Board To Hear of Drug Abuse

CLINTONVILLE — Carl Strassburg, project director of Title III Drug Abuse Program, will discuss the present status of the project at the meeting of the board of education at 7:30 p.m. today at the Longfellow elementary school.

The board has received a letter from CESA Coordinator Kenneth Poppy regarding the expiration of Francis Werner's term on the agency school reorganization committee, and this will be discussed.

Recommended specifications for submitting the school insurance program for bidding will be discussed. Changes needed will be made and specifications submitted to qualified agents so as to have an effective date of July 1, 1971.

Carl Bruggink will discuss W.I.A.A. position on summer basketball camps and a recommendation for a possible summer program in Clintonville.

Following other items on the agenda, the board will go into executive session to discuss negotiations between the board's committee and the Clintonville Education Association's committee. Supt. V. J. Wadleigh also will discuss personnel matters.

Dennis Marose and Laura Zahringer will reign over the Stockbridge High School Junior Prom April 30. Members of the court of honor are Dave Woelfel and Nancy Marose, Tom Behnke and Marilyn Schumacher, William Van Hoorn and Jean Hemauer, Joe Hoerth and Joan Hemauer, Marvin Thiel and Nancy Karls and Tom Daun and Debbie Custer. State Refuses Use of Jail

The State Department of Social Services has refused to consider Outagamie County's request that restrictions on the use of the county jail be lifted.

Both County Administrator Alvin Woehler and Sheriff Calvin Spice expressed disappointment at the state's position and said they would seek a meeting with V. A. Verhulst, state jail inspector, to determine whether the state could be convinced to change its mind.

The county had filed a request with the state on March 31 asking that restrictions on the jail's use be lifted in view of the action taken by the county in approving a bond issue for construction of a new facility.

Wilbur Schmidt, secretary of the state department, in a letter to Woehler, said that "documents filed fail to indicate that any actual work has commenced to replace the current inadequate facility. I am unable at this point to consider any change in the current order limiting use of the jail."

Woehler claimed the state was "changing the rules" as to what constituted commencing work. He said it was his understanding that the restrictions would be lifted when the county had formally committed itself to construction. This, he said, the county has done.

"I don't think we should accept this without further investigation," Woehler said.

Juveniles Expensive

Spice agreed but said he doubted if the state would allow the county to again house juveniles or women in the present facility under any conditions. And, he added, juveniles are the biggest expense.

"I would like some answers for what we can expect in the future when the walls (of the new jail) are going up," Spice said.

Presently, all juveniles and female prisoners are transported to the Brown County jail and the sentenced adult male prisoners are taken to Waupaca County. Only Huber Law prisoners and persons awaiting court appearance are kept in the Outagamie jail.

These restrictions were imposed by the state as alternative to completely closing the jail after the county had failed to comply with earlier state orders on updating jail facilities.

The original state order to correct jail deficiencies had been issued in March, 1968.

Bids on construction of the new jail are expected to be taken next month with construction expected to take between 18 and 24 months.

GOP Panel Aims At River Project

The executive committee of the Outagamie County Republican Party agreed Monday to look for ways to encourage local cooperation in attempting to have federal officials choose the Fox River for a river cleanup demonstration project.

The U. S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) reportedly is giving the Fox strong consideration as the river on which to employ latest management techniques in a national display of ways to clean a polluted river. The project is said to have a probable cost of $100 million.

The county GOP decided to look more closely at the prospects on the basis of a conversation between local party leaders and Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Green Bay, several days ago.

Byrnes told the group that strong cooperation between communities along the river is a fundamental requirement for a river to be chosen for the demonstration. Jerry West, Appleton, suggested a resolution encouraging local governments to cooperate.

Long Urges Wait

But Dist. Atty. James Long discouraged a public statement on the proposal until the party is better informed.

"It is unfortunate that too many people are in the business of putting out press releases" on such matters, Long said. "I find that there's nobody that really knows anything," he said.

His remarks were made amidst veiled references to the dispute over regional planning and federal grant coordination between the Fox Valley Council of Governments, (COG) and the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission. The initiative to seek the federal demonstration grant for the Fox has come from COG, while Northeastern, founded primarily as a watershed planning agency, has been moving in other directions.

Donald Brown, Appleton, program chairman, said Byrnes indicated during the informal discussion that other watersheds in the nation, where unified planning and enforcement already exist, "probably have the inside track" toward getting the demonstration grant.

Long warned the party against taking a stand in the local situation "because they like or don't like certain personalities," which he said is the basis for too many local actions.

Other members observed that according to impressions from the Brynes conversation the agency in charge should have both planning ability and enforcement powers. One suggestion was that the state Department of Natural Resources might be the agency to work through in seeking the grant.

Two Others in State

Two other Wisconsin rivers, the Wisconsin and the Milwaukee, also have been suggested for the project. Numerous rivers in other states also reportedly are under consideration.

Brown said he will be in Washington soon to meet with Byrnes on other matters and he agreed to attempt to learn more through the congressman.

William Heerman, Appleton, a delegate-at-large, told the executive committee the need for coordination among communities presents "a wonderful opportunity for John Byrnes." Heerman added, "He could be a marvelous catalyst" in bringing communities together.

Byrnes' district includes both Outagamie and Brown counties. Officials from both counties have been working together to some extent toward presenting the case for using the Fox for the demonstration.

Rule Changes For Board to Be Ditched?

Committee Supports Switch; DeLaHunt Shows Indifference

BY DON CASTONIA
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Proposed sweeping rule changes for the Outagamie County Board may get swept under the rug amid charges that the proposed changes were politically motivated.

The board's rules and legislative committee Monday night agreed to stand behind the proposed new rules as they were originally presented to the board last month, but Board Chairman Russell DeLaHunt, who also chairs the rules committee, said it made little difference to him whether the new rules were adopted

"I think we can function under any set of rules for the next year," he said. "The people on the board still will be the same."

The board chairman said there have been too many rumors that he wanted the rules changed for his benefit. "I don't want them (the rules) to be considered a power play of the chairman. I only wanted to see an orderly transition to the executive. I have fought for them, now I'm all fought out."

Change of Heart

Supv. Eugene Kloes, Appleton, asked, "What have we been doing here for the last six months?"

He charged that last Tuesday's county executive election results had something to do with DeLaHunt's change of heart on the rules. There must have been two sets of rules, Kloes said, one if Dist. Atty. James Long won and one if Administrator Alvin Woehler won.

The major proposed changes were to abolish the executive committee as it is now constituted and to replace it with a policy and finance committee; to create the position of legislative secretary to do research for the board; and to transfer final committee appointment power from the county board as a whole to the chairman.

The biggest issues were the new policy and finance committee and the legislative secretary.

Standing Committees

At present, the executive committee is comprised of representatives from the nine standing committees plus the board chairman and vice chairman.

The new policy and finance committee would have seven members.

Neither the board, at its March meeting, nor the rules committee Monday night, could agree on whether those seven members should be restricted to that one committee or if they also could serve on other standing committees.

Kloes and Supv. Charles Wussow, Appleton, felt supervisors on that committee should be restricted to that one committee to prevent their thinking from being influenced by membership on another committee.

No Restrictions

The other four members of the rules committee, however, indicated there should be no restrictions of that type.

Supv. Marvin Babbitt, Seymour, contended, "The more experience and the better the working knowledge of the county this committee has, the better off the county will be."

The proposed legislative secretary survived on a 3-3 committee deadlock on whether to delete the job from the rules presentation. DeLaHunt joined Kloes and Wussow in voting against taking the position out.

However, the placement of the job was altered from the earlier proposal to have someone directly responsible to the county board.

Deputy Clerk

Babbitt said state statutes make the county clerk responsible for all clerking functions of the county board and that the deputy county clerk was the logical person to function as the legislative secretary.

"If that office needs more help, someone in about the sixth grade could be hired," Babbitt said.

DeLaHunt said County Clerk Arthur Hoolihan has agreed to designate a person in his office to work with the board.

Kloes challenged that arrangement, saying if that were the way the statutes required the board to handle it, why did the county originally create the position of executive secretary?

DeLaHunt said that action technically had been illegal.

little in the way of major pollution problems, he added.

Evans said while there has been an effort under way by a group back by the Green Bay Chamber of Commerce to set up a Lower Fox control agency, so far the DNR has had no contact from county officials in this region indicating interest in establishing such an agency.

Fond du Lac has been the site of action toward coping with the problem on a single-county basis, however, he acknowledged.

During a January hearing conducted in Madison by the EPA to discuss the proposed boundaries, Gordon Bubolz of the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission objected that the boundaries cut across those of his planning agency.

"He seemed to think it cut him out of things, and the answer is no," Evans observed. He said Northeastern or any other regional planning commission could guide individual members counties to pass air quality measures and cooperate among themselves, within the confines of the air quality regions.

The Bubolz commission, for instance, could mobilize counties in its southern portion to cooperate with the Lake Michigan Region, and those to the north to work with the 11-county North Central air quality region, Evans said.

Counties in the Lake Michigan region include Winnebago, Outagamie, Calumet, Fond du Lac, Green Lake, Marquette, Waushara and Waupaca, all from the Lake Winnebago state administrative district, and Brown, Manitowoc, Sheboygan, Door, Kewaunee, Shawano, Menominee, Oconto and Marinette, which comprise the Lake Michigan Administrative District.

K-C Sales Up, Earnings Down for 1st Quarter

NEENAH — Kimberly-Clark Corp. today reported that first quarter sales increased slightly but earnings were down.

Net income for the quarter ended March 31 was $10.3 million compared with a record $15.4 million in the same period of 1970. Per share net income was 44 cents compared with 66 cents a year ago. Sales were $236 million, up from $231 million in the same quarter of 1970.

Guy M. Minard, chairman, said sales and earnings from the firm's U.S. household and feminine hygiene products were at all-time highs for the first quarter. The performance of several paper lines, however, was down from the year earlier period.

Consumer product sales gains, he said, in part reflected introduction of new products, including Teri roll towels and Kotique feminine care items.

Minard said modest price increases for some product lines were not enough to offset a continuing rise in raw materials, manufacturing, distribution and marketing expense. A five-month strike at one midwest printing papers plant which ended Feb. 8 also contributed to volume and profit declines of the paper segment.

Both sales and earnings of the company's subsidiary in England were off sharply as a result of an eight-week mail strike and generally poor economic conditions.

Minard noted that price increases, effective April 1 for several paper lines and for nessprint will help, but improvement in overall results for the year continues to hinge on significantly better general business conditions.

Figures for the three month period ending March 31 showed net sales of $236,352,000 as compared with $231,156,000 in 1970. Net income was down from $15,373,000 last year, to $10,326,000 in the same period this year. The average number of shares of outstanding stock was about 19,000 higher this year, at 23,396,000.

Firm Also Granted Increased Customer Service Charges

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — New, increased telephone rates and service charges will be imposed by the General Telephone Co. of Wisconsin, beginning with the first billings after the end of April.

The new rate schedules and service charges were approved last week by the state Public Service Commission. Base rates for General Telephone were last revised in 1960. Service charges moving equipment were last changed in 1968.

The new rate system provides for different rates for eight ranges of local service, determined by the number of customers that can be reached via local calls and various rates for single and multi-party lines and for residential and business connections.

While the base rates and service charges will be increased, charges formerly made for colored phones and long cords will be discontinued since colored equipment now is as readily available as the standard black and most customers choose the longer cords.

Changes at Brillion

Multi-party service will be discontinued at Brillion where all customers now have changed to one, two or four-party service and will be charged under the new rate schedule.

New rates for Nichols and Seymour, and Brillion where they apply will be $7.75 for residential one-party; $6.75, two-party; $5.80, four-party; $7.05, rural four-party, and $6.05, rural over four-party. Private business rates will be $14 50.

Chilton and Hilbert subscriber rates will be $7.90, one-party residential; $6.90, two-party; $5.95, four-party, $7.20, rural four-party; $6.20 rural over four-party, and $15, business one-party.

In Shiocton, Birnamwood and Black Creek new rates are $8.55, one-party residential; $7.50, two-party; $6 55, four-party; $7.80, rural residential four-party, $6.80 rural residential over four-party, and $17 for one-party business.

Installation costs will be raised from $6 to $10 for residential service. Moves and changes of equipment will be increased to $7.50 for residential phones.

Bowling Scores

BRILLION — Bev Kiekhaefer posted games of 172, 189 and 192 for a 553 series in women's Strik-Ettes bowling league, at Koffarnus Lanes.

Other high scores were Gina Piper's 538 series on games of 189, 181 and 168 and Nancy Krueger's 531 series on games of 174, 190 and 167.

Reese's Barber Shop team is in first place with a 55-23 record and and are in second place with a 50½-27½ record. Jentink's Chevy-Olds team has a 49-29 record in third place.

Police Seek Youths

Burglary Suspects Leave Bloody Trail

Two bloodstained trails, a demolished car and possible stolen property found inside the auto provided the only clues this morning to a burglary early today at the country Aire Club, 2311 W. Spencer St.

Outagamie County investigators are looking for two or three youths who apparently sped away in a car after triggering an alarm, then plowed off the dead end at S. Lynndale Drive onto the Chicago and North Western Railroad tracks.

Authorities said pools of blood were in the car and two blood-spotted trails led west of where the car came to rest on the tracks.

Investigators went to the Country Aire after the alarm sounded about 2:20 a.m. A rear door had been forced open and a coin-operated machine inside was tampered with.

Twenty minutes later, investigators were notified by the railroad that a severely damaged auto was on the tracks off the dead end at Lynndale.

Inside the car authorities found two handfuls of change, loose cigarette packages and a carton, a tape recorder, camera, electric shaver and other items. Police are looking for the source of the items, which they believe might be stolen. The materials were found in the trunk and passenger compartment of the auto.

An engineer of a train, a Chicago and North Western freight, bound for Fond du Lac, told investigators that about 2:30 a.m. he saw two male youths running toward Perkins Street.

Police said the auto was registered to a Wausau man. A check with Wausau authorities revealed that the owner's daughter had allowed a youth to drive the auto to Green Bay two days ago. The youth had told her that he would pick up friends in Green Bay.

County traffic officers and Appleton police surrounded the Country Aire and drew weapons when they thought the suspects still might be inside. They found tire marks near the club indicating the car was driven away at a high speed.

Authorities said the car, which had been southbound on Lynndale, snapped off a road sign, sheared off a sewer cover and bent a railroad track. The undercarriage of the auto was torn out, they said.

Checks at hospitals in the Fox Cities and in Oshkosh failed to disclose anyone who sought emergency treatment early today. Sheriff's department authorities said they received no word of hitchikers along U.S. 41 who appeared to be injured, nor did they receive any reports of residents' seeing injured or bleeding persons.

Authorities this morning were checking with railroad officials and police in Fond du Lac to determine whether the youths may have hopped the freight train to make their escape.

Police said the steering wheel of the auto was severely bent, indicating the driver was thrown against it when the car left the road.

An investigator, making a routine patrol check of a W. Wisconsin Avenue service station at 1:15 a.m., reported seeing three youths getting gasoline at the station in what he believed to be the same auto involved in the accident.

Two viles of blood samples will be sent to the state crime laboratory for analysis. The auto has been impounded at an Appleton wrecking service and is being held by authorities.

Hospital Group At Chilton Sets Dinner Program

CHILTON — The annual spring dinner to be held at the Eagles Hall April 26 was among topics at the April Board meeting of the Calumet Memorial Hospital Auxiliary.

Advance reservations must be made with Mrs. Arno Sohrweide, reservation chairman, by April 21.

Annual awards will be made by the service committee that evening, including the the first presentation of the 5,000 hour award.

The week of May 9-15 has been designated as Hospital Week. This week has been chosen to have a mother's tea for the Candy Stripers. It will be held from 4:15 to 6:15 Tuesday in the conference room of the hospital. Presentation of 50-hour teenage volunteer award pins will be made at the tea.

A bake sale will be held in the hospital lobby May 1, and a county-wide bake sale will be held on June 26.

Senior Citizen Program Planned

CHILTON — An informational meeting on the possible organization of a senior citizens recreation program will be held at the city hall at 2 p.m. Wednesday.

All senior citizens and interested persons are invited to hear Mrs. Mildred Zimmerman of the Department of Aging, Madison, who will be guest speaker.

Police & Fire Beat

CLINTONVILLE — Several juveniles were involved in separate incidents recently, Police Chief James Beggs said Monday.

On the evening of April 2, an automobile belonging to Francis O'Connor, Clintonville, was stolen from in front of Kuehl Motors, N. Main Street, and later abandoned after hitting a tree in the vicinity of 83 N. Main St. The driver fled.

Earlier that same evening, Beggs said, two juveniles stole a quart of liquor from an automobile parked on the south side of the city, and consumed it. One of the juveniles went home, and the other stole the car and wrecked it, according to his own admission. The youth who stole the car was under supervision of the welfare authorities, and he will be returned to a boys' school.

On April 6 between 6 and 9 p.m., two other juveniles entered Clintonville Riverside Golf clubhouse by breaking a window and stole two cases of beer. They have made statements to police, admitting the theft; and as a result of this, another theft of a case of beer from a residential garage has been resolved.

CHILTON — Florian T. Radke, 51, West Allis, paid a $75 fine for speeding 84 miles in a 54 mile zone. He appeared Monday before Calumet County Judge D. H. Sebora.

Mark A. Thiel, 18, route 2, Hilbert, was fined $125 by Sebora Monday for reckless driving.

Raymond H. Bangart, 32, route 1, Menasha paid a $75 fine when he appeared before Sebora, Monday for failure to have a valid drivers license. He also will spend 10 days in jail under the Huber Law.

CLINTONVILLE — Combined damage was estimated at $400 to the vehicles operated by Raymond Manser, 174 McKinley Ave., and Sharon Viergutz, 66 Seventh St., in an accident at 8:45 a.m. Sunday on Seventh Street at Auto Street.

WAUPACA — A route 2 Fremont man, Earl F. Henry, 54, pleaded guilty Monday in County Court Branch 2 to operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of an intoxicant and driving without a license.

Acting judge Wendell McHenry, levied a fine of $200, plus costs on the charge, or 90 days in the county jail; and a fine of $50, plus $9 costs, or 60 days in the county jail on the charge of operating without a license.

WAUPACA — David W. Jensen, 21, Milwaukee, was arrested and jailed Saturday following a disturbance at the King's Roost, Town of Farmington.

Monday he pleaded guilty to the charge of disorderly conduct and Judge Wendell McHenry fined him $50, plus $9 costs, or 30 days in the county jail.

Calumet Zoning Board Scheduled For Two Petitions

CHILTON — A public hearing has been scheduled for the Calumet County Zoning Board of Adjustments regarding petitions from two Town of Harrison residents.

The petition of David C. Twesme concerns a homesite on High Cliff Recreational Village Plat No.1, and that of Patrick M. Lemmers concerns a homesite at lot 9 of the first addition to Dorn's Winnebago Plat.

The hearing will be at 10 a.m. May 1 in the Harrison Town Hall.

Crash Injures 4 Near Greenville

GREENVILLE — A two vehicle accident late Monday afternoon on U. S. 45 resulted in injuries to both drivers and the two passengers in one auto. It occurred at the intersection just northwest of State 76.

A truck driven by Louis C. Ellenbecker, 48, route 1, Appleton, was struck in the rear by an auto driven by Lyman E. Wolfe, 59, 513 Oshkosh St., New London.

Ellenbecker sustained back and neck pains and Wolfe suffered chest pains and was bleeding from the ear. They were taken by ambulance to Appleton Memorial Hospital.

Passengers in the Ellenbecker vehicle, Lois Ellenbecker and Tammy Ellenbecker, sustained bumps, and Lois, neck pains.

Sherwood Legion Seeks Support For King Home

SHERWOOD — Members of the Thomas E. Kees American Legion Post have been asked to contact other veterans and urge them to write their assemblymen, senators and Gov. Patrick J. Lucey to retain the status of the Grand Army Home at King. Lucey's proposed budget cuts would limit service and construction at the home.

Robert J. Veeser, Chilton, Calumet County veterans' service officer, discussed the GI Bill and state loans available to veterans at a recent post meeting. He also told of the benefits available to veterans if they will let it be known that they are in need of help.

Roman Becker and James Rae were named delegates to the Sixth District Conference to be held Sunday at Winneconne.

Work parties are being organized for the annual Spring Festival to be held April 24 and 25 at the clubhouse and to prepare the baseball diamond at the Legion Park for the Youth League.

Preparations are being made to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the post on Veterans' Day. Anyone having suggestions for the celebration should contact the officers.

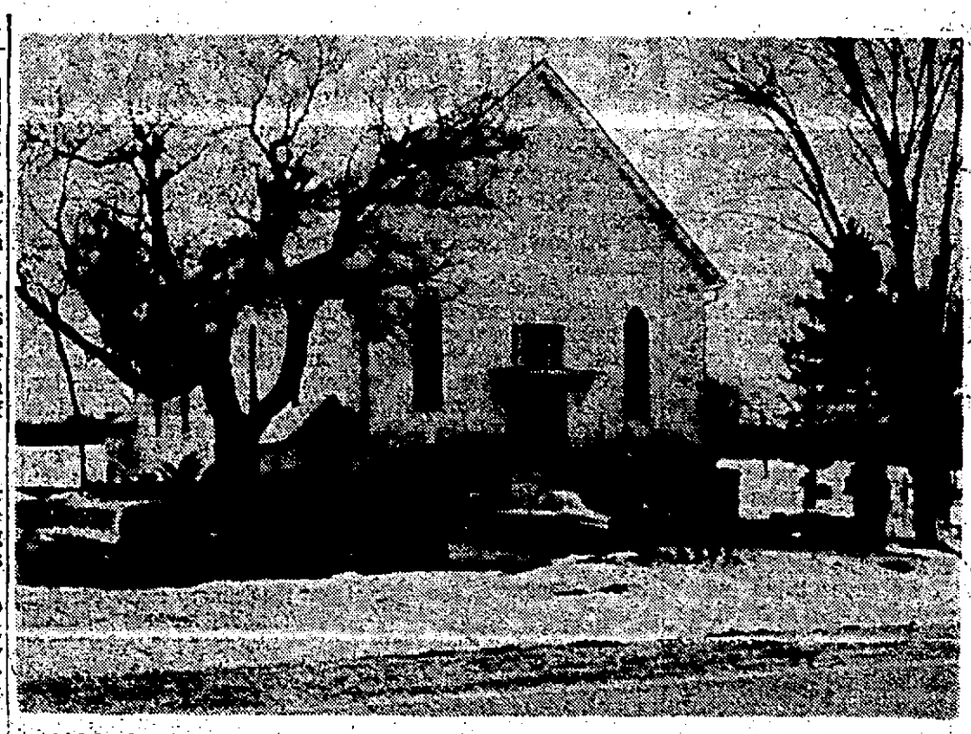
A nominating committee composed of Carl Hendricks, Alvin Drousth and Clarence Zahringer, was named to prepare a slate of officers for the next meeting.

Choir to Perform At Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — The choir from Concordia College, Milwaukee, will present a concert of sacred music at the St. Martin Lutheran Church a 7:30 p.m. Monday.

The choir is appearing on its annual spring tour, which includes concerts throughout Illinois, Missouri and Wisconsin.

The choir will sing selections with special emphasis on choral music of the 17th and 20th centuries. Accompaniment for much of the early music will be furnished by recorders and a harpsicord.



Old Ireland is pretty much a memory at St. Patrick Catholic Church in the Town of Lanark. The parish was founded over 100 years ago by Irish immigrants. People of Polish descent now are prominent on the parish rolls. (Loberg Photo)

Lanark Church

Irish History Runs Deep

BY ALICE LOBERG
Post-Crescent Correspondent

LANARK — The old Irish names have all but disappeared from the church's membership rolls, but the spirit of those early settlers lingers on here at St. Patrick Catholic Church.

The first church was built here just over 100 years ago by Irish immigrants who came to the area to take up farming and paid a dollar an acre for their little plots.

Among the early settlers to arrive in this southeastern Portage County community, according to Malcolm Rosholt's "Our County, Our Story," were Hugh McGreer, Robert Campbell, Henry Clinton, Patrick O'Riley, Angus McCauly and Patrick Dunn.

They were followed by Neill O'Neill, John Gallagher, Patrick Doran, Patrick McNamara, Moses P. Leary, James McVanamee, Patrick Reilly, Edmund Cooney, Barth Mahanna, Lakey Flynn, John Gray, Patrick Timlin, Michael Hopkins, Patrick Ryan, Michael Lynch, Patrick Sullivan, James Dougherty, Martin Loftis and Herman Clinton.

Visiting Priests

Roman Catholic priests would visit the community about every two months when they would say mass in homes and baptize, marry and bury local residents.

Records show that Thomas Padden, son of Patrick and Bridget Novin Padden, was the first child to be baptized in the community. Patrick Reilly and Bridget Cooney were the first couple to be married here. That was in 1858. The first funeral services were held for James Tobin.

Services have been held here regularly since 1856. In 1870, the first Catholic church in the area was built here. It measured 20 by 30 feet and had wooden benches for pews and a box heater, which later was used in the second and present church.

Stagecoaches passed by the church frequently then on what is now State 54.

Original Bell

The present 40 by 80 foot church was built in 1888 nearly was destroyed in a windstorm shortly afterward. But parishioners brought their teams of horses the next morning and pulled the framework back into place. The bell, donated by Patrick Ryan, still is in use.

In recent years, a basement has been dug under the church to make room for a furnace, kitchen and dining room.

An annual event is the St. Patrick's Day Dinner. Parishioners have been sponsoring the dinner for over 40 years.

The highway is busier today than when stagecoaches plied the route and Polish names have replaced a good share of the Irish, but the parish's foundation in the "auld sod" still remains.

Junior Women To Tour Plant At New London

NEW LONDON — The Junior Woman's Club will tour Glass Fab, Inc., at p.m. Monday before the regular meeting, which will be at the First State Bank meeting rooms.

Members have been asked to bring their coupons for the colonies, and any clothing that they might have for the Fashion Nook. Dues for the next year may be paid at the April or May meetings.

New officers have been elected by the organization for 1971-72. They are Mrs. M. K. Staskal, president; Mrs. Barry Hammerberg, vice president; Mrs. William Dresen, recording secretary; Mrs. Richard Stephenson, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Tom Bergman, treasurer.

On Saturday the club will sponsor a party for the residents of Villa St. Vincent. Girl Scouts from the area will present the program, and lunch will be served.

Freedom Scouts Plan Pancake-Porkie Supper

FREEDOM — Freedom Boy Scouts will hold their fifth annual pancake-porkie supper from 4-8 p.m. Sunday at the grade school here.

Tickets are $1 for adults and 50 cents for children 12 and under. Tickets will be sold at the door.

Recognition Set For Confirmands

CLINTONVILLE — A recognition night for the 1971 confirmation class, St. Martin Youth members, prospective members and parents will be held Sunday at St. Martin Lutheran School. A potluck supper will begin at 7:30 p.m.

A framed picture of Christ will be given to each member of the confirmation class in attendance.

Representatives from the Rawhide Camp near New London will show a film featuring Bart Starr and boys at Rawhide. The program also will include entertainment by the young people.

The event is sponsored by the St. Martin Youth, the school auxiliary and branch 496, Aid Association for Lutherans.

Rally April 20 For Lutheran Women's League

CLINTONVILLE — The Lutheran Women's Missionary League rally will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. April 20 at St. John Lutheran Church, Tigerton.

All ladies of the St. Martin Lutheran congregation here have been invited, whether or not they are league members. Reservations are to be made with a league circle chairman or at the church office.

Registration begins at 9:30 a.m. The program starts at 10 a.m. A $1.50 registration fee includes the noon meal.

The morning program will include a slide presentation by Mr. and Mrs. James Barton, former missionaries in New Guinea. Barton recently was hired as the busines manager for the North Wisconsin District. Their subject will be "The Lord's Work in the Mission Fields of New Guinea."

The afternoon program will include a topic entitled "When Sorrow Comes to the Family," and a skit, "Mrs. Do and Mrs. Don't."

New Chairman Was Unanimous Choice

Woodrow Smith Heads Waupaca Board

WAUPACA — Supv. Woodrow Smith of Clintonville, vice chairman of the county board for the past two and one-half years, was selected without opposition as the new chairman Tuesday.

His elevation followed the board's acceptance of the resignation of Chairman Harold E. Clark, Weyauwega. Smith will serve for one year.

The new chairman has been a supervisor since 1955 when he was appointed by the mayor of Clintonville to fill the unexpired term of Arthur Steenbock. He has served in many capacities, including chairman of the powerful finance committee.

Supv. Walter Ciura, towns of Dayton and Farmington, was elected vice chairman for the remaining one-year term. He was opposed by Supv. Benjamin Ferg, Town of Little Wolf, but won the post by a vote of 20 to 11.

Finance Chairman

Chairman Smith received the approval of the board to replace himself as finance committee head with Supv. Leonard Peterson, Waupaca. The board also approved retaining Clark as chairman of educational and agriculture committee.

Smith was reappointed to a three-year term on the board of director's of the Wolf River Mental Health Center.

Sheriff Loran Frazier reported to the board that there will not be another rock fest at Iola this year.

"I believe that I can safely say that we are not going to have another rock fest in the county this year," Frazier said. "The district attorney and I have spent many hours, day and night, on this. We have some 60 deputies vigorously training at this time and the promoters like weak counties.

Adams County

"... Through the cooperation of the law enforcement committee, state Rep. Francis Byers, the district attorney and you supervisors on the county board, we have gathered our strength and they are staying out."

Frazier told the board that he feels quite concerned for the people in Adams County, where promoters have requested permission to hold a rock fest this summer.

The law enforcement committee, after months of careful study, presented and had approved a resolution to provide one full-time investigator for the sheriff's department and one full - time patrolman for the Waupaca County patrol.

Both positions are for night duty. The men will be hired by and be responsible to the law enforcement committee, and the traffic patrolman will live in the Iola area. Each man will be furnished with a vehicle and equipment.

If possible, the positions will be filled by May 1. The resolution provides $10,000 to be transferred from the contingency fund to handle the cost. There is money in the budget this year for the two cars.

The two new officers are the committee's answer to Frazier's plea last fall for 24-hour protection within the county. County residents supported the plan at a December meeting.

General Relief

A resolution from Clintonville, Weyauwega and Waupaca to change general relief from the unit system to the county system was discussed at length.

Meeting Held To Test Support For Mutual Aid

Police Units Hope To Have Agreement By This Summer

CHILTON — About 45 municipal, town and village heads of government attended an informational meeting at the Calumet County Sheriff Department Monday evening as a preliminary step in forming a mutual aid program for law enforcement purposes.

Uncertainties about the mutual aid agreement were voiced by those in attendance, who expressed concern about liability in the event someone was hurt and responsibility for payment for this service.

It was pointed out at the meeting that some of the municipalities and villages have already established a small group of men to aid in enforcement in an emergency.

The mutual aid agreement when signed by the municipalities, villages and township heads will provide for emergency aid from each of them, the men to be supervised by the particular head of enforcement in the locality to which they are called, with the sheriff acting as an assistant.

The call up would come directly from the sheriff's department. Each group called would be paid by the individual governments with reimbursement from the government asking for their help.

Municipal groups would have about 20 men, townships two men and villages four men. At no time would the entire groups be called, but only half of the manpower, which would leave half of the men to stay in their respective communities.

Waupaca Lists Welfare Costs At $465,300

WAUPACA — The Waupaca County Board had its first look at an annual report from the county's Department of Social Services, Tuesday and found it more meaningful than fiscal year reports which had formerly been given.

Director Robert Payette, who gave the report, commented, "This annual report covers the period from Jan. 1 through Dec. 31, 1970 and it gives a true picture of a year's activities since it shows the State and Federal reimbursements as well as the expenditures.

"When we reported to you in November of each year, our reimbursements were not applicable to the current year because there is a three or four month lag, and it appeared that we never caught up," he added.

During 1970 expenditures for the department were $2.4 million and state and federal reimbursements were $1,946,133.

Waupaca County's share of the cost was 19 per cent, or $465,300, making available to the eligible county residents Old Age Assistance, Aid to Dependent Children (in their own homes, foster homes and institutions) blind aid, disabled aid and medical assistance.

Many Changes

"The past year again saw many changes," Payette said. "The 1969 Wisconsin Legislature eliminated and reduced the Public Assistance programs. Aid to families of unemployed fathers was eliminated and this shifted the cost back to the general relief program."

He pinpointed the child welfare program as one of the most active in the agency, involving the courts, law enforcement, schools and many public and private agencies. At the beginning of 1970 there were 108 cases; 104 new referrals were received during the year; and 107 cases were discontinued, with services provided to 212 cases throughout 1970.

The total cost for medical assistance was $952,314 and the county's share was $192,082.

At the beginning of the year there were 270 Old Age Assistance (OAA) cases, with 59 new ones accepted and 95 discontinued, leaving 234 cases active at the end of the year.

This program provides financial assistance and services to the aged in their own homes and nursing homes. Along with meeting their basic needs the agency encourages community activities, the use of homemaker services, counciling and enlisting the help of relatives and friends to assist in planning for their well-being.

Cost $279,577

OAA had a total expenditure of $467,300, received federal and state payments of $169,557 and cost the county $279,577.

The county's greatest cost was for medical assistance and at the beginning of 1970 there were 1,057 cases, 328 new cases were added, 382 cases closed and the caseload as of July 1, 1971 was 1,003.

Medical assistance is included in benefits to eligible residents at Old Age Assistance. Aid to Dependent Children, blind aid

County May Hire Indigent Counsel

A proposal to change the indigent counsel system that was revised somewhat from a recommendation made Tuesday morning by the Outagamie County Board's Courts and Justice Committee will go to the board next week.

At its morning session, the committee approved a proposal by Supv. John R. Schreiter of Appleton who called for the hiring of two attorneys at an annual salary of $8,000 each, who would serve part-time as counsel for criminal defendants who cannot afford to hire attorneys.

The plan, if adopted, would serve as an alternative to the courts appointing a large number of attorneys in indigency cases. Indigent defense costs to the county last year totalled $25,000.

Although Schreiter's proposal remained basically unchanged, some alterations were made Tuesday afternoon after the committee met with Judge Urban P. Van Susteren.

At his suggestion, the proposed salaries for two part-time defense attorneys were lowered to $500 a month. "Don't give them too much money," Van Susteren told committeemen. And he advised them, "look for kids fresh out of (law) school."

Monthly Salary

A monthly rather than an annual salary was adopted so it would be easier for the county to abandon the indigent counsel plan should it be declared illegal by the State Supreme Court. There has been some question about the legality of counties establishing indigent counsel offices as such. The committee was told that five bills are pending in the state legislature dealing with that subject.

Van Susteren telephoned William Platz, an assistant state attorney general, who, in an informal opinion, said he "sees no legal objections" to the Outagamie proposal as long as the judges name the two attorneys.

The committee had proposed that the criminal court judge appoint the two part-time attorneys. However, at Van Susteren's suggestion, the appointments would be approved by all four judges in the county, including the circuit judge.

The county last year recovered about $7,000 of the $25,000 spent on indigent counsel.

Supv. Paul Huseby of Appleton, committee chairman, asked if it would be possible to get reimbursement under the proposed indigent plan, since the part-time attorneys would be paid a flat salary rather than a per-case fee.

Schreiter said he thought it

Chilton Board Approves School Calendar for 71-72

CHILTON — The board of education this week approved the proposed calendar of 190 days for the coming school term, which has been negotiated with the Chilton Education Association and conincides with neighboring schools.

Two letters read during the hearing on the calendar asked that the school year be from Labor Day to Memorial Day weekend. It was noted that many families plan a late vacation because the laboring men are off during that time.

It also was pointed out that starting the school year in August before fair time did not give 4-H members enough time to get their projects finished for the fair entry day. Some persons felt that Easter vacation could be shorter.

The calendar as approved calls for the 1971 school term to open Aug. 30. Inservice training days for teachers will be Aug. 25, 26 and 27, and the end of the school year will be June 2. Inservice days number 4, holidays and conventions, 6, and student days, 180, which is required by state law.

Mrs. Diane Gillig, high school speech and English teacher, reported on the dramatics program to the board. In her two years here, students have put on two plays, "Bell, Book and Candle" and "Oklahoma." At first, she said, just juniors and seniors went out for dramatics, and some very good talent in the freshman, sophomore classes was going unnoticed, but the production of "Oklahoma" was an all-school effort.

She said that dramatics help the students learn to express themselves verbally and technically through working on the sets. Often, Mrs. Gillig said, students can leave a high school with enough technical talent to earn money in helping to produce plays.

She said she would like the school board to consider becoming a member of the National Thespian Society. It helps the prestige of the school to be connected with a national society, she said, and it would make it possible for the school to compete in productions.

Robert Garfield, elementary principal was given authorization for a field trip to the Milwaukee County Zoo for the kindergarten class of 135 on May 21.

Also approved was a project either in science, reading or mathematics which would be funded under the National Defense Education Act. About $1400 is available through this program to the school.

Supt. A. W. Gordon was authorized to advertise for bids for the removal of elm trees on the school property and to accept the low bid.

James Skarda, principal, noted that there will be no summer typing class this year because of lack of interest. He also noted that the Packerland Conference ruling for tickets to all inter-scholastic activities sets rate at: adults $1, students, 50 cents and children, 25 cents.

C of C Week Proclaimed At Waupaca

WAUPACA — The week of April 18 has been designated Chamber of Commerce Week by Mayor Edward Kramer.

Kramer called on citizens, organizations and institutions in the city to recognize the contributions which the C of C has made during the years.

"All of the citizens of this community are proud of its Chamber of Commerce and the efforts it has made in making the city a better place in which to live and work," the mayor noted.

"Through its 175 active members, who are always in the forefront when a worthwhile civic project is underway, our Chamber of Commerce champions free enterprise, encourages private initiative and offers its organizational framework to make the business community an effective partner in our civic, cultural, economic and educational activities," Kramer continued.

"When matters of common interest have been under consideration, members of the Chamber always have been ready to counsel with city government — and this will be our way of expressing our recognition and gratitude."

Club's Contest On Bike Safety Closes Today

CLINTONVILLE — The bicycle - safety poster contest sponsored here by the Junior Woman's Club closed today and winners will be announced Friday. Judging will take place Thursday night.

Parents are being asked to check out their children's bicycles to see that they are of the right size, and the brakes, lights and reflectors should be checked periodically. If a bicycle is too large for a child, it is difficult to maneuver in traffic and could very likely be the cause of a serious accident.

Children also should be taught all the rules of the highway, and to obey all traffic signs.

A safety and skill test will be held April 24, in conjunction with the Veterans of Foreign Wars "Light-A-Bike" program and of taping bicycles with reflector tape which "lights up" in the dark. The location will be announced later for the test.

Co-chairmen of this project for the Junior Woman's club are Mrs. Dan Diener and Mrs. Larry Bricco.

Group for Retarded Will Meet April 21 At Plamann School

The monthly meeting of the Association for Mentally Retarded Children will be at 8 p.m. April 21 at Plamann School. This is the final meeting until fall.

Dr. W. L. Bewley of Lawrence University will speak on "Learning Theory and Mental Development."

The annual dinner to end the season and install new officers has been set for May 19 at Ninos Supper Club. George L. O'Donnell, president of the Wisconsin Association for Retarded Children, will be the speaker.

Library Club Plans Book Fair at Freedom

FREEDOM — The Junior High School Library Club will sponsor a student book fair from April 19-22. Students will be able to purchase books.

On Thursday, parents are invited to the fair at the elementary and jr. high school from 7 to 9 p.m. to see and purchase books.

District to Get Public Relations Plan

WAUPACA — The board of education accepted Tuesday a 10-point public relations program, a suggested framework for delineating school needs to the community and an outline for improving the district's educational program and facilities.

Supt. Len Brittelli, prefaced his explanation of the public relations program by saying, "These do not relate only to buildings; it is a method by which everyone will be able to understand the role of parents and citizens, teachers and educators."

For his 10-point program he stressed:

— That it be based upon faith in the good intent of most people to provide good education and adequate facilities. He suggested a program which would involve the community and give people alternative ways of meeting needs.

— That on one level it should provide leadership on the part of the school administration (the board of education and the superintendent) and, more important, involve the participation in the program by members of the community.

— That public understanding leads to support of the schools.

— That all segments of the community be reached through volunteers.

— That not only printed materials, but opportunities for group meetings and person-to-person contacts be provided.

— That members of the board of education and the school staff be involved.

— That people have the right to know how effectively the program of education is progressing.

— That progress in education depends upon the consent of the citizens to accept and provide for the change.

— That partnership be developed between the school and community, as both work together on the educational program.

— That the responsibility of citizens for the quality of education and its impact upon society should be clarified.

This, the superintendent said, could be accomplished by tapping the resources of the community, each person giving of his talents and special training in a citizens council or advisory committee. Such a council would consist of a steering committee working with a finance, school building, and an instructional and public relations campaign committee.

"Each committee's duties would be spelled out; there would be a public list of committee members; summary reports of each committee meeting and, finally, the findings and recommendations of each committee," Brittelli said.

The committee's findings would be advisory, and a final decision would rest with the board of education.

To start it off, Brittelli prepared an 11-page pamphlet which contains a review of present facilities and programs at the elementary, junior high school and senior high schools; a suggested program of changes in the educational program at all levels and an overview of building needs.

"It would be ill-advised to transfer what we are doing now in our present facilities to a new building," the superintendent added. "Let's approve the educational programs first and then talk about a new school."

He said his proposals were only a starting point and he hoped that they would be discussed and studied with enthusiasm. The plan will be presented to the teaching staff within the next two weeks.

The first meeting to discuss the suggested improvements will be held on April 27.

The board approved the appointment of Dr. Jack Brueckner to fill the unexpired term of Otto Rusch Jr. Brueckner was elected to a regular three-year term on the board in the April election and will begin that term in July.

The school year will be extended from June 4 through June 8, to make up two of the five days lost because of bad weather. Approval was given by

Over 40,000 Members

Giant Dairy Cooperative Formed

BY DAVID WEITZ
Post-Crescent Farm Editor

FOND DU LAC — Associated Milk Producers, Inc., (AMPI) became the largest dairy cooperative in Wisconsin Tuesday as Pure Milk Products Cooperative (PMPC) delegates okayed a merger of their bargaining organizations.

The vote came after limited discussion. Delegates cast ballots for 9,892 members with 8,035 ratifying the merger which was supported unanimously by the organization's board of directors when proposed in February. The merger will become effective May 1.

The decision to combine the cooperatives actually was favored by 81.2 per cent of the vote. A two-thirds majority is required for passage.

Pure Milk Products Cooperative, with more than 11,000 members, was the largest cooperative in the state. An official estimated its net assets at $1.5 million.

Largest Cooperative

The merger is the largest in the 19-month history of Associated Milk Producers Inc., which has mushroomed from its San Antonio headquarters to stretch to Canada. The enterprise is the largest regional dairy cooperative in the nation, claiming more than 30,000 members before the merger.

Last year PMPC members shipped an estimated 3 billion pounds of milk. AMPI members marketed an estimated 10 billion pounds of milk in 1970.

PMPC will join the Tri-State Region of the organization which encompasses parts of Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin.

Paul Affeldt, Sparta, PMPC president, will replace John Butterbrodt. Burnett, as president of the region. Butterbrodt will remain president of AMPI.

37 New Delegates

The package also places 37 new PMPC delegates on the Tri-State Region board of directors which now totals 32 members. Operations of the PMPC headquarters here will be changed little for the present time.

Affeldt blamed "old animosities" for the 18.8 per cent vote against the merger. "There are still people who are more loyal to their own chamber of commerce and their dairy plants than to their dairy co-ops."

Present PMPC contracts with dairies will remain in force, according to Butterbrodt.

Both stressed that unification will add strength to dairymen. "I think they'll surely have a much larger unified voice in the Chicago order," said Affeldt.

Market Assured

Farmers switching from Grade B to Grade A milk production will be assured of a market, according to Affeldt. "The Grade B farmers are going to be turning Grade A and this is going to assure them of an outlet either through the order or through the standby pool."

The organizations already have been coordinating activities closely for six months, said Butterbrodt.

"When we went to the White House in March, Paul Affeldt and Bill Eckles were with us," he said. Eckles is general manager of Pure Milk Products Cooperative. AMPI and other farm organizations appealed to White House representatives for higher price support levels for milk shortly before Secretary of Agriculture Clifford Hardin increased payment levels.

Butterbrodt said the merger will give AMPI added political wallop. "We'll be stronger in the legislative and marketing fields."

Marion Youth Given ROTC Scholarship

MARION — Randal Schroeder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Schroeder, Marion, a sophomore at Oshkosh State University, has been notified that he has been awarded a two-year Army ROTC scholarship.

The selection was made when the ROTC Board convened at Fifth United States Army Headquarters.
